WASHINGTON ATTACK LED BY WEST, CRONIN

Morris and Durham Issue 4 Consecutive Walks in Opening Inning.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Boston, Mass., July 7.—"General" Alvin Crowder today assumed command of the Washington forces and led them into first place in the American League pennant parade, pitching the Nats to an 8-to-1 victory over the Red Sox. As the Mackmen, who had been occupying the top perch almost daily for more than a month, idled, they were forced to step down, for the time being at least, even though matching respective victories and defeats shows the Quaker City Team half a game to the good. This was the Nats' eighth straight triumph, their seventeenth in their last twenty starts and Crowder's fifth consecutive victory since being traded by St. Louis.

Crowder pitched brilliant ball throughout, although letting down perceptibly after his mates had given him a substantial lead. He was opposed by Ed Morris, "Bull" Durham and Joe Bushey, with the loss being charged to Morris despite the fact that he did not grant a hit. This was due to the fact that he walked three in a row with two dead in the first, and when Durham, his relief, passed West, the Nats took a lead which they never relinquished.

West Leads Attack.

All of the Nats except Myer and Crowder took part in the Washington attack, with Sam West acting as the "General's" chief aid, the center fielder's double, single, walk and two sacrifices driving home four runs. Joe Cronin had the greatest number of hits credited him, however, getting three singles.

Crowder allowed but eight safeties, an odd feature being that half of them netted two bases each, with Scarritt and Miller showing the way, this pair connecting for a single and a double. It was not until the eighth that Scarritt's two-bagger robbed Crowder of a shutout.

As to the game itself it was no contest. The Nats netted a gift run in the first and then added one more in four other frames, having an eight-run lead when the Red Sox finally broke into the scoring column.

Two were out when Morris suddenly lost all sense of direction and packed the aisles on three successive walks. Durham then took up the mound duties for the natives and passed West, forcing one run across.

Nats Resume Scoring.

After two Washington hits had been wasted in the second, Cronin's single, a walk and sacrifice flies by West and Bluege netted one more tally in the third and the Nats doubled their total in the fifth. These runs came after singles by Manush and Cronin and a pass to Judge had filled the bases with none out. West singled two home before Durham could put on the brakes.

In the sixth Rice's triple and Manush's sacrifice fly put the Nats 5 up, while they called it a day with a three-run splurge in the seventh. Four successive doubles, all real ones, by Judge, West, Bluege and Spencer did the damage and brought Bushey into action, and he managed to get

Calvin Coolidge

Says: Some of our people are expressing regret because we did not appear at the London conference with the largest navy in the world. If we had done so they assume we would have been able at once to dictate to other nations a treaty entirely to our advantage. That would have meant a recourse to the old rule of force. They must conclude that we would have secured an agreement by which we would say just what our own and other navies should be. It did not work that way at the Washington conference. We had to reduce our capital ships—to a system of parity. We greatly outclassed Italy and France, but they left London without agreeing to our terms. With the world as it has been since the war we could have taken no course that would have injured us more in the estimation of humanity than by adopting a building program that could have been considered a menace to other countries.

No one can now claim that we were forcing a reluctant world to arm. Our moral power at London was far greater because we were not attempting to lead in naval strength, but were attempting to lead in naval limitations.

VETERANS' BUREAUS MERGER BILL SIGNED

PENSIONS RULE DRAWN

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday signed a bill which authorizes him to consolidate all governmental activities affecting war veterans under the Veterans' Bureau.

The measure authorizes the President to consolidate and coordinate the Veterans' and Pensions Bureaus and the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers under an agency to be known as "Administration of Veterans Affairs."

The legislation was recommended to Congress by Mr. Hoover in his annual message.

Under the present system the Pensions Bureau is operated by the Interior Department, the Soldiers' Home by the War Department and World War veterans' activities by the Veterans' Bureau, an independent agency.

World War veterans entitled to benefits of the new pension bill which went into effect last week must file application if they want the disability allowance, it was announced yesterday by Capt. Edwin S. Bettelheim, jr., chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars national legislative committee, following a conference with Director Hines, of the Veterans' Bureau.

The bureau, he said, has prepared a form for these applications, which when filled out may be sent directly to the Veterans' Bureau or forwarded through the veterans' organization.

Capt. Bettelheim said an impression was current that veterans who previously had applied for compensation and had been turned down might consider the earlier applications sufficient. This is not the case, he said, and compensation granted will date from the day of application.

Ticket Scalpers Fined $100 Each

Third Defendant Is Discharged by Judge for Lack of Evidence.

Two men arrested at Griffith Stadium, July 4 on charges of ticket scalping were fined $100 each by Judge Robert E. Mattingly in Police Court yesterday. A third was released because of insufficient evidence.

In sentencing the two defendants, Judge Mattingly said, "You have been found guilty of the rottenest, lowest thing a man can do. I'm sorry that the law does not permit a heavier fine." The men gave their names as Martin Kline and Arthur Abrams.

Guy Stevens, of Baltimore, was released for lack of evidence.

JUDGE, FIVE OTHERS HELD IN MAIL FRAUD

MADE $11,000 ON STOCK

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—City Magistrate George F. Ewald, his brother, Dr. Louis A. Ewald; the Cotter Butte Mines, Inc., of Butte, Mont., and four officers of the company were indicted today by a Federal grand jury on charges of mail fraud in promotion of its stock.

The indictment charges that Magistrate Ewald, his brother and the four others falsely represented to purchasers that the Montana mine was a rich property; that they said the purchase price of the stock would all go into the treasury whereas it was shared between the treasury and five officers, and that they represented that it would be listed on the curb exchange, although no action looking to that end ever was taken.

Magistrate Ewald, the indictment said, was a vice president of the company for a time, then a director, and made between $11,000 and $12,000 in commissions on stock he sold to friends.

One of these friends, the indictment charged, was a man named Abe April who appeared at the magistrate's chambers to intercede for a business associate charged with a traffic violation. April bought 1,000 shares of stock, the grand jury alleged, and his friend was given a suspended sentence.

Magistrate Ewald declined to comment on the indictment. He has been ordered to appear before Chief Magistrate Joseph Corrigan tomorrow. Evidence unearthed by the grand jury has been sent to the Bar Association.

The four named with Magistrate Ewald and his brother in the indictments were Harry C. Cotter, president of the company; Frank E. Mitterlechner, secretary and treasurer; Frank M. Bins, mine manager, and Francis M. Schirp, promoter. Dr. Ewald was a vice president of the company.

Mellon's Son to Learn Handling of Fortune

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Paul W. Mellon, son of Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, was en route to his home in Pittsburgh tonight to spend three months in his uncle's bank to learn the "rudiments of finance."

Young Mellon, who is heir to a fortune estimated at $500,000,000, said on his arrival here today that the training he receives in the bank will be used only in conducting his personal financial affairs.

He has no intention of succeeding his father as head of the vast Mellon interests, he said, but instead will seek a career in the book publishing field. He is a student at Clare College, Cambridge, England, and is home for his summer vacation.

MAJ. GOTWALS APPOINTED AS DISTRICT HEAD

Will Relieve Col. Ladue July 21, Before Term of Incumbent Ends.

QUITS ST. LOUIS POST TO COME TO CAPITAL

Maj. Robb Begins Work as Assistant Engineer Commissioner.

APPOINTEE'S RECORD FAMILIAR TO HOOVER

Maj. John C. Gotwals, of the Corps of Engineers of the Army, yesterday was named in War Department orders to be Engineer Commissioner of the District, effective July 21.

Maj. Gotwals will relieve Col. William B. Ladue, who has been Engineer Commissioner of the District for the last three years, but whose term in that office, under the usual four years' assignment practice of the Army, would not expire until August next year.

No announcement was made about the reassignment of Col. Ladue to other duties. Col. Ladue is one of the high ranking colonels of the Army and will be due for retirement in another three years.

Robb Succeeds Atkins.

At the same time Maj. H. L. Robb, of the Army Engineer Corps, yesterday assumed his duties as Assistant Engineer Commissioner.

Mr. Robb fills the vacancy caused by the transfer of Maj. L. E. Atkins to duty in Alaska. The new Assistant Engineer Commissioner presented himself to Col. Ladue yesterday morning, and immediately plunged into the task of familiarizing himself with his new duties.

Maj. Robb put in an appearance at the District Building Saturday, which was a legal holiday, and postponed his formal plunge into his new work until yesterday.

Change Evokes Surprise.

There were reports when the two civilian commissioners of the last Board of Commissioners were replaced by Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby that President Hoover desired to put in charge of District affairs an entirely new board of commissioners. But as time went on and nothing definite came of the reports, it had come to be believed that this plan had been abandoned and the change announced by the War Department yesterday came as a surprise.

Col. Ladue himself was given no notice of the change, and when he left the District Building late yesterday confined himself to the statement that he knew only what he had read in the newspapers and had been told by reporters.

Several times the District Commissioners have voiced disapproval of proposals which have been designed to extend the Federal control over affairs in the National Capital through one or the other of the offices held by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant

ROCKEFELLER TO PASS QUIET 91ST BIRTHDAY

Regular Routine Will Be Followed Today by Oil Magnate.

NINE HOLES OF GOLF PRINCIPAL EXERCISE

STATEMENT ON FETE STRESSES GOOD WILL

Dinner With Household to Climax Occasion in Pocantico Hills.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 7 (A.P.).—John D. Rockefeller will be 91 years old tomorrow, but there isn't going to be any particular fuss or bother about it.

He will pass the day in the quiet and pleasant routine that has filled most of his days since he retired from active business life almost twenty years ago. In the morning nine holes of golf on his own course at Pocantico Hills, with a few of his neighbors as companions. In the afternoon an automobile ride through the Westchester Hills.

In the evening, probably, a family dinner and a birthday cake, although nothing was said about either today. It was merely announced that Mr. Rockefeller expected to spend a quiet birthday at Pocantico Hills in his usual routine of work, play and rest.

Statement by Mr. Rockefeller.

Through the Standard Oil offices in New York, Mr. Rockefeller issued a birthday statement.

"It gives me great pleasure to say," the statement read, "that I have had more kindnesses shown me during the last year from every part of the country than ever before in my life, and it is needless to state that I am unspeakably grateful. I am in the best of health, surrounded by dear friends, and have naught but good will toward all."

As exact as the schedule of any active business executive is the daily routine Mr. Rockefeller has worked out for himself and by which he has lived for many years.

Rises at 7 o'Clock Daily.

He will be up at 7 tomorrow morning, make the rounds of his big Georgian granite house at Pocantico Hills, giving each servant a brand-new dime or nickle, and then go for a short walk about the grounds. At Pocantico Hills he can walk in formal gardens, if he pleases, or among shady paths through the woods, where wild flowers grow.

There will be a fairly hearty breakfast. Mr. Rockefeller does not suffer from indigestion now and never has, popular belief to the contrary. Whoever is at breakfast with him will get a shiny new dime, and Mr. Rockefeller on his ninety-first birthday will, as usual, say the blessing.

After breakfast—as after lunch and after dinner—there will be some numerica, the game of numbers, which Mr. Rockefeller adopted to keep everybody from rushing away from the table right after eating.

At 9:15 he will retire to his study for an hour of work over his financial

SECRET DOCUMENTS ARE MAJOR ISSUE IN SENATE PACT DEBATE

REED AND JOHNSON CLASH OVER CABLES

Session Becomes Lively When McKellar Asks Data Be Bared.

NORRIS TAKES STAND FOR FRANK METHOD

Long Swanson Speech on Treaty Scheduled for Delivery Today.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

After President Hoover's message had laid the groundwork for consideration of the London Naval Treaty yesterday, the question of whether or not the Senate is entitled to the secret documents bearing on the pact became the major issue and will probably have to be decided before the treaty itself can be dealt with.

No sooner had the spotlight become focused on the secret documents issue than keen interest supplanted the dullness which featured the opening hour of the special session. Senator McKellar, who introduced the resolution calling for the secret documents, Senator Reed, who defended the secrecy, and Senator Hiram Johnson, who upheld the Senate's right to the information, were the star actors of the first day of the treaty battle.

Pro-treaty forces scored handsomely at the outset when the quorum call brought 58 responses, showing only 38 absentees. The regular Republican leaders had been worried over a possible lack of the necessary 49 but Senators Allen and Vandenberg, leaders of the Young Guard, had been more confident that the initial roll-call vindicated the judgment of the new leaders.

Few Hear Message Read.

After a necessary interval of delay, the President's message was read to a comparatively small number of senators who remained on the floor. The message was in line with arguments already made on several occasions by Senator Reed and concluded with a strong appeal for action and with a warning that the world would be plunged backward from its progress toward peace if the treaty was not ratified.

The galleries were not crowded and there was no single diplomat present. Senators, looking somewhat refreshed from their brief respite over the holidays, were apparently not yet ready to plunge into the battle and few remained at their desks while the clerk continued reading the message.

After the President's message had been read, Senator Borah announced that he would move for an adjournment until today as soon as the treaty had been read. At this point Senator McKellar sent his resolution to the desk, calling for the secret documents, and senators pricked up their ears as the resolution was read. Senator Reed, who was one of the American delegates to the London Conference, obtained recognition.

Cable Copies Available.

"Much has been made of the matter of disclosing the cables exchanged between the President or the State Department and the American Ambassador at London," said Senator Reed.

"Copies of all of these cables were submitted to the senator from Arkansas (Mr. Robinson) and myself in confidence in preparation for the work at London. I still have the copy which was submitted to me in confidence and, as I said to the committee when the question arose there, I shall be very glad to show the correspondence to any senator who will accept it in the confidence in which I accepted it. The senator who

Gov. Campbell Assumes Duties of Office in Capital.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A tall, wiry man from the Southwest who has been a cowpuncher, mining engineer and statesman, is president of the United States Civil Service Commission today.

Thomas E. Campbell, former Governor of Arizona, took the oath of office yesterday afternoon in a room filled with flowers, photographers and well-wishers, and immediately thereafter plunged into his job of handling the affairs of a half-million Government workers.

He takes over an office that was made vacant when William C. Deming resigned to enter the race for the senatorial nomination in Wyoming.

"I come to this post with no fads or fancies," Gov. Campbell said, "but simply with the hope that I will be able to serve the commission and the workers over whom it has jurisdiction."

Looking out for welfare of workers is no strange task for the new commission chief. Twenty-nine years ago, when he was a boy legislator in Arizona, he became a crusader in that field. Having seen men fall from overwork in copper mines, he intro-

CANNON URGES PLAN FOR CENSUS CHANGE

WOULD AID DRY FORCES

(Associated Press.)

Exclusion of unnaturalized aliens from the population count to be used in the reapportionment of congressional representation was described yesterday by Bishop James Cannon, jr., as "the most important legislative proposition before the country."

The views of the Southern Methodist leader were contained in a statement on the prohibition situation he prepared before sailing last Sunday night from New York on the Aquitania for Brazil.

"These unnaturalized aliens," he said, "are estimated to number 7,500,000 and give to wet metropolitan centers about 30 congressmen and 30 electoral votes. Were they eliminated in the enumeration, the basis of apportionment would be correspondingly lowered and States like Virginia, which now seem certain to lose a congressman, might retain the present number.

"There should be a prompt, sharp drive to get this resolution (the Stalker resolution for submission of a constitutional amendment to achieve the alien exclusion) through Congress before Christmas and then press it through the State Legislatures during the winter of 1931. The time is short, but by persistent systematic work it can be done."

The alien exclusion proposal arose last year when Representative Hoch (Republican), Kansas, secured its adoption as an amendment to the

ROME GIVES STAND ON EUROPEAN UNION

Disarmament Is Made One Point as Basis for Talk on Briand Plans.

ATTITUDE IS SURPRISE

Rome, July 7 (A.P.).—Italy today made known to France that disarmament must be one of the conditions upon which she would be willing to enter into discussions of a "United States of Europe," in a reply to the recent memorandum of Aristide Briand, French foreign minister. Other conditions were unfolded by the formal note sent by the Italian foreign office to the French.

Cooperation as members of a union but not of a unity, with the absolute independence of all participants; the participation of Russia and Turkey, and the rejection of a combination of such a federation for security without disarmament summed up the Italian viewpoint as expressed in three "principles" enunciated.

The memorandum forwarded to France said:

"Disarmament, this essential principle which in the memorandum of the French republic is not expressly nor incidentally formulated, constitutes, in the opinion of the Fascist government, the point of fundamental departure for efficient work toward moral cohesion among the nations, for the integral development of the general problem of security and in order to give practical consistency and elementary reason for its being to any project of the Federal European union."

The reply states that every danger tending to weaken the sense of solidarity among peoples upon which

August Heckscher, 81, Millionaire, Marries

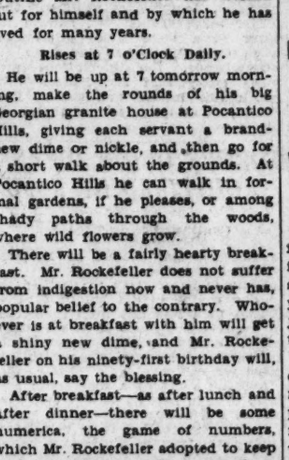
New York, July 7 (A.P.).—August Heckscher, 81-year-old multimillionaire philanthropist, was in the Adirondacks today after a quiet wedding last Wednesday.

The bride is Mrs. Virginia Henry Curtiss, 56, widow of Edwin Burr Curtiss, late head of the A. G. Spalding Sporting Goods Co. She was a close friend of Heckscher's first wife, who died in 1924, and for long had been interested in many of the same philanthropies as the banker and realty man.

They obtained a license last Wednesday at Peekskill, N. Y., and were married the same day at the Methodist Episcopal Church at Croton-on-Hudson. They left at once to motor through the Adirondacks.

Heckscher has given many millions to charity, his two principal philanthropic interests being child welfare and elimination of slums. He was a principal patron of the Society for the prevention of cruelty to children, but disagreed with the society's executives about methods of management. Later he endowed the Heckscher Foundation, which cares for 800 children at Peekskill, and gave freely to other child welfare agencies.



AUGUST HECKSHER.

A man of positive opinions and direct action, Heckscher has met dispute and opposition in several of his charitable ventures. He became so dissatisfied with the management of the S. P. C. Dancer, Casualty After Beach Party, Says Actor Punched and Kicked Her When She Refused Kiss; Tells Her Tale in Court.

Los Angeles, Calif., July 7 (A.P.).—Temporarily at least, the Duncan sisters, exponents of the light fantastic, will do no dancing publicly. The length of the retirement depends on how long it takes a black eye to turn white. Half of the team, Vivian, became the casualty early today at fashionable Malibu Beach, favorite summer resort of the Hollywood film colony when, she alleged several hours later, a young actor, Rex Lease, punched her in the eye.

She also claimed black and blue arms and a bruised knee.

(Associated Press.)

A credit of $109,768 to Douglas Fairbanks, Los Angeles, Calif., for overassessment of income taxes in 1924, 1925 and 1926 was announced yesterday by the Internal Revenue Bureau. Of the overassessments of $99,616 for 1924 and 1926, $85,895 was caused by the allowance of a deduction for depreciation.

The amount of $13,421 in 1924 resulted from the recomputation of gain derived from certain assets and the balance of the overassessment for 1926, amounting to $10,151, was caused by the allowance of an additional deduction for ordinary and necessary business expenses.

The entire overassessment for 1925, amounting to $300, was made pursuant to an order of the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

accepts my suggestion will readily see the reason why the correspondence ought not to be generally made public."

Senator Hiram Johnson got the floor as the senator from Pennsylvania concluded.

"Here is the proposition that is made to the United States Senate," said Senator Johnson.

Meaning of Proposal.

"The senator from Pennsylvania says, 'I have the documents upon which this treaty was negotiated. I have read them.' Of course that is ample, I concede.

"The senator from Arkansas (Mr. Robinson) has read them and we have consulted concerning them," Senator Johnson continued, quoting Mr. Reed and using honeyed intonations of sarcasm.

"'I,' the senator from Pennsylvania says, 'will permit any other member of the Senate, forsooth, to see these documents in confidence. He must not talk to any of his fellow senators about them. He must not argue the treaty concerning them. He must do naught in relation to them.'

"But the senator from Pennsylvania will permit any member of the Senate, he will permit him"—Johnson emphasized the word 'permit'—"to see in confidence these documents provided that he hold inviolate the confidence, as any man would that ever gave it, and provided he does not utilize them in relation to the treaty.

"When that proposition was made in the committee on foreign relations I scorned it just as I do now. As a United States senator representing a sovereign State and standing here representing the United States of America, I decline to accept in confidence from one of my colleagues what he and another of my colleagues have used in the past and will utilize in the future.

"I demand, sir, for the United States Senate and for every member of it and for my Government here represented by members of the United States Senate the right to see these documents and the right to utilize them in debate."

The effect of Senator Johnson's speech was to rivet attention on the secret documents issue and support for the McKellar resolution began to come from senators friendly to the pact.

Supported by Norris.

Senator Norris told the newspaper correspondents that he will support the resolution, that he regards the secrecy as unwarranted and that the methods being adopted have caused him to feel suspicious and to be inclined to change his mind. Other senators insist that the secret documents issue be settled before the treaty is debated. Senator Connally, who is leaving this week for Europe, has arranged to be paired so that he can cast his vote against secrecy and for the McKellar resolution.

When the Senate convenes today the secrecy resolution will be before the Senate. Senator Swanson has prepared a long speech on the treaty and has served notice that he will deliver it today. An effort will be made to persuade him to hold back the speech until the McKellar resolution is disposed of.

Text of McKellar Resolution.

Senator McKellar's resolution, after citing the incidents of Secretary Stimson's refusal to heed the request of the foreign relations committee for the secret documents, continues as follows:

"'Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Senate of the United States, That the President be and he is hereby requested to submit to the Senate all letters, cablegrams, minutes, memoranda, instructions and dispatches and all records, files and other information touching the negotiations of said London naval treaty, to the end that the Senate may be able to do and perform its constitutional obligaions with respect to advising and consenting to and ratifying such treaty, or rejecting same."

Text of Hoover Message On London Naval Pact

In requesting the Senate to convene in session for the special purpose of dealing with the treaty for the limitation and reduction of naval armament signed at London April 22, 1930, it is desirable that I should present my views upon it. This is especially necessary because of misinformation and misrepresentation which has been widespread by those who in reality are opposed to all limitation and reduction in naval arms.

We must naturally expect opposition from those groups who believe in unrestricted military strength as an objective of the American Nation. Indeed, we find the same type of minds in Great Britain and Japan in parallel opposition to this treaty. Nevertheless, I am convinced that the overwhelming majority of the American people are opposed to the conception of these groups.

Our people believe that military strength should be held in conformity with the sole purpose of national defense. They earnestly desire real progress in limitation and reduction of naval arms of the world and their aspiration is for abolition of competition in the building or arms as a step toward world peace. Such a result can be obtained in no other way than by international agreement.

The present treaty is one which holds these safeguards and advances these ideals. Its ratification is in the interest of the United States. It is fair to the other participating Nations. It promotes the cause of good relations.

Alternative Is Stated.

The only alternative to this treaty is the competitive building of navies with all its flow of suspicion, hate, ill-will and ultimate disaster. History supports those who hold to agreement as the path to peace. Every naval limitation treaty with which we are familiar, from the Rush-Bagot agreement of 1817, limiting vessels of war on the Great Lakes, to the Washington Arms treaty of 1921, has resulted in a marked growth of good will and confidence between the nations which are parties to it.

It is folly to think that because we are the richest Nation in the world we can outbuild all the other countries. Other nations will make any sacrifice to maintain their instruments of defence against us, and we shall eventually reap in their hostility and ill-will the full measure of the additional burden which we may thus impose upon them.

The very entry of the United States into such courses as this would invite the consolidation of the rest of the world against us and bring our peace and independence into jeopardy. We have only to look at the state of Europe in 1914 to find ample evidence of the futility and danger of competition in arms.

Geneva Conference Cited.

It will be remembered that in response to recommendations from the Senate a conference between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, for limitation of those categories of naval arms not covered by the Washington treaty of 1921, was held at Geneva in 1927. That conference failed because the United States could not agree to the large size of fleets demanded by other governments. The standards set up at that time would have required an ultimate fleet of about 1,400,000 tons for the United States. As against this the total United States fleet set out under this treaty will be about 1,123,000 tons.

Defense is the primary function of government, and therefore our first concern in examination of any act of this character is the test of its adequacy in defense. No critic has yet asserted that with the navies provided in this agreement, together with our Army, our aerial defense and our national resources, we can not defend ourselves, and certainly we want no military establishment for the purpose of domination of other nations.

Our naval defense position under this treaty is the more clear if we examine our present naval strength in comparison to the present strength of the other nations, and then examine the improvements in this proportion which will result from this treaty. This improvement arises from the anticipation of parity in battleships to be reached ten years hence under the Washington arms treaty and the fact that other nations have been building in the classes of ships not limited by that treaty, while we, until lately, lagged behind.

Tonnage of Three Nations.

On the 1st of January last the total naval tonnage, disregarding paper fleets, and taking only those ships actually built and building, was, for the United States, 1,180,000 tons; for the British Empire, 1,332,000 tons; for Japan, 768,000 tons—that is, if the United States Navy be taken as 100, then the British navy equals 113 and the Japanese navy 65. Under the treaty the United States will have 1,123,000 tons; Great Britain, 1,151,000 tons, and Japan, 714,000 tons, or a ratio of 100 for the United States to 102.4 for Great Britain and 63.6 for Japan. The slightly larger tonnage rattio mentioned for Great Britain is due to the fact that her cruiser fleet will be constituted more largely of smaller vessels, weaker in gun power, but the United States has the option to duplicate the exact tonnage and gun caliber of the British cruiser fleet if we desire to exercise it.

The relative improvement in the position of the United States under this treaty is even better than this statement would indicate. In the more important categories, battleships, aircraft carriers, 8-inch and 6-inch cruisers—that is, omitting the secondary arms of destroyers and submarines—the fleet built and actually building on January 1 of this year was 809,000 tons in the United States, 1,088,000 tons in Great Britain and 568,000 tons in Japan, or upon the basis of 100 for the United States it was 134 for Great Britain and 70 for Japan.

Under this treaty the United States will on January 1, 1937, possess, completed, 911,000 tons of these major units, Great Britain, 948,000 tons and Japan, 556,000 tons. In addition, the United States will have one 10,000-ton 8-inch cruiser two-thirds completed. This will give a ratio in these categories of 100 for the United States to 102.9 for Great Britain and 60.5 for Japan. The reason for the excess British tonnage is again as mentioned above.

In other words, the United States, in these categories, increases by 102,000 tons, Great Britain decreases by 140,000 tons and Japan decreased by 12,000 tons. These readjustments of units are to take place during the next six years. The treaty then comes to an end except for such arrangements as may be made then for its continuance.

The major discussion has been directed almost wholly to the fact that the United States is to have 18 cruisers with 8-inch guns, with an aggregate tonnage of 180,000 tons, as against Great Britain's 15 such ships, with a tonnage of 146,800 tons, and Japan's 12 such ships of a tonnage of 108,400 tons, the United States supplementing this tonnage with cruisers armed with 6-inch guns up to a total of 323,500 tons, Great Britain up to 339,000 tons and Japan to 208,800 tons. The larger gross tonnage to Great Britain as stated being compensation for the larger gun caliber of the American cruiser fleet but, as said, the United States has the option to duplicate the British fleet if it so desires.

Basis of Criticism.

Criticism of this arrangement arises from the fact that the general board of the United States Navy recommended that to reach parity with Great Britain the United States should have three more of the 10,000-ton cruisers (21 instead of 18), with 8-inch guns, and a total of 315,000 tons or 8,000 tons less total cruiser tonnage than this treaty provides. Thus this treaty provides that instead of this 30,000 tons more of 8-inch ships recommended by the general board, we will have 38,000 tons of ships armed with 8-inch guns, there being no limitation upon the size of cruisers up to 10,000 tons.

Therefore, criticism revolves around less than 3 per cent of our whole fleet, and even within this 3 per cent comes the lesser question of whether 30,000 tons of ships armed with 8-inch guns are better than 38,000 tons armed with 6-inch guns. The opinion of our high naval authorities is divided on the relative merits of these alternatives. Many earnestly believed that the larger tonnage of 6-inch ships is more advantageous and others vice versa. However, those who seek to make this the outstanding feature of criticism fail to mention that under the London treaty the obligation of the Washington Arms Treaty of 1921 is so altered that Great Britain scraps 133,900 tons of battleships armed with 13½-inch guns, the United States scraps 70,000 tons of battleships armed with 12-inch guns, and Japan scraps 26,300 tons. These arrangements are made not only for reduction of arms, but to anticipate the ultimate parity between the United States and Great Britain in battleships which would not otherwise be realized for several years.

U. S. Gains in Proportion.

There is in this provision a relative gain in proportion compared with the British fleet of 63,000 tons of battleships with 13½-inch guns. This is of vastly more importance than the dispute as to the relative combatant strength of 38,000 tons of 6-inch cruisers against 30,000 tons of 8-inch cruisers. Indeed, it would seem that such criticisms must be based upon an undisclosed desire to break down all limitation of arms.

To those who seek earnestly and properly for reduction in warships I would point out that as compared with January 1 of this year the total aggregate navies of the three powers under this treaty will have been reduced by nearly 300,000 tons. Had a settlement been made at Geneva in 1927 upon the only proposal possible at that time the fleets of the three powers would have been approximately 680,000 tons greater than under the treaty now in consideration.

The economic burdens and the diversion of taxes from welfare purposes which would be imposed upon ourselves and other nations by failure of this treaty are worth consideration. Under its provisions the replacement of battleships required under the Washington arms treaty of 1921 is postponed for six years. The costs of replacing and maintaining the three scrapped battleships is saved. Likewise we make economies in construction and operation by the reduction in our submarine and destroyer fleets to 52,700 and 150,000 tons, respectively. What the possible saving over an otherwise inevitable era of competitive building would be, no one can estimate.

Large Saving Forecast.

If we assume that our present naval program, except for this treaty, is to complete the ships authorized by Congress and those authorized and necessary to be replaced under the Washington Arms Treaty, and to maintain a destroyer fleet of about 225,000 tons and a submarine fleet of 90,000 tons, such a fleet will not reach parity with Great Britain, yet would cost in construction over $500,000,000 more during the next six years than the fleet provided under this treaty. But in addition to this, as stated, there is a very large saving by this treaty in annual operation of the fleet over what would be the case if we even built no more than the present programs.

The more selfish-minded will give little credence to the argument that savings by other parties to the agreement in the limitation of naval construction are of interest to the American people, yet the fundamental economic fact is that if the resources of these other nations are freed for devotion to the welfare of their people and to pacific purposes of reproductive commerce, they will result in blessings to the world, including ourselves. If we were to accept the Geneva conference base as the end of naval strength under competitive building for the three governments, the savings in construction and operation by the treaty is literally billions of dollars.

Question Before Senate.

The question before us now is not whether we shall have a treaty with either three more 8-inch cruisers or four less 6-inch cruisers, or whether we shall have a larger reduction in tonnage. It is whether we shall have this treaty or no treaty. It is a question as to whether we shall move strongly toward limitation and reduction in naval arms or whether we shall have no limitation or reduction and shall enter upon a disastrous period of competitive armament.

This treaty does mark an important step in disarmament and in world peace. It is important for many reasons that it should be dealt with at once. The subject has been under discussion since the Geneva conference three years ago. The lines of this treaty have been known and under discussion since last summer. The actual document has been before the American people and before the Senate for nearly three months. It has been favorably reported by the Senate foreign relations committee. Every solitary fact which affects judgment upon the treaty is known, and the document itself comprises the sole obligation of the United States. If we fail now the world will be again plunged backward from its progress toward peace.

Representative Seeks Lights on Patrol Boats

(Associated Press.)

A complaint against operation of Government patrol boats without lights on the Detroit River was made to the Treasury Department yesterday by Representative Clancy (Republican), of Michigan.

Mr. Clancy said he was receiving protests almost daily that the patrol craft were operating at night without running lights and that they constituted a menace to other craft.

Taximan Robbed of Cab and Cash.

John Cafone, of 231 Kentucky avenue southeast, a taxi driver, yesterday reported to police that he was robbed of $8 and his cab by a colored man whom he had driven to a deserted spot. The man got in Cafone's cab at Second street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and told him to drive to One-half and R streets southwest. There, at pistol point, the man robbed Cafone and drove off in his cab.

HUSTON STANDS BY PARTY LEADERSHIP

Republican Committee Head Has No Intention of Resigning Soon.

CONFERS WITH HOOVER

(Associated Press.)

Claudius Huston is standing by his chairmanship of the Republican national committee, at least temporarily, despite a whirl of agitation in Republican ranks over his leadership.

President Hoover, after hearing numerous complaints in recent weeks against his party chairman, called him to the White House Sunday night and conferred with him for an hour and a half.

Yesterday Mr. Huston said he was going ahead with his meeting of committee officers here Thursday. He answered no questions about the future, but it was made plain in his behalf that he is not resigning now nor at Thursday's session. He received newspapermen late in the day and, after a bombardment of questions, permitted himself to be quoted as remarking "I have nothing to say."

Hoover Has Arbiter's Task.

To Mr. Hoover has fallen the unhappy task of arbiter in the Republican quarrel over Mr. Huston. Apparently he has not called for Mr. Huston's resignation, and apparently Mr. Huston is not going to get out until Mr. Hoover does call for it.

It has been freely stated in inner Republican circles for weeks that Huston would withdraw. Party leaders have been busy looking for a successor. The successor has not been chosen, although it is known the President has been looking over a list lately.

Agitation against Mr. Huston started in the House shortly after testimony was given the Senate lobby committee that he had used funds given by the Union Carbide Co. for the Muscle Shoals lobby activities of the Tennessee River Improvement Association in his private brokerage account before turning them over to the association.

Muscle Shoals Live Question.

The disposition of Muscle Shoals is a live question in Congress and the whole dispute was forced over until next session. It is understood administration influences sought a postponement rather than permit an embarrassment because of Mr. Huston's relations to the legislation.

Senator Fess, of Ohio, has been prominently mentioned as a successor to Mr. Huston. Howeyer, he hastened back to Washington Sunday from a visit to the Hoover camp on the Rapidan to issue a statement asserting the national chairmanship had not been discussed.

Senators Watson, of Indiana, and McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leaders, also came back from the Rapidan to announce Sunday night that this topic was not up for discussion.

Called to White House.

Within a short time after his return from the camp last night, Mr. Hoover called Mr. Huston to the White House. There are yarying versions as to what occurred. There are reports that the President informed Mr. Huston of the opposition to him within the party. Friends of Mr. Huston say there was no intimation from the President that his resignation was desired.

Yesterday Mr. Huston called on Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, the chairman of the Republican senatorial committee. Senator Moses is working with him on the fall campaign plans. The two are regarded as allies in any fight which may develop in the Republican fold.

An open fight, however, is the last thing the party leaders want; consequently, the apparent decision to abandon, temporarily at least, the ouster move against Mr. Huston in favor of a more quiet settlement when the publicity has died down.

Meanwhile, the predictions are made freely that Mr. Huston will resign this month and the denials come just as quickly from the Huston camp.

EUROPE' UNION IDEAS OUTLINED BY ROME

is founded the League of Nations should be avoided.

Willingness of Italy to participate in any degree in discussions of the Briand plan had not been indicated by Secretary Turati, of the Fascist party, considered the government mouthpiece, in an address which he made yesterday.

Nothing short of a diplomatic refusal to take part in parleys over the project had been anticipated.

Enunciation of the three principles cleared the way to discussions however doubtful their final results, the principles offered were:

A cooperative system based on a union that does not demand unity and in which the sovereignty and political independence of all states will be respected, with the rights of minor states guaranteed and the demarcation between victor and conquered peoples eliminated.

Inclusion of Russia and Turkey in discussions of the union, this being supported by a statement that the lack of an invitation to both at this time "will prejudice the adhesion of these two countries later."

The third principle stated: "Italy contests the utility of placing at the foundation of any project of a European union the concept of security. According to the Fascist government, the European union, to conform with the League of Nations, ought to have the same political premises, limitation of armaments, guarantees against aggression and arbitration of international controversies. This system ought to be harmoniously developed. Security without disarmament is not based on solid foundations."

The tenor of Italy's reply came as a surprise to many observers here who, analyzing recent Fascist statements of policy, had believed it would be simply a diplomatic refusal of the French invitation.

On reexamination of the note, it is now believed that although Italy has declared herself willing to participate in discussions of the federal union scheme, she has expressed so many principles radically divergent from those of France that her ultimate participation in the united states of Europe as conceived by Briand will be impossible.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 1:35 p. m. to noon today.

When the roll was called 58 senators answered, 9 more than was necessary for a quorum.

Received a message from President Hoover calling for ratification of the London naval treaty.

Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee called up the treaty and had it read.

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, introduced a resolution calling upon President Hoover for documents relating to the preliminary negotiations surrounding the pact.

AIR GENERAL

LIENT. COL. HENRY CONGER PRATT whose nomination as assistant to the chief of the Air Corps with the rank of brigadier general, has been forwarded to the Senate by President Hoover upon recommendatiton of the Secretary of War.

PROGRAM OF HEFLIN ATTACKED BY BLACK

OPEN BREAK NOW EXISTS

Hopes of Senator Heflin, of Alabama, to be returned to the Senate on an independent ticket this year following his bolt from the Democratic party in 1928, received a body blow yesterday from his own colleague, Senator Hugo Black (Democrat), Alabama.

Announcing that "Alabama is now and will remain a Democratic State" Senator Black took direct issue with the Heflin program whereby Democratic voters were to be called upon to boycott the Democratic primary next month in order to leave themselves free to support Mr. Heflin and other independents in November.

Mr. Black's declaration is regarded as all the more significant from the fact that he, like Senator Heflin, has campaigned in the past with the endorsement of the Ku Klux Klan.

Yesterday's open break is the culmination of a split between the two Alabama senators which has been in the making since Mr. Heflin was ruled out of the Democratic primary by the Alabama State Democratic committee in retaliation for his desertion of the Smith-Robinson ticket in 1928. Senator Black opposed the committee's action.

Forces supporting Mr. Heflin and Hugh Locke, independent anti-Smith candidate for governor, held a rally at Birmingham July 4, at which resolutions were adopted urging Democrats to keep out of the party primaries on August 12, in which John Bankhead and Fred I. Thompson will contest for the Democratic senatorial nomination. The Birmingham meeting proved to be a failure, according to Alabama press reports, only about 2,500 persons attending instead of the 25,000 predicted in advance by Mr. Heflin.

Cuba-U. S. Postal Convention Looms

Nation Only One in Americas to Which Packages Can Not Be Sent From Here.

(Associated Press.)

The United States was prepared yesterday to negotiate a parcel post convention with Cuba—the only nation in the Americas to wwhich packages can not be mailed from this country. Postmaster General Brown said he had notifie dthe Cuban government that "we are ready to proceed with the negotiation of such a treaty at any time."

In turn, he said, the Cuban empassy here has informed the Postoffice Department that the Cuban postmaster general himself probably will come to the United States soon to discuss the terms of the proposed treaty. Mr. Brown said he would be glad to negotiate with him personally.

The action was precipitated, the Postmaster General said, after he had officially informed the Cuban Ambassador that the new tariff act removed limitation prohibiting importation of shipments of Cuban cigars in lots of les sthan 3,000.

Mrs. Hoover, Improved, Assumes Duties Again

Mrs. Herbert Hoover yesterday resumed her social and household duties at the White House after a three months' convalescence, the result of a sprained back after a slip on a rug in her sitting room.

Yesterday Capt. Joel T. Boone, U. S. N., the White House physician, stated that Mrs. Hoover had recovered entirely. In all probability she will make the contemplated trip next month with the President to the national parks in the West. Dr. Boone, however, has cautioned his patient against overdoing.

Man Given Three Years For Possession of Rum

Wallace Abney, colored youth charged with possessing three half-gallon jars of whisky, was sentenced to one year in jail by Judge Robert E. Mattingly in Police Court yesterday. Rossa Dyson, who was arrested and charged with Abney, was granted a jury trial.

Policeman Richard E. Williams arrested the couple Saturday when he found the whisky in a hat box on the floor of the automobile. Abney pleaded not guilty, and disclaimed knowledge of the whisky's presence in the car.

Youth Given Two Years For Concealing Weapon

Arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, Willard Lee Winston, 17, was sentenced to two years in jail by Judge Robert E. Mattingly, who accompanied the sentence with a lecture. The youth was held for the grand jury under $5,000 bond on an additional charge of housebreaking.

Winston was arrested recently by Policeman Frank Marshall, of the Fourteenth Precinct, who said that he answered the description of a young man who had entered a number of Chevy Chase homes.

INDICTMENT APPEAL IN DENISON CASE

LANGUAGE USED BEFORE

Dissatisfied with Justice Peyton Gordon's recent action in sustaining a demurrer to a liquor indictment against Representative Edward E. Denison, of Illinois, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday announced his intention of carrying the case to the District Court of Appeals.

Mr. Rover said he will ask the Solicitor General to authorize an appeal from Justice Gordon's ruling, which was based on the claim that the indictment did not meet constitutional requirements of particularity and detail. The United States attorney admitted that the indictment, including only eight lines, did not set forth the Government's case in detail, but said that its language was identical with that used in numerous indictments charging second offense of sale and third offense of possession. The Denison type of indictment, he added, had not been used before in first offense possession cases.

Mr. Denison and John Layne, described as his secretary, were indicted November 19 last, after prohibition agents had notified Mr. Rover of the seizure of a trunk of liquor in Mr. Denison's quarters in the House Office Building, ten months previous.

The demurrer in the case was filed for Mr. Denison by Defense Attorneys Everett Sanders, W. E. Leahy and E. Hilton Jackson. The indictment was defended before Justice Gordon by Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw.

Alleged Embezzler Will Go to Charlotte

William M. Knox, 24, arrested here Saturday, yesterday agreed voluntarily to return to Charlotte, N. C., to face charges of embezzling $23,500 from the Charlotte National Bank, where he was employed.

Assistant United States Attorney R. F. Camalier presented North Carolina's request for the prisoner to Justice Jesse C. Adkins in Criminal Division No. 1. Knox is said to have had $24 in his pocket when he was arrested shortly after attending a ball game.

Coal Merchant Heads Grand Jury

C. Ernest Colliflower, Jr., to Direct Inquisitorial Body.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins yesterday selected C. Ernest Colliflower, jr., of 1112 Buchanan street northwest, as foreman of the new grand jury, which will consider indictments for the next three months. Mr. Colliflower is a coal merchant, with offices at 1001 Fifteenth street northwest.

Other members of the new grand jury were announced as follows: Hudson D. Baines, Southern Railway; Andrew Saul, 2126 Connecticut avenue northwest; Miss Dorothy E. Linkins, 3701 Porter street northwest; Brooks Cross, 113 Tenth street northeast; Mrs. Margaret A. Townsend, 2814 Thirteenth street northwest; Asmus Diekman, 817 Webster street northwest; Mrs. Lillian B. Curry, 1727 Ninth street northwest; Jesse F. Bagett, 403 Upshur street northwest; George A. Emmons, 3122 Thirty-eighth street northwest; Edward C. Jones, 1826 Massachuseets avenue southeast; Samuel G. Chestnut, 519 Thirteenth street northeast; Benjamin F. Arrington, 1734 Oregon avenue northwest; William D. Mitchell, 1301 Fifteenth street northwest; Mrs. Minnie W. Courtney, 2814 Thirteenth street northwest; Vester A. Nelson, 1811 Kenyon street northwest; Jesse L. Jackson, 34 Q street northwest; Mrs. Coila A. Maholm, 5519 Third street northwest; Robert A. Genau, 826 North Capitol street; Mrs. Marie A. Stulz, 407 Seward square southeast; William R. Pennington, 3236 Fourth street southeast; T. Blackwell Johnson, 26 Quincy place northwest, and Robert Reichard, 1247 Thirty-third street northwest.

Man Wanted in Capital Seized in Connecticut

Nicholas D. Apostoles, wanted by Washington authorities for allegedly passing fraudulent checks, was arrested yesterday by Danbury, Conn., officials. It is said that the man, representing himself as a constituent of Representative John W. McCormack, of Massachusetts, passed a check for $150 on a downtown store. Later, trying to cash one of his checks, said to be worthless, on a bank, he became nervous and fled, leaving the checks at the bank.

Officers from Washington will not be sent to New England for the man until the authorities discover whether or not he is wanted there.

Trio Held on Charges Of False Pretenses

Joseph B. Mahorney, 47 years old, an inmate of the National Soldiers' Home, at Hampton, Va., was brought to Washington yesterday to answer three charges of false pretenses. It is charged that Mahorney, with his brother and another man, bought paints valued at about $100 from three stores, paying for the paints with checks which were no good. The paints were then sold to a man of Fourteenth street.

The other two men, Leo N. Higgins, 39 years old, having no fixed address, and the brother, Bernard F. Mahorney, 40 years old, of New York avenue near First street northwest were arrested on May 26. They demanded a jury trial.

Youths Held for Theft Of Representative's Car

William H. Wright and Samuel R. Moten, colored youths, were held for the grand jury in Police Court yesterday on charges of stealing Representative David Hopkins' automobile while the Missouri legislator was enjoying the ball game at Griffith Stadium last Saturday.

Judge Robert E. Mattingly fixed bond at $3,000 each.

Work Is Started On Boulder Dam

(Associated Press.)

A line of white stakes, glistening in the desert sun, stretched across the wasteland of southern Nevada yesterday toward the brink of Black Canyon, marking the first day's work on an engineering project, the Boulder Dam, so immense that the flamboyant adjectives of the circus have been called upon to describe it.

Here, in the words of the Interior Department and Secretary Wilbur, the work which was begun yesterday is to blossom into "the most stupendous cement structure in the world," an undertaking that will "make new geography and start a new era," signalizing "our national conquest over the great American desert."

From the foot of the canyon walls, a dam is to rise more than 575 feet, thrusting its roots 100 feet below the stony basin of the stream. It will create a lake 100 miles long, and in size will dwarf the elephant Butte Dam on the Rio Grande in New Mexico, rearing its shoulders more than 250 feet higher than the 306 feet of that structure.

Two Hurt, One Seized After Stabbing Affray

A knife battle in the rear of 809 Monroe street northeast yesterday sent the two participants to hospitals with minor injuries. Melvin McDonald, who, police say, was attacked by Pascual de Rocco, 52 years old, of Monroe street, with a butcher knife, received a cut lip. McDonald, who is 35 years old, and lives at 1824 Fifteenth street, in protecting himself, allegedly cut De Rocco's scalp.

De Rocco is charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and is at Gallinger Hospital. McDonald was treated at Sibley Hospital. The argument started over disposal of garbage.

Orders Shift Post Of Five Generals

Deputy Chief of Staff Is Among Those Listed for Transfer.

(Associated Press.)

Orders assigning five general officers of the Army to new posts were issued yesterday by the War Department.

Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, of Lexington, Ky., deputy chief of staff, was assigned to command of the Panama Canal department. He will sail late in October.

Maj. Gen. Malin Craig, of St. Louis, Mo., was assigned to command the Eighth Corps Area with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., was relieved from command of the Ninth Corps Area with headquarters at San Francisco and ordered to the command of the Philippine department.

He will be replaced by Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, now commander in the Philippines. Gen. MacArthur's home is at Little Rock, Ark.

Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, of Petersburg, Va., was relieved of command of the Eighth Corps Area and assigned to command of the Hawaiian department, sailing for Honolulu from New York September 27.

Four Charges Placed Against Driver in Crash

Four charges were placed against the driver of an auto which yesterday ran past a stop light and smashed into three other machines, according to Third Precinct police. The man, George E. Brookholtz, 45 years old, of 1323 Otis place northwest, was charged with reckless driving, hit-and-run, passing a stop sign, and having bad brakes.

After passing the stop sign, which was at Twenty-fourth and M streets northwest, the car continued along M street to Connecticut avenue, police say, where it was stopped by Clyde Jones, of 1101 Twenty-fourth street, who had chased it from the scene of the accidents. Jones turned Brookholtz over to police. The three cars hit by the careening machine were on M street near Twenty-fourth.

WOMAN TORCH-GUN VICTIM HELD DYING

IS JAILED WITHOUT BAIL

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., July 7.—Estelle Corbin, who was shot and burned with her father and sister, Isabella, last Sunday, allegedly by Elwood Payne, colored, is losing strength rapidly tonight and her physicians say they will not be surprised if she fails to live until dawn.

At a preliminary hearing this morning before Justice W. J. Millman, Payne repudiated his confession made last week to Sheriff Woolf. At the request of Commonwealth's Attorney C. W. Carter, the case was sent on to the grand jury and Payne was remanded to jail without bail.

Allie Corbin, 54-year-old father of Estelle and Isabella, was buried at Marshall, Va., today, after succumbing to injuries sustained when the three were first shot and later burned by their assailant.

The State undoubedly will demand the death penalty for Payne when he goes to trial. Despite his repudiation of his confession, Sheriff Woolf and his deputies are confident that they have sufficient evidence to secure conviction. Payne has not retained counsel as yet.

No action toward calling a special grand jury will be taken pending the outcome of Estelle Carbin's injuries, but should her wounds prove fatal, Judge Alexander will be asked to call a special grand jury. The eldest daughter, Isabella, is declared by hospital authorities to be out of danger now.

CANNON BACKS PLAN FOR CENSUS CHANGE

census and reapportionment measure.

This move met determined opposition of representatives from the urban centers, and Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, succeeding in having adopted also an amendment excluding from the reapportionment count all American citizens over 21 who were not permitted to vote, striking at Southern States in which the Negro vote is curtailed.

Fearing these amendments would jeopardize enactment of the census bill, congressional leaders obtained a reconsideration of the section which resulted in exclusion of both proposals.

Harry Langdon Not in Debt For Wife's Love, Is Verdict

Harry Langdon, movie comedian (left), won a court decision when it was ruled that the former husband of Mrs. Langdon (right) was not entitled to collect on promissory notes given him to forestall an alienation suit.

Winner of Suit Placed by Former Husband of His Mate.

Los Angeles, July 7. (A.P.).—Harry Langdon, screen comedian, owes no love debt to Thomas J. O'Brien, an engraver, whose divorced wife he married, the superior court decided today.

A judgment in favor of Mr. Langdon was returned in O'Brien's suit to collect on three promissory notes totaling $11,500 which the actor admitted giving O'Brien to forestall a quarter of a million dollar alienation of affections suit in 1929.

The comedian's contention that he had not stolen the love of Mrs. Helen Langdon was supported by the court. Mr. Langdon married the former Mrs. O'Brien in 1929, following her divorce from the engraver in 1928.

The court also agreed with Mrs. Langdon's claim that Mr. O'Brien had killed her love for him before she met Mr. Langdon in 1923.

Mr. Langdon was justified in seeking a compromise of the alienation suit because of his position in motion pictures, the court held. The actor said publicity attending such a suit would have ruined his film career.

In addition to the $11,500 in notes Mr. Langdon gave Mr. O'Brien $15,000 in cash.

The court said the statute of limitations prevented Mr. Langdon from recovering the $15,000, but indicated except for this a judgment would have been returned against Mr. O'Brien in the actor's countersuit.

NEW TEACHERS DUE IN NORMAL SCHOOL

Six Professors Are to Be Named by Board at Special Meeting.

OTHER PROBLEMS LOOM

Six new professors for Wilson and Miner Normal Schools are expected to be named by the District School Board at a special meeting today. This will leave two additional professors still to be appointed as provided in the new appropriation bill recently passed by Congress.

Salaries sought by the board for two presidents for the schools having been disallowed by Congress, the problem of altering plans to meet the resultant situation also will come before the board for consideration. It is thought likely that the present principals may be promoted to presidency of their respective teacher colleges, instead of deans under presidents brought from elsewhere as originally planned.

The necessity for complete reorganization of public school kindergartens under the new appropriations act is another matter which faces the board, the act having abolished the five under-age kindergartens and having provided that no children under 5 years of age be admitted to kindergartens and that there be no afternoon kindergarten classes.

Under the present system there are a number of afternoon classes, and provisions must be made to do away with them. Children who will be 5 years old in November now are permitted in kindergartens, and this also may have to be changed.

Only six members of the board now are in town.

THRILLS DOT START OF ENDURANCE HOP

Haldmand and Chadwick Miss Disaster by Inches on Nonrefuel Flight.

AFTER WORLD'S RECORD

Jacksonville Beach, Fla., July 7 (A. P.).—With a thrilling take-off that nearly ended in disaster, George Haldeman and Stewart Chadwick, veteran pilots, late today began an attempt to establish a new world's nonrefueling endurance flight record.

The present mark, held by two Italians, is 67 hours and 15 minutes. Haldeman and Chadwick hope to remain aloft from 70 to 75 hours. They started with 1,350 gallons of gasoline.

Speeding for a mile and a half down a bumpy beachc, the single-motored monoplane, Thirteen, with a gross weight of 14,000 pounds, twice rose a few feet, settled down again and then took off on one wheel.

The plane was unable to gain altitude to clear a piar that extended out over the water. The fliers swerved the plane out over the ocean and around the end of the pier.

The plane was only a few inches above the water and several times the tail skid splashed into the waves. Official observers said they saw the fliers dump gasoline, but other spectators said the mist was spray kicked up by the propeller blast. The plane gradually picked up speed and altitude and sailed down the east coast.

To equal the world's record they must remain aloft until 10:21 a. m. (Eastern standard time), and to officially break the mark they must stay up one hour longer. The time of their take-off was officially at 3:06 p. m.

By remaining aloft until 3 a. m. (Eastern standard time) Thursday, Haldeman and Chadwick will have equalled the American nonrefueling record of 59 hours and 19 minutes set by William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee in California some time ago.

Upon their takeoff today, Haldeman and Chadwick claimed a world's weight-lifting record immediately after the plane had gotten into sustained flight. They said their load of 14,000 pounds was the greatest weight ever lifted from the ground with a single-motored plane.

The monoplane Thirteen, which was rechristened, originally was the Roma, built for a flight from New York to Rome by Roger Q. Williams that was never made.

Haldeman and Ruth Elder were rescued by a ship from midocean after they had been formed down on an attempted flight from New York to Paris. Chadwick is a former Army pilot.

Russia Boosts Oil Output.

Moscow, July 7 (A.P.).—The Soviet Oil Trust says that when the industry was nationalized in 1920 the production totaled 3,800,000 tons, whereas this year it is expected to reach 16,000,000 tons, and 40,000,000 is the goal for 1932-33.

PARKING REFORMERS TO ASSEMBLE TODAY

District Committee Will Consider Suggestions in McClintock Report.

GRANT WILL BE ABSENT

Suggestions for solving the manifold parking problems of the District will be studied by the automobile parking committee of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission today.

The suggestions are contained in a preliminary report submitted by Dr. Miller McClintock, of Harvard University, who has been studying the traffic situation here intensively for the past two months. While the report has been guarded in closest secrecy, it is learned that among the important points covered is the problem of providing parking space for automobiles owned by Government employes in the new buildings being erected and planned.

Provision for restricted areas for use of Government employes, either within the buildings or in spaces especially designed adjoining them, is understood to be recommended by Dr. McClintock and to have received favorable consideration from members of the committee who have read his report.

Figures Exceed Boston's

A detailed summary is contained in the report showing the number of employes in the various departments who drive their own cars to work and for whom parking therefore is an important problem.

The report also represents a close study of the overtime parking problem, and is understood to show that the situation is not as serious as many have believed, as the number of motorists who violate the time limits for parking in the congested areas is relatively small.

Details as to the number of buses entering and leaving the congested areas daily, the number of trucks and private cars, and the number of persons carried in and out, also are contained in Dr. McClintock's report. It is brought out in the report that the number of automobiles of all types entering the business section in Washington daily is larger than the number in Boston.

Grant to Be Absent.

Another problem covered exhaustively by Dr. McClintock is that of providing for the all-day parker. It is understood that one suggestion for overcoming this problem is patterened after the system in force in New York, where the all-day parking question has been abolished by the simple expedient of imposing heavy fines, which often are as high as $10 or more and almost never less than $3, for parking more than 20 minutes in the business districts.

The meeting today will be held in the absence of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and chairman of the automobile parking committee.

Last Rites Will Be Held For Victim of Shooting

Funeral services for Joseph H. Jerman, 16-year-old student who was shot Sunday by a filling station operator in South Carolina, will probably be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at Glenwood Cemetery. Charles H. Jerman, of 2717 Thirteenth street, father of the slain boy, went to South Carolina yesterday to bring back the body.

An inquest into young Jerman's death will be held today at Swansea, S. C., near Columbia, where the shooting occurred. G. H. Priester, proprietor of the filling station, is being held in the Lexington County, S. C., jail, without bond, pending the decision of a coroner's jury.

Association Names Capital Man Head

Dr. Themper Elected Active President of Anto-Blue Law Society.

Mayor Spencer M. De Goller, of Bradford, Pa., was last night reelected honorary president of the National Association Opposed to the Blue Laws in its meeting in the Annapolis Hotel. Dr. Joseph A. Themper, of Washington, was elected active president, while all the other incumbents were relected.

Linn E. Gale, of Washington, will serve his sixth term as secretary, and Dr. Charlotte Brickner, also of Washington, will act as treasurer for the second time. Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, will serve a second term as chief counsel. C. B. Rosenberger, of Clarendon, Va., who was recently arrested for painting his house on Sunday, was elected a director of the association. John J. McGinnis, of Washington, will be the new chairman of the board of directors. All the vice presidents were reelected.

Directors of the association are Prof. Henry Flury, William F. Cooper, Judge Hugh M. McCaffrey, Henry W. Selah and Mrs Gertrude Mackenzie. Officers of the association are directors ex-officio.

Woman Ends Life In Airplane Jump

Nebraska College Student Committed Suicide, Says Coroner.

Lincoln, Nebr., July 7 (A.P.).—Miss Alberta Brinkerhoff, University of Nebraska senior, late today fell or jumped to her death from an airplane near here. Coroner C. A. Hughart said the Mount Clare, Nebr., woman committed suicide.

After riding to the airport in a taxicab, the young woman entered the plane of Pete Orr, a pilot for a Lincoln flying school. While flying near the airport, Mr. Orr said he saw Miss Brinkerhoff climb on the wing of the ship. He manipulated the controls and was able to throw her back into the cockpit of the plane.

Mr. Orr immediately prepared to land the ship and when he reached an altitude of approximately 1,200 feet he said the young woman jumped. Her body was found on the flying field.

$1,375,385 IN ROAD CONTRACTS GIVEN

Other Awards for Repair Projects Are Likely to Be Let Today.

PAY BILL RETROACTIVE

Contracts for street and road improvements totaling $1,375,385.25 in cost were awarded by the District Commissioners to various low bidders yesterday.

The contracts were the first batch to be acted on by the Commissioners since enactment of the District appropriation bill for the current fiscal year. Other contracts are to be passed on at another meeting of the board today. These provide for additional street repair and improvement work, water and sewer and work for other departments.

Two Philadelphia concerns were among those awarded street contracts yesterday. They were the Union Paving Co., $164,882.50 for asphalt paving, and $217,801 for curbs and gutters and adjacent asphalt surfacing and the Elkins Paving & Construction Co., $173,560 for concrete roadways.

All Lowest Bidders.

All those to whom contracts were awarded yesterday submitted lowest bids when bids were opened on June 12, so that work preliminary to formal awarding of the contracts could be done before passage of the annual District appropriation bill.

Others to whom contracts were awarded yesterday include: W. F. Brenizer, $160,384.50 for concrete roadways; Highway Engineering & Construction Co., $243,003.25 for curbs and gutters; the Cranford Co., $86,994 for resurfacing asphalt surfaces by the heater method, and Corson & Gruman, $328,760 for resurfacing of roadways by replacement method.

There were several other matters ironed out by the Commissioners yesterday so that there will be no hitches due to the delay in the appropriations act becoming law until after the beginning of the fiscal year.

Increase of 17 Cents Daily.

It was decided that the pay raises provided for per diem employes will be retroactive, under the provisions of the bill, until July 1, the first day of the fiscal year. There are 2,049 per diem employes affected by the new wage scale which was approved some time ago by the District Commissioners. The average increase will be 17 cents a day, according to District officials.

Another question was whether the new salaries provided in the Police and Fire Departments pay raise bill are to be paid as from the first of the fiscal year. Acting Auditor A. R. Pilkerton said informally that he believed the new salaries could be paid out of available funds and a possible deficit provided against in a deficiency bill subsequently. This question was raised because the act making available funds for the higher salaries was not signed by the President. The salary bill signed by the President, it was thought, provided ample authority for paying the increased salaries on the first pay day, July 15, following final approval of the act.

Cab Stolen From Taxi Driver.

A cab which was later recovered, was stolen from its driver, W. H. Neale, chauffeur for the Try-Me Cab Co., the man reported to police yesterday. Three men hailed him at Third and F streets southwest and told him to drive them into nearby Maryland. At a lonely spot they forced him from the machine at the point of a pistol and drove away. The cab was later found abandoned by Eleventh Precinct police.

SEVEN BID ON JOB OF RAZING BUILDINGS

FINISH WORK IN OCTOBER

Seven bids were received yesterday by Capitol Architect David Lynn for razing the Government dormitories in front of the Union Station to make room for the Plaza Park development of the Capitol grounds.

The award will be made in the next few days, he announced. The lowest bidder was S. M. Osborne, of Perryville, Md. The amount was $7,950. The local bidders were Sydney L. Hechinger, H. Herfurth, jr., Inc., and City Salvage Co. Other out-of-town bidders were the Cuyahoga Wrecking Co., of Cleveland; the Shartzer Wrecking Co., of Dayton, and Gus Goldman, of New York.

The property to be torn down consists of thirteen dormitories, a heating plant and a laundry building. Mr. Lynn expects to have all these buildings out of the way by October. Work of razing the Maltbie Building and the old Arthur School will begin in August, it was announced. The Maltbie Building is now occupied by the Federal Board for Vocational Training and by the United States Housing Bureau.

Street Car Tracks to Be Moved.

Because of the improvement of the plaza area, street railway companies will be required to move their tracks from Delaware avenue, between the station and B street, and from B street, between Delaware avenue and First street, east. New tracks will be laid on C street, from Delaware avenue to First street east, and on First street, from B street to the station. The tracks on C street will be lowered into a depression between New Jersey and Delaware avenues in order to give an unobstructed view of the Capitol from Union Station.

Work of tearing down the block of buildings bounded by Fourteenth and Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue and E street, which includes Poli's Theater, will begin in August. Bids are to be opened by the Treasury Department on July 15 for the job. The property will be converted into a park.

Federal and District government departments are also in the block. They include the United States Coast Guard and the Traffic Bureau. The Coast Guard will move to Pennsylvania avenue and Madison place, while the Traffic Bureau will probably be transferred to the Walker Building, on the south side of Louisiana avenue, opposite the District Supreme Court.

Way Cleared for Program.

Razing of this block of buildings will provide a clear view of the Department of Commerce Building from Pennsylvania avenue.

Through destroying this property and that near Union Station, the way will be cleared for work on the next step of the Federal improvement program. Congress, in the last session, provided $30,000,000 for its continuation.

Work to be tackled immediately includes a $4,000,000 addition to the City Postoffice; $6,500,000 enlargement of the Congressional Library; $6,000,000 expansion of the National Museum; $1,500,000 for beginning construction of the new United States Supreme Court Building; $2,347,654 for beginning the House Office annex; $1,309,000 for relocation and enlargement of the Botanic Garden; $1,000,000 to begin work on the George Washington Memorial parkway and $500,000 to improve the Senate Office Building.

Other millions have also been appropriated for the beginning of work on other Government buildings in the Pennsylvania Avenue Triangle.

Pay Raises for 15,000 Federal Workers Start

Pay increases ranging from $60 to $200 yearly started yesterday for 15,000 Federal employes who were moved up one or two notches in the classification list under the Brookhart amendment to the Welch classification bill.

The amendment was passed to correct inequalities resulting from alleged misinterpretation of the Welch act by Comptroller General McCarl.

Family Believes Creator of Sherlock Holmes Will Talk From Beyond.

GILLETTE PAYS TRIBUTE

Crowborough, Sussex, England, July 7 (A.P.).—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, novelist, historian, physician, traveler, and spiritualist, died at his residence, Windleshaw, today of heart disease at the age of 71. Lady Doyle, two sons and one daughter were at his bedside when death came.

Though the famous creator of Sherlock Holmes largely surrendered his other interests during the later years of his life to his championship of spiritualism, thereby antagonizing many former riends, it was his long career as an author that the great majority of Englishmen recalled today.

Above all, England remembered the series of Sherlock Holmes stories, wherein he portrayed with extraordinary vividness not only the greatest detective in fiction, but also the quieter, more leisurely London of late Victoria days. Gas lamps then took the place of electric glare, and no more strident sound was heard than the clatter of horses' hoofs on wooden blocks, as the hansom cabs dashed down Baker street and disturbed the quiet debates between the great sleuth and his perfect foil, the inimitable Dr. Watson.

Had Interesting Career.

Arthur Conan Doyle, latterly Sir Arthur, had a long and varied career. He was a physician in the 80's. He was a sensationally brilliant novelist in the 90's. At the beginning of this century he exerted his literary genius to place before Europe the facts of the Boer War. For this he was made a knight of the realm.

During the great war, which caused the loss of his son Kingsley, Sir Arthur became more and more engrossed in spiritualism. All the zeal that formerly went into fictional writing was now devoted to probing into the mysteries of the world beyond. His sixtieth birthday was made the occasion of his announcement of retirement from writing novels. Hereafter, he stated, he would devote himself solely to the study and expounding of spiritualism.

Thousands of dollars of his private fortune were invested in a "psychic bookshop" and a spiritualistic museum which he opened and maintained in Victoria street, near Westminster Abbey.

May Speak From Beyond.

To the Associated Press correspondent he observed, "I pledge my honor that spiritualism is true, and I know that spiritualism is infinitely more important than literature, art, politics or anything else in the world." He felt convinced that he was in communication with his deceased son.

His belief in spiritualism was shared by Lady Doyle and his children, who expect to communicate with Sir Arthur in the beyond. His son, Adrian Conan Doyle, speaking for the family, said:

"My father fully believed that when he passed over he would continue to keep in touch with us; all his family believe so, too. There is no question that my father will often speak to us just as he did before he passed over. We shall always know when he is speaking, but one has to be careful, because there are practical jokers on the other side, as there are here."

Friendship with Houdini.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Perhaps Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Harry Houdini renewed today, somewhere beyond the stars, that animated friendship between them which was interrupted four years ago with Houdini's death.

In his last letter to an American friend, written less than a month ago when he was aware that the heart ailment which caused his death today might soon prove fatal, Sir Arthur wrote of that friendship and of his hope of resuming it in the spirit world in which he believed so earnestly.

"I expect to talk it all over with Houdini in person before very long," he wrote, "I view the prospect with perfect equanimity. That is what psychic research does for one."

But it was Conan Doyle the author whom William Gillette, creater of the Sherlock Holmes role on the stage, mourned. In a telegram to the Associated Press from his Connecticut home Mr. Gillette said:

Tribute by Gillette.

"Doyle is dead. A very great man has left us. But he has left us with the admirable and delightful literary work of his earlier years, and in later life has shown a tireless devotion to a cause which he considered of vital importance to the human race."

Gillette got from Conan Doyle, with difficulty, permission to make a play of the Sherlock Holmes stories. The play gave Gillette his most famous role, one which he revived last season after many years with greater success than greeted his first appearance in it.

When Conan Doyle's stories were published in this country, Frederick Dorr Steele, who did the illustrations, used Gillette as his model, and Sherlock assumed the proportions of Gillette himself, a tall, cadaverous man always smoking a calabash pipe or a cigar. That picturization of Sherlock Holmes became the popular envisagement of all detectives, and it was reflected even in the comic papers in Hawkshaw, slueth of the funny papers.

E. J. O'NEILL FUNERAL.

Rites Will be Held Today at St. Gabriel's Church.

Funeral services for Edward J. O'Neill, retired Washington grocer, who died from heart attack Saturday, will be held this morning. Services will be held at 8:30 o'clock at his residence, 514 Varnum street northwest, and will be followed by requiem mass at St. Gabriel's Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. O'Neill came to Washington from Waterford, Ireland, about 50 years ago, and established a grocery business in the Southwest section. He retired about eleven years ago. Mr. O'Neill was 77 years old. His wife died nine years ago. He is survived by a daughter, Miss Margaret O'Neill, and a son, James O'Neill, both of Washington.

DR. J. H. STONE RITES.

Capital Physician Will Be Buried at 1 O'clock Today.

Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in the chapel at Oak Hill Cemetery for Dr. J. H. Stone, Washington physician who died Sunday.

Dr. Stone's death was discovered after he failed to keep an engagement to attend a ball game. His demise was attributed to a heart attack. He had been a resident of Washington for more than 40 years and lived at 1308 Rhode Island avenue northwest. The nearest survivor is a brother, Dr. William Ridgely Stone, of New York.

Men in Auto Shoot Detroit Pair Dead

Police Unable to Explain Third Double Slaying in Five Days.

Detroit, July 7 (A.P.).—Two brothers, Sam and Joe Gaglio, were shot to death by two men at noon today while they were changing a tire behind a filling station. The assassins used a revolver and a shotgun. They escaped in an automobile.

The police were unable to explain this latest double shooting, the third of its kind within five days. Although carried out in much the same manner as the first two, neither of today's victims was known to police, nor could they be connected with any illegal enterprise.

Two Chicago racketeers, an undercover police investigator and an alleged bootlegger were slain in the two previous double shootings.

Mount Vesuvius Bursts Into Action

Hot Lava Invades Land; Eruptive Cone Falls 95 Feet in Crater.

Naples, Italy, July 7 (A.P.).—Mount Vesuvius today burst into a state of active eruption, developing three fountains of burning lava that invaded the whole northwest section of the vast platform of its crater. The eruptive cone fell 95 feet down into the crater.

Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvius Observatory, said the eruptive activity would continue for several weeks, but the lava probably would solidify in the crater and in the Valley of the Inferno.

He thought it would not pour out over the neighboring fertile slopes.

Bandits Flee Bullets In Ohio Bank Robbery

Dayton, Ohio, July 7 (A.P.).—Three robbers held up the Vandalia State Bank, 10 miles north of here today and escaped with $3,000 in cash.

John Ginn, who ran from a hotel adjoining the bank, fired repeatedly at the escaping robbers' car. He is thought to have wounded the driver, whom one of the other two replaced. The robbers fired at random as they drove away.

MRS. MALLON RITES.

Mrs. Violet E. Mallon, 35 years old, wife of Capt. William H. Mallon, United States Army, of Asbury Park, N. J., and formerly stationed at the Army Medical Center here as an Army nurse, died Saturday at the Monmouth Memorial Hospital in Long Branch, N. J., according to word received here yesterday.

Interment will be held this afternoon in Arlington Cemetery upon arrival of the body from Spring Lake, N. J., where mass will be said this morning in St. Catherine's Catholic Church there. She served throughout the World War as a reserve nurse, entered the Army and served in Army hospitals at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.; San Francisco and Manila also. She was in charge of the Nurses Relief Expedition to Tokyo in the Japanese earthquake of 1924.

MRS. PRESCOTT'S FUNERAL.

Resident of Clarendon is Buried in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Georgia W. Prescott, a resident of Washington for 65 years, who died last Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter I. Gideon, in Clarendon, Va., were held yesterday afternoon in the chapel of Rock Creek Cemetery. Burial was in the cemetery.

Mrs. Prescott moved to Clarendon three years ago. She nursed Union soldiers in Washington during the Civil War and was acquainted with President Lincoln.

JULIUS LANSBURGH, MERCHANT, EXPIRES

Lengthy Illness Is Fatal to One-Time Partner in Capital Store.

WAS BORN IN GERMANY

Julius Lansburgh, 78 years old, prominent retired merchant and at one time associated with his two brothers in the firm of Lansburgh & Brother, died yesterday afternoon at his residence in the Woodward Apartments, 2311 Connecticut avenue northwest, after a lengthy illness.

He was born in Hamburg, Germany, and came when 3 years old to Baltimore with his father and his two brothers, Gustav L. Lansburgh and James L. Lansburgh, who established the firm of Lansburgh & Brother here in 1860.

He came to Washington as a young man and became head of the rugs, carpets and drapery department in the store. Later he established his own firm under the name of Julius Lansburgh Furniture & Carpet Co., which occupied several locations, one at the old Rink on New York avenue between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets northwest and later on Ninth street between E and F streets northwest.

He sold his interest in the store in 1919. The present owners, however, retained the same name. Shortly afterward he established the Lansburgh Interior Decorating Co. on M street near Connecticut avenue northwest, but retired in 1928 because of failing health.

He was a graduate of Emerson Institute, and was a member of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, the Monday Evening Club, the Kalorama Heights Citizens Association and the District of Columbia Social Hygiene Society.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dora Hines Lansburgh, and a son, Richard H. Lansburgh, of Detroit, Mich., formerly secretary of labor of Pennsylvania and former professor in the University of Pennsylvania.

Funeral plans are awaiting the arrival of the son. They will be conducted at the apartment by Dr. Abram Simon, rabbi of the Washington Hebrew Congregation.

Pilot Dies, Second Hurt In Canada Field Crash

Camp Borden, Ontario, July 7 (A.P.).—Two army planes, one taking off and the other landing, collided over Camp Borden today, killing one pilot and seriously injuring the other. E. W. Sorenson 20, is the dead pilot, and G. D. Pooler the injured one. Sorenson had been flying for one month and Pooler for four. The ships crashed too low in the air for either pilot to use his parachute.

BRIDEGROOM TELLS OF MYSTERY ATTACK

ROBBERY HELD MOTIVE

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 7.—The Harry Hirsch farm, where Clifton Borneman, 30, bridegroom of a few days and victim of a holdup Saturday morning, is lying in a delirious state, was beseiged with reporters and cameramen today, until Dr. J. Oliver Purvis arrived and ordered them from the scene.

Mr. Borneman was found in the woods near his home in an unconscious condition and is still unable to give a full account of the happenings which may furnish a clew as to how he came there. The case, according to Sheriff Michael F. Carter, of Anne Arundel County, has mysterious aspects.

The only clew developing today is comment of authorities that a hired hand on the Dittel estate, near the Hirsch farm, shortly after noon yesterday, saw a tall, thin man, with blond hair and light shoes and suit, come from the bushes near where Borneman's unconscious form was found.

The hired hand, whose name was withheld, is alleged to have remarked that the tall man was a stranger to him and had apparently lost his way to the road nearby.

Found New Home Site.

Jim Hill, the colored man who found Borneman moaning in the bushes, said he thought a shoat had gotten loose and was grunting.

"I went to investigate and was astounded to find Master Cliff lying on a mound of clay, writhing feebly but moaning deeply. I called Mr. Chris Rockcliffe and the two of us carried Master Cliff to Mr. Hirsch's house," Hill said in an interview.

Mr. Borneman's body was found near the foundation of a house which he had planned to build for himself and bride of last Tuesday. They were married in Washington and sent the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Tall, of Park avenue, Baltimore and Round Bay, a telegram to that effect, the former Miss Jane Tall told reporters today.

From the day of their marriage, Mr. Borneman and his bride lived with her aunt, Mrs. Carrie Hendicks, of Baltimore. Mr. Borneman, however, came to Arnolds each day for his farm duties.

It was on his return to Baltimore to get his bride that the assault is alleged to have occurred at Pasadena. In the few moments the man slipped from his comatose state today, according to Mr. Hirsch, he said that he was struck in the forehead by a man's fist. "I was talking with one of the three men who stopped me when the biggest man of the three who was on my right passed at me. I do not remember a thing thereafter," Mr. Hirsch said Mr. Borneman mumbled.

Robbery Motive Accepted.

County police officials are inclined to believe the attack was made solely for the purpose of robbery. They believe that Mr. Borneman will be able to give them a clew if he recovers.

Mr. Hirsch stated that Mr. Borneman was a hard-working mechanic at the time he met Miss Tall three years ago when she brought her automobile to his garage for repairs.

"Cliff was just a poor boy," he said, "and she was reported as rich and out of his reach, but he went to her home frequently to play rook and other games and often dined there on Sundays. They soon fell in love, I am told, and notified her parents that they would be married next June. Why their plans suddenly changed, I do not know. She knew she could not have the luxuries she was accustomed to in marrying Cliff, but she is the type of American girl who has grit and was willing to make a try of it. They planned to buy my farm and build a little home of their own."

Vigilante Shots Bring Death in Marital Row

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Two armed vigilantes patrolling the dark lonely stretches of suburban Forest Glen, where a woman was slain by a moron last February, saw a motor car pull away from a curb last night just as a woman ran across the lawn, screaming:

"Stop him! Stop him!"

The vigilantes fired, the man toppled from the automobile, mortally wounded, and the vigilantes learned, they said, that instead of shooting a criminal, they had slain a piqued husband who had just left a party at his home because of a quarrel with his wife.

Lehlbach Praises Retirement Plan

Inequalities in Civil Service Pensions Removed by New Act, He Says.

Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach, of New Jersey, in a radio address last night over a National Broadcasting Co. network, reviewed the history of civil service legislation and listed the benefits of the retirement act recently enacted into law.

"When in this session it was proposed further to liberalize the system by merely increasing the benefits under the existing plan of retirement, President Hoover objected to any retirement legislation that did not uproot these inequitable provisions and establish a system that was economically sound," declared Representative Lehlbach. "After much controversy the existing retirement act resulted.

"The effect of the provisions is at once to increase substantially the annuities of those who have and will hereafter be retired on an average salary of less than $1,000. It will make definite and certain the rights of all participants of the retirement system in the money they contribute. It will make definite and certain the obligations under the system. It will afford to each employe the opportunity to secure a retirement annuity comparable to the money he has paid in for that purpose."

Murder, Suicide Seen In Death of Man, Wife

Etowah, N. C., July 7 (A.P.).—T. Claude Whitesides, 24, and his wife, 22, were found shot to death at their home here today.

BALTIMORE TO HAVE TRANSATLANTIC LINE

Firm Asks Charter for First Passenger Service Since World War.

TO INVEST $10,000,000

Baltimore, Md., July 7 (A.P.).—Formation of the $10,000,000 Baltimore Mail Steamship Co. in 1931 will give Baltimore the first transatlantic passenger line since the World War, was announced here today with the filing before State officials of application for a charter. The line will provide weekly sailings of 14,300-ton liners to Hamburg, calling at Havre and Bremen.

The line is backed by local capitalists in conjunction with the Roosevelt Steamship Co., and details of the system were given out by John M. Franklin, vice president of the Roosevelt company, who will act as executive officer of the Baltimore line. He said five liners would inaugurate the system, with the Government mail contracts which provide for two additional liners on Federal demand.

Donald H. Symington, Baltimore banker, is president of the new company; Kermit Roosevelt and Henry E. Treide, vice presidents, and I. W. Iglehart, treasurer. W. Frank Roberts is to be chairman of the board, which also includes George M. Shriver, vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and George Pabst, treasurer of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

MAN SHOT IN SUICIDE PACT IS NEAR DEATH

SIMPLE MURDER, CLAIM

Paterson, N. J., July 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—While Roderic Meakle, violinist, 28, lay barely alive today in a private room of St. Joseph's Hospital here, from a self-inflicted wound and pneumonia, which has set in, police and Mrs. Otto Kern, mother of Jennie Brauer, the girl he killed in a suicide pact, were making plans to bring him to justice in case he recovers.

Doctors, however, today held out slight hope he would live. Symptoms of pneumonia, due to exposure to the chill night air and heavy showers while he lay wounded for 36 hours in the swampy underbrush near Echo Lake, northwest of Butler, N. J., are a greater danger than the wound from the bullet which passed through the frontal lobe of his bran, physicians say.

The body of Jennie Brauer, 22, was found Saturday night in an automobile parked in a lane. She had been killed by a bullet fired at close range, and by her side was a note indicating she had been a party to a suicide pact. Meakle wandered into the hands of the police early Sunday morning.

Mother Plans Vengeance.

But although the police have put the murder down as part of a suicide pact, Mrs. Kern, mother of the dead girl, claims it was nothing but murder, and because both she and her husband feel that the girl was hounded to her death they mean to vindicate her.

Mrs. Kern, a trim, blonde woman, who looks too young to have a grown daughter, and her husband, Otto, moved about a year ago from Paterson to North Haledon, where they have a chicken farm. Jennie, who had been living with them up to this time, since her arrival from Germany, then moved to Brooklyn, where she could find a job, meet people and be near her uncle, who was to look after her. Mrs. Kern received weekly reports on the behavior of Jennie from her brother.

"I was glad when he told me a nice young man was taking Jennie out," her mother related. "He used to comt to my brother's house on Wilson street. He told them he was single and that he had been engaged once. I am sure that my daughter never dreamed that he was a married man."

Pair Came to See Mother.

"About ten days ago a man and a woman came here to look for Jennie," Mrs. Kern said. "They said they were Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, but from the pictures I am sure the man was meakle. Mrs. Murphy told me that my daughter was running around with her husband and asked if I couldn't stop it. I told her I would do everything to help her. We were going to send Jennie back to Germany. I told Meakle, too, at the time, to leave Jennie alone and I would see that he let him alone. I got in touch with my brother and told him and that was when Jennie learned that Meakle was not a single man."

Mrs. Kern believes her daughter was persuaded to go to Niagara Falls with Meakle and was shot against her will.

Mrs. Jessie Murphy, who, records prove, married Meakle secretly September 3, 1926, in Bridgeport, Conn., today refused to see anyone and referred every one to her attorney.

English Faction Stirred on Tariff

Failure to Provide Duties for Safeguard Laid to Labor Regime.

London, July 7 (A.P.). — Stanley Baldwin, former prime minister and Conservative leader, and Neville Chamberlain, minister of health in the late Baldwin government, have brought the tariff question politically to the fore in Britain by giving notice of a vote of censure on the Labor government for failure to provide safeguarding duties.

The motion, which will be debated soon, reads: "That this house, believing a return to prosperity can best be promoted by safeguarding the home market against unfair foreign competition and by expanding the export market by reciprocal trade agreements with the empire overseas, regrets that the government has reversed the policy of safeguarding, instead of extending, it."

It adds that Labor has "arbitrarily excluded from consideration the imposition of duties upon foreign foodstuffs devised to obtain equivalent advantages for British manufacturers and agriculture in the empire markets and elsewhere." The conservative leaders asked Prime Minister McDonald to set an early date for the discussion in the House.

DANCER'S BLACK EYE BLAMED ON WOOER

Lease was freed under $500 bail and ordered to appear Thursday.

Miss Duncan related to the justice she left the home of Charles Farrell, film actor, following an informal gathering there, with Lease and John Farrow, scenario writer, accompanying her as she drove to her cottage. Farrow bid good night at his home, the dancer said, and as he disappeared, Lease took the keys from her car.

She said she demanded the keys. Lease refused and asked for a kiss. She became indignant. Lease swung at her eye. The punch landed, followed by several kicks and when she asked him the reason for the outburst, she said he replied, "because I love you."

The dancer then, summoned a night watchman.

Rosetta, older sister of Vivian, also has had her flatic troubles with the stronger sex. Rosetta was arrested in Cicero, Ill., in 1924 for violating a traffic rule and alleged she was beaten in the Cicero Police Station by two officers. Her nose and a rib were broken, and she suffered various cuts and bruises, she said.

Arrest of the officers followed, and they retaliated with a suit for damages against the costar of "Topsy and Eva," setting forth the actress had inflicted injuries upon them in resisting arrest.

Abducted Finnish Delegates Freed.

Helsingfors, Finland, July 7 (A.P.).—Communist Deputies Pekkala and Roekoe, who were abducted from within the Finnish Diet Building last Saturday, were released by their captors without having suffered any injury. The deputies had been kidnaped during a session of the Diet's constitutional committee and whisked away by ten men in two motor cars.

Discrimination Is Charged By Business Women Over 40

National Federation Will Conduct Survey to Get at Facts.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Directors of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs reported today that they had noted a tendency to discriminate in business against a woman of more than 40 years.

The board, meeting here in annual session, voted to conduct an immediate survey of the situation with the aim of helping the older business woman adjust herself or increase her opportunities.

The survey will be directed by Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, of Montclair, N. J., industrial engineer and chairman of the federation's research committee.

In presenting her recommendation for the survey Dr. Gilbreth said she felt that this is a problem affecting even the youngest business woman, since the recent tendency to discharge experienced women who are past 40, if persisted in, will shorten the working life of every woman.

That quarter of a million dollars was disbursed last year to prospective business boys and girls through scholarships maintained through local chapters of the federation, was revealed in the report of the national education committee, headed by Miss D. O. Williams, of Washington, D. C.

Legge Explains Slump in Wheat

Farm Board Head Tells Nebraska Growers Low Prices Due to General Depression

Hastings, Nebr., July 7 (A.P.).—Chairman Alexander Legge, of the Farm Board, today told hard wheat growers of the Middle West that low prices were in part due to the general depression and that he doubted that low prices would be permanent. Better times were coming, although he could not say just when. Chairman Legge was here with Secretary Hyde to advocate reduction in wheat acreage as a relief from the record low prices for that grain.

"In the last analysis," Mr. Legge said, "the matter of what you are going to do about the situation must be left to the producer."

Chairman Legge said the Farm Board had been "charged with a lot of things," and he had no doubt that "the fellows who always find trouble will find a way to charge us with the decline in prices of securities and other products in addition to those produced by the farmer."

Farmer Arrested In Double Murder

Bodies of Stepmother and Father Are Found in Ashes of Home.

Warren, Ark., July 7 (A.P.).—Albert Barnett, 3-year-old farmer, was held without bond in jail here tonight on a charge of murder in connection with the deaths of his father, J. R. Barnett, 65, prosperous farmer, and his tsepmother, aged 60, whose bodies were found in the ruins of their fire-razed home near here today.

Barnett was charged with murder following a verdict by a coroner's jury late today that the aged couple had "come to their death by violent means at the hands of Albert Barnett" and that the house had been fired to prevent detection of the crime.

The elder Barnett's bloodstained hat was found near the son's house. Sheriff Lee said he learned bad feeling had existed between the father and so nfor some time.

Suit Filed to Halt Norris Confusion

Backers of Incumbent Seek to Keep Namesake From Ticket.

Lincoln, Nebr., July 7 (A.P.).—Suit was filed in district court today by Donald Gallagher, a Lincoln attorney, to restrain Secretary of State Frank Marsh from entering the name of George W. Norris, of Brokne Bow, on the Republican primary ballots in Nebraska in opposition to Senator George W. Norris, of McCook, for the senatorial nomination.

Gallagher attacked the legality of accepting a mailed filing which was received July 5, two days after the rolls were closed, although posted in the mails on July 3.

Friends of Senator Norris in Omaha were perparing to also attack the filing with a protest to be filed directly with the secretary of state.

241 on Trial in Sicily For Mafia Group Crimes

Sciacca, Sicily, July 7 (A.P.).—Two hundred and forty-one alleged members of the famous Sicilian Mafia, secret terrorist society, went on trial today before the Court of Assizes. They were charged with a wide variety of crimes.

Fifty royal carabinieri, besides the regular court officials, guarded the courtroom, but no disturbances occurred. The accused are defended by a small corps of highly paid attorneys.

Austrians Release U. S. Man From Jail

Creditors Learn Financier Has Plenty of Money to Pay Debts.

Salzburg, Austria, July 7 (A.P.).—The creditors of John Wesley De Kay, American financier, formerly of Providence, R. I., who was arrested last week for alleged nonpayment of bills, have withdrawn their complaints because the value of his property is easily sufficient to cover all liabilities.

Mr. De Kay was released from jail on Saturday and has since lived quietly at his hotel with his family. Austrian authorities searched his baggage for documents, the nature of which was not specified, but found nothing irregular.

Mr. De Kay tonight said he intended to remain in Salzburg for the music festival in August. He said he had plenty of money and could guarantee payment of all his bills. Thanking the jail officials for their courtesy to him he said he was satisfied with his treatment during arrest. He said he knew nothing of any extradition proceedings against him.

Woman's Skull Found; Police Open Inquiry

Fulton, N. Y., July 7 (A.P.).—The finding of a woman's skull, with long blond hair still attached, and a human thigh bone, in the earth deposited on a State highway fill at Hotchkiss Hill in the town of Velmey, south of this city, has spurred police and county officials to an investigation.

State police are now working on the theory that the body was buried at the side of the road by persons unknown. Earth for the refill was taken from the vicinity of the Ford farm or State Park, north of here, according to workmen.

MERCHANT MARINE RIVALRY.

Shipping rivalry and shipbuilding activity which were temporarily halted by the World War have been resumed in good earnest. The Ile de France, flying the tricolor, was followed down the ways by the Bremen and the Europa, which claim in Germany's name the title of twin mistresses of the North Atlantic, and now England, with the motorship Britannic, which has completed her maiden voyage to New York, makes her bid for the rich North Atlantic passenger trade. Only the United States lags behind in the race for shipping supremacy. While other nations have powerful and luxurious new vessels in the water, America is only beginning to build.

The Britannic displaces 27,000 tons. She is driven by two 10,000-horsepower motors, which give her an average speed of 16 knots. She is 680 feet long, wth an 82-foot beam, and accommodates in her three cabins 1,550 passengers. She is described as "the last word in comfort and luxury."

The Britannic's arrival in New York was made the occasion of an announcement by the United States Lines of the prospective keel-laying of the first of the two new 30,000-ton liners that are to be built to enable the American merchant marine to compete with the new foreign flag ships. The new American vessels will cost $21,000,000. Each will be 705 feet long with a beam of 86 feet and a gross tonnage of 31,000. They are designed for a speed of 20 knots and their equipment will be such as to provide the utmost in luxury, safety and comfort. These ships are the first to be built in a $90,000,000 building program, and it is intended that they shall be put in commission early in 1932. The keel of the first will be laid early in December.

It is a great pity that merchant marine legislation was not enacted two or three years earlier than was the case. American shipping interests started in as soon as a policy encouraging the re-creation of the merchant marine became law to prepare to meet foreign competition, and they are making good progress to this end, but their competitors had an earlier start, as a result of which they are in a position to command patronage that American flag ships will have to win back when finally they are put in commission. Further delay in rebuilding the American merchant marine should not be tolerated. With competition growing continually more intense, every day's delay in getting modern, fast, luxurious American flag ships into the water will prove most costly.

SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE.

The career of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who is dead in London at the age of 71, was a continuous pursuit of the mysterious. It is not an easy task to explain this physician, novelist and spiritualist, except through his inordinate love of the occult. Mystery led him into deeper mystery, and Sir Arthur died firm in the conviction that discovery and communication with the spirit world is the most important task confronting humanity.

Having created his famous character, Sherlock Holmes, and having led him through the mysteries of the underworld to one amazing triumph after another, Sir Arthur's mind yearned to look into the inexplicable facts of life itself. The exploits of Sherlock Holmes had brought him fame and wealth, but his mind was not satisfied. In spite of the continued demand of his reading public, he allowed his invincible character to "go the way of all flesh" in 1927, fearing that he might outlive his popularity. Even before this he had turned his attention almost wholly to spiritualism.

It is not as a spiritualist, however, that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle is known to the world. As a writer of a distinctive brand of fiction, which vicariously satisfies the average man's craving for adventure, he became known, and when his name is last written he will likely be set down as the creator of Sherlock Holmes. The career of that untiring sleuth has now been brought to a definite end. But being a fiction he may go on living for generations.

HOLLAND SPEAKS UP.

The Dutch government's reply to M. Briand's memorandum proposing a United States of Europe is a valuable criticism. It points out, with all diplomatic courtesy, the difficulties which arise when a group of nations with such varied policies and conditions try to adopt a uniform economic policy. Such an agreement is impossible, Holland reminds M. Briand, unless each nation is willing to sacrifice some of its national rights. Her majesty's government seems skeptical that any worthwhile advantage could come from the proposal.

Holland calls the attention of M. Briand to the fact that it is a colonial empire. Geographic unity, the reply says, is not in itself an adequate basis for union, and though the European states may have many interests in common, they have them also with other nations outside of Europe. It would be impossible, the note continues, for the Dutch government to collaborate in setting up an international instrument of discrimination. Since the very purpose of the movement is to unite Europe economically against the rest of the world, it sounds as if the Dutch could be counted out from the beginning.

The question as to colonial empires is a difficult one. Would the European economic union include all the territorial possessions of European nations? The difficulties presented by the note from The Hague serve to illustrate how far Europe is from any sort of economic or political union.

THE NEW COMMISSIONER.

The appointment of Maj. John C. Gotwals, Corps of Engineers, to the Board of District Commissioners, completes the reorganization of that body. Maj. Gotwals is slated to succeed Engineer Commissioner Ladue, whose four-year term expires July 21. Col. Ladue is the last of the "hold-over" Commissioners, Dr. Reichelderfer and Gen. Crosby having been appointed recently by President Hoover to succeed Messrs. Dougherty and Taliaferro.

Col. Ladue, the retiring Commissioner, has served faithfully and creditably during his four-year term of office. The physical properties of the District have never been in better shape than he leaves them. Under his direction, the engineering activities of the local government have been carried steadily forward and the people's money has been judiciously expended. Col. Ladue has made a host of friends during his sojourn in Washington who unite in wishing him success in his future assignments.

Maj. Gotwals has had a wide and varied experience as an officer of the engineering corps. A graduate of Pennsylvania State College, he was commissioned in 1913. In 1917 he was ordered to France, where he served with dstinction that merited the award of the Distinguished Service Medal "for exceptional meritorious service." He has been a United States district engineer and president of the Board of Road Commissioners of Alaska.

The engineer commissionership of the District of Columbia, with its manifold responsibilities, offers its incumbent an unusual opportunity for service. Maj. Gotwals comes to his new post bearing the high recommendation of a successful career as an Army engineer. He promises to be a satisfactory and able successor of Col. Ladue.

COSTLY HOLIDAYS.

George Stathakis' plunge over Niagara Falls in a barrel was the crowning achievement of folly that marked the holiday period ending Sunday. Only three persons have descended with the white spray of Niagara and lived to tell the tale. The self-styled philosopher, Stathakis, was ambitious to be the fourth. Apparently he was little injured by the fall, but the barrel to which he had intrusted his fate was held behind the curtain of the falls until he smothered for lack of oxygen.

The desire for notoriety which prompts men to face almost certain death in useless enterprises is difficult to understand. There is in such feats very little of the spirit of the adventurer who explores new lands, the physician who risks death to isolate an internecine germ, or the pilot who paves the way for safety in the air. Tumbling to a miserable death over a waterfall helps no one and adds nothing to the skill of the performer. It is a wanton sacrifice of life in the hope of attracting foolish public applause.

While this was the most notable example of foolhardy feats performed during the holiday period, it is by no means the only one. More than 400 persons were accidentally killed from Friday to Sunday and injuries were numbered by thousands. The chief causes were automobile accidents, drownings and fatal burns from fireworks.

Why do people attempt to celebrate the Nation's birthday by putting their lives in danger? A large percentage of holiday accidents would be preventable if people did not forsake the common rules of safety that they observe as a matter of course at other times.

The psychology of holidays in America needs to undergo a comprehensive revision. Reaction against such unofficial celebrations as characterize the Fourth of July is certain to grow unless methods of celebrating change. To make Independence Day an occasion for sacrificing nearly 200 lives each year is, to say the least, an indictment of the American sense of propriety. Feats that put human life in danger for the entertainment of a crowd can add nothing to the festivity of the day. The holiday attitude, which now too frequently borders on reckless dereliction, ought to become one of wholesome recreation.

FOR SAFETY AT SEA.

Safety at sea should be materially enhanced by the new convention worked out by the international load-line conference, which has just completed its work in London. The convention will be signed by delegates of 33 maritime nations. If ratified by the respective governments, it will provide uniform requirements for loading vessels throughout the world.

The American delegation was particularly successful in securing agreement to the measures it considers necessary for the safety of shipping. Foremost among these is the principle of "zone loading" as outlined by the United States load-line committee in 1920. Navigable waters will be zoned and loading regulations will be prescribed for each area. Where hazardous conditions are encountered ships will be required to limit their cargoes accordingly. The legal load-line will vary in accordance with the waters traveled through.

One other important provision of the convention is that permitting development of new designs and unique types of ships. Some countries have found it difficult to improve their merchant vessels because of stringent load-line requirements. This more flexible arrangement should encourage the development of new types and at the same time maintain high safety standards.

The principal objective of the convention is to prevent overloading of vessels in such a way as to make them unsafe for passengers and crews. No one nation can assure safety to its nationals traveling overseas without subscribing to an international agreement on this subject. It is essentially an international problem, affecting the shipping of all countries. Since the American delegation succeeded in writing virtually every provision it sponsored into the final convention, there should be no difficulty in securing ratification of the agreement here. It is highly desirable that the new regulations be universally adopted.

UNSAFE AUTOMOBILES.

Washington automobile dealers, in the last two months, destroyed a total of 766 automobiles received in trade on the ground that mechanically they were so faulty as to constitute serious menaces to safety. The cars destroyed represented about 11 per cent of the total traded in the District during the period and until they were turned in by their owners presumably they were in constant operation on the streets of the city. "When 766 cars in two months are found so dangerous that dealers will not take the risk of trying to repair them," says the Automotive Trade Association, "it is obvious that the menace of faulty automobiles in Washington is serious enough to merit the earnest attention of the public, especially when it is realized that the vast majority of unsafe vehicles still are being driven on the streets by private owners."

Massachusetts, New York, Maryland and other States have made determined efforts to rid their highways of unsafe vehicles. In several of the States periods have been set aside for the inspection of all vehicles and the inspections invariably have shown a large percentage of automobiles with faulty lights, brakes, warning signals, rear vision mirrors or more serious defects. Wherever a serious attempt has been made to rid highways of defective vehicles, the fact has been demonstrated that the average automobile owner is not to be trusted with the responsibility of keeping his vehicle in efficient operating condition. So long as a car will run under its own power, the owner is inclined to hold it satisfactory despite the fact that in an emergency any of several vital parts are apt to collapse.

The day is coming when official authority will have to be vested with supervision over the mechanical efficiency of motor vehicles. A car with poor brakes menaces the safety not only of the occupants but of the public as well. The committee that is now engaged upon a study of the local traffic ordinance and regulations might well consider the feasibility of providing for official mechanical inspection of every automobile as a prerequisite to licensing. Meanwhile, the traffic director under the existing code has authority to enforce certain requirements with respect to brakes and lights.

MAN AND HIS TITLE

From the Boston Transcript.

It has been Admiral this and Admiral that for Richard Byrd ever since his return from the Farthest South, but on his own confession he answers more spontaneously to the "Dick" by which he is known to his familiars. When he passes eventually into history he will perhaps have won the distinction conferred on all the truly great of being known by his family name alone, like Livingstone and Stanley. When men speak of Byrd everybody will know that they mean Byrd the explorer. His given name and titles will have become superfluous appendages. He will be the one outstanding Byrd for the encyclopedists and the newspaper editors.

It is curious to see how titles gradually lose their importance as men become illustrious. While a man is an alderman nothing will do but he must be called Alderman So-and-So even by the man who sells him a cigar. But if he keeps on and reaches the august heights where he commands world-wide attention, distinctive appellations are sloughed off one by one. During his lifetime, to be sure, whenever he is addressed in the vocative case the "Mr. President" or "Colonel" or "Senator" is tacked on as a courtesy title, but when he is talked about, either as a figure of the present or the past, the handle to his name is rarely used except for rhetorical convenience.

Sometimes, during the years in which a man's fame is growing, particularly if he is in politics, the use of his name without even a "Mr." before it is the work of his enemies who wish to belittle him. It is a subtle form of detraction to call a man Curley or Tinkham or Coolidge when his utterances or opinions first excite violent opposition. Little by little, however, if he is destined for a great place in the world, the use of his bare surname becomes, by a strange paradox, an acknowledgment that he is one of the immortals.

The kind of name a man bears, of course, helps or hinders. Washington and Coolidge are not common names. When fate names a man Smith she puts him under a heavy handicap from the very start. He must be a man of extraordinary gifts to have the mere mention of the name "Smith" mean him alone among all the wilderness of Smiths. The one example that we can recall when it did mean precisely that was during the last presidential campaign. Campaign fame, however, is ephemeral. Only success can give it solidity and permanence. Perhaps fate took a hand in the business. She tried to conceal Alfred in the first place by naming him Smith. He refused to remain concealed. She bided her time and then, by deliberately removing him from the political scene, took a burden off the shoulders of the editors of biographical dictionaries. Alfred Smith has today all the qualities of greatness that he possessed two years ago. But he failed to reach the Presidency and the encyclopedists will ignore him. He will be distinguished as "Al" or "Governor" to the end of the chapter.

There's Nothing Romantic About the Cheat Who Wins by Breaking the Rules.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

DR. FRANZ ALEXANDER, of Berlin, says every man is born a criminal.

That is true only in the sense that a fox is a criminal when it takes a tame goose, though innocent when it catches a wild one.

Criminals are not born; they are made by rules.

"Where there is no law there is no condemnation."

Man is born with the instinct to preserve himself, and in a natural state he obeys his instinct without guilt.

He can not steal, for there are no property rights in nature and everything is free to the one who can take and use it.

His lies are innocent, for a lie is the natural weapon of the weak and nature sets the example in deceitful coloration.

The acts made necessary by nature are not immoral in themselves, and when man in a natural state does the things essential to his preservation, welfare and happiness, he is no more a criminal than the "lower" animals that live as nature prompts them to live.

When civilization began—when men became so numerous that they began to be in one another's way and to interfere with one another's rights—their common sense prompted them to make rules and regulations for their common good.

Necessity was the mother of morality.

The old instinct of self-preservation suggested marriage laws to make each man care for his own woman and his own children, property laws to protect each man's holdings from his neighbor, and ethical laws to prevent the inconvenience and uncertainty that are caused by lying.

Expediency prompted law making; but once the laws were made, it became the reasonable duty of every man to accept and obey them.

The man who would not was a rebel against public opinion—a cheat who would not abide by the rules—a nonconformist who claimed unusual privileges for the sake of unusual profit, and therefore an enemy of the orthodox.

A new morality had come into the world—a kind of good sportsmanship, which consisted in obeying the rules for the sake of the general good.

As time and religion and custom sanctified the rules, the man who disobeyed them became more and more an outcast.

All religions consigned him to hell and temporal powers locked him in jail.

He may still argue, with logic and truth, that he but exercises his natural rights; but circumstances change the definition of morality, and the rules made necessary by civilization are as "natural as the necessary instinct that prompts the hungry fox.

Immorality is simply bad sportsmanship—breaking the rules that wisdom has established for the game of life.

Lexicon of the Summer Motor Trip.

Caravan: Any uninterrupted traffic jam.

Detour: A miserable stretch of back-country road closed in the non-touring season but made mandatory during July and August.

Rotisserie: A wayside restaurant where you can see a chicken broiled in the window while you are changing a tire.

"Chicken Dinners": A term used, jokingly no doubt, by the proprietors of roadside restaurants to denote an order of mashed potatoes, a dish of canned peas, a cup of bad coffee and the bones of a prehistoric bird.

Tourists' Camp: A mosquito-infested field in which a man, wife and six children can put up overnight in a piano box.

"Joe's Place": Any hot-dog stand where the frankfurters are pretty good and the maximum price is ten cents.

Road Map: Something carried by tourists to intensify the argument at unmarked intersections; a pamphlet based on a road survey made during the McKinley administration; something in which great faith is put for the first 50 miles.

Tourists' Guide—A book recommending a lot of hotels, most of which went out of business in 1908; a volume giving much data regarding routes, which you do not intend using; a document of handy misinformation; a guarantee of confusion, chaos, family arguments and a journey 25 miles out of the way.

Scenic Beauty—The spaces behind the advertising signs.

Rivers—Streams full of old car bodies.

Lakes—Bodies of water used by tourists and picnickers for disposing of empty bottles, paper plates, empty sardine cans, jam jars, etc.

Beach—Usually a place on the ocean front, which appears to be the scene of a general mobilization of the allied nations.

Summer Hotel—An ancient barn with subdivisions; a landmark where the salt will not come out of the shaker; a dilapidated building with pitchers and bowls in the $20-a-day rooms; a place where the minimum comfort is obtained at the maximum price.

Bass Rod—Something father discovers, after a 400-mile drive, that he forgot to pack.

"Excellent Nine-hole Golf Course"—A hay field in which you can wander around morosely upon payment of a $3 greens fee.

All Modern Improvements—A coil of rope in case of fire, a bed with only four slats missing, a washroom at the end of the hall, and a telephone with the directions, "To get central, turn the crank."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Virtual Disappearance of Old Large Currency, But $1,000,000,000 of Them Are Still Out.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When the new-sized currency was adopted, it was thought that the old large currency would be out of circulation within a year, but at the beginning of the new fiscal year, July 1, the Treasury found that $1,060,795,609 of the old bills were still in circulation. However, the new currency has come into current use. On June 30 it was estimated that $3,759,849,324 of the new bills were in circulation. Hence, the new bills are almost four times as numerous as the old bills.

When the new bills first made their appearance there was quite a bit of complaint on the part of people who handled money because the handling of small and large bills was bothersome. Now that the large bills are rather scarce this complaint has been eliminated. It was very confusing when one had six little bills and five large bills in his folder at the same time. Often the little bills were concealed behind the large bills and would be handed out unnoticed. It will not be very long before the big bills will be a thing of the past. Collectors of old currency will hold out some of the bills, as their value will increase when they become a rarity.

Boulder Dam Offers an Opportunity to Relieve Prison Congestion and Unemployment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Before the flood of Mexican labor, that generally takes possession of our big jobs, begins to flow into Boulder Canyon, may I suggest that Boulder Dam could be made to take care of many men now in State and Federal prisons? There are thousands in this country who, otherwise eligible to parole, must be held in prison for want of jobs. I don't mean to advocate prison labor. These men can be paroled and paid for their work. Many discharged prisoners return to crime through necessity. They must eat. Virtuous people refuse them the right to make an honest living so we are forced to return them to prison.

Why not give them a chance? Every big job in the Southwest brings in many Mexicans, cheap labor, who drive the Southerners north in search of work. Our Northern cities are crowded with unemployed and our prisons overflowing, not because we are a race of criminals but because man must eat.

Why not give these parole prospects the opportunity to make good? It is their chance for a comeback. The Federal and State governments should favor any plan that would help to empty the crowded prisons and reclaim human derelicts.

The Allowing of an Adequate Profit in Commercial Transactions Is Necessary if Prosperity Is to Be Perpetuated.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Calvin Coolidge skipped a phrase in his article in your paper July 3. He said: "But the principal consuming power in this country is in the people who work. Unless they buy of the other fellow he can not buy of them." He should have added: "Buy at a proper business profit."

There is too much capital invested at about 6 per cent in the small retail field, and there are too many drawing first-class wages who forget that eventually all labor or service must be paid out of profits. Millions are out of work and wage reductions are taking place. Many are crowded to the wall not by a healthy competition amongst themselves but by unlimited capital invading their field. It is very nice to be able to force the highest wage, and buy below a proper market price, but the end will come. Sometimes it is policy to look matters in the face ahead of time. If we wait too long there will be empty stomachs.

Hornets Put Out Lights on Buoys Off New England Coast.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A week or two ago, the lighthouse tender which serves the lights and illumined buoys along the New England Coast found Cape Ann gas and whistling buoy and Nauset gas and whistling buoy extinguished. Both these buoys are off the coast of Massachusetts. Upon investigation, it was found that the lights had been invaded by hornets in such numbers that the lights were extinguished. There was a third buoy, Humarock, which captured about 100 or more hornets, but these did not extinguish the light.

One would think that the sea would be the last place for hornets to appear, as there is no food at sea for them. Two years ago the marine lights in this same section suffered from insects, but instead of hornets they were horseflies. One can understand why a horsefly might take a journey to sea. They would venture over the briny deep in the hope of finding a seahorse upon which to alight.

The United States Is Suffering From Unwarranted Apprehension—If all Would Push Together Humming Prosperity Would Return in 60 Days.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What is the matter economically with the United States? The answer is simply this: Fear of a crisis.

There is no real reason why all the people who want work should not get jobs. The United States today has more manufactured goods for sale, more of all kinds of cereals and of all grades and kinds of foodstuffs than any other nation. Now we must do something to get in high again.

Let all who possibly can employ some of the unemployed. At the end of 60 days business will be normal and all can get permanent jobs, as buying in all lines will be resumed.

The old car is only stuck in the ditch. All we need to start her rolling is willing men and women.

OHIO BALLOON WINS RACE AT 850 MILES

Detroit Bag Second as Both Soar From Houston to Kentucky.

CLEVELAND RANKS NEXT

Houston, Tex., July 7 (A.P.).—R. J. Blair, a former Navy Yard worker who used to handle a rivet gun, and Frank Trotter, a 29-year-old student aeronaut, today were declared the unofficial victors in the national elimination balloon race which got under way here Friday.

In the Akron, Ohio, entrant, Goodyear-Zeppelin, they traveled the greatest distance—some 850 miles. Blair, who used to work in the Bremerton Navy Yard, brought the Goodyear-Zeppelin down late yesterday at Greensburg, Ky.

The winner will not be officially designated until the National Aeronautic Association at Washington has checked all barographs and announced its verdict.

Detroit Entry Second.

Capt. Fred S. Wilbur, of the race committee, said his calculations show the Detroit Times, E. J. Hill pilot, and A. C. Schlosser, aid, in second place with some 700 miles.

Blair and Trotter and Hill and Schlosser, if the N. A. A. holds with the local committee, will compete along with Ward Van Orman as the American team in the international race September 1 at Cleveland. Van Orman won the interantional last year and did not have to compete in the elimination race this year.

The United Van Service balloon of Cleveland, piloted by George Hineman with Milford Vanik as aid, ran a close race with the Detroit Times, both landing in Kentucky. Capt. Wilbur estimated that the Cleveland entry finished in third place with an estimated 685 miles.

Navy Bag Is Fourth.

The Navy balloon, piloted by Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, with 640 miles, placed fourth. Lieut. R. G. Mayer was on the long trip with Settle. The unofficial compilation showed Lieuts. W. Bushnell and J. A. Greenwald of the Navy in fifth place, 550 miles, and Army Lieuts. W. D. Bule and J. P. Kidwell sixth with 400 miles.

For ten of the fifteen ballons which started a vicious thundercloud which hung low over the Texarkana area Saturday was the end of the voyage. They fought to the last, dumping clothing, food, and in one case even a part of the basket, in trying to stay aloft.

Blair and Trotter encountered enough of this trouble themselves, but managed to stick it out by throwing away their food and some of their clothing.

HECKSHER, HELPER OF POOR, WED AT 81

An inquiry ended in a finding that the philanthropist's charges were unsubstantiated.

Two years after the death of his first wife, reports were published that he was engaged to Frieda Hempel, German opera star, but both issued denials. A year later, Mme. Hempel sued the philanthropist for approximately $1,000,000, disclosing that she had signed a contract with Heckscher to give up singing "for hire" so that she might sing instead for sick children of the poor. She charged that Heckscher had agreed to give her $48,000 a year for life, but had only made one quarter payment. There was a settlement out of court and the singer returned to concert work.

Some years ago Heckscher turned his attention to the problem of the city's slums and devised various plans for their elimination. At first he thought of soliciting 500 millionaires, asking each one to contribute $100,000 annually for five years. He said he would furnish Mayor Walker a blacklist of any of the millionaires who declined to contribute. This plan fell through, however, and then Heckscher decided that replacement of the tenements should be done by city and State rather than by private philanthropy. He went abroad to study housing systems there for Mayor Walker. While definite plans still were in the making swindlers obtained between $500,000 and $1,000,000 from residents of the East Side by selling worthless "bonds" in the proposed rebuilding of the slum regions.

Undiscouraged by any vicissitude and disagreements, however, Heckscher has continued his many philanthropies and is active in the management of many charitable enterprises.

COMMISSIONER AND SUCCESSOR

Left to right: Maj. John C. Gotwals, newly named Engineer Commissioner of the District, and Col. William B. Ladue, whom he will succeed.

MAJ. GOTWALS WILL TAKE PLACE OF COL. LADUE AS DISTRICT HEAD

Abilities Known to Hoover.

Maj. Gotwals is known to District officials, having been the engineer who made a survey of all Washington theaters and auditoriums after the collapse of the Knickerbocker Theater roof in February, 1922. He was brought to Washington for the purpose at the instance of the then engineer commissioner, Col. Charles Keller.

President Hoover has had a chance to see Maj. Gotwals in action on two occasions. When Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover met Maj. Gotwals when he went to Alaska with President Harding. At that time Maj. Gotwals was president of the Board of Road Commissioners of Alaska and was an executive of the Alaska government railroad.

Again, when the Mississippi went on rampage and Secretary Hoover went to the flood area, Maj. Gotwals was Army engineer officer for the district with headquarters at Natchez, Miss., where Mr. Hoover saw him at work combating the raging flood and doing what has since been described as impressing the President as heroic rescue work.

Maj. Gotwals was born in Norristown, Pa., on November 4, 1882. He was graduated by the Pennsylvania State College in 1906 with the degree of bachelor of science and in 1907 was awarded a civil engineering degree.

Served in World War.

He was appointed a probationary second lieutenant in the Army on March 3, 1913 and assigned to duty in Texas. He was on duty at the Washington Barracks from 1915 to August, 1917, as a student in the engineer's school. He went to France in August, 1917, with the First Engineers and had several and varied engineering assignments while there, including duty with the American peace mission. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his work.

During the war he rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel, from which he was discharged on June 30, 1920, returning to the rank of major on July 1, 1920 which rank he has since held. He was made a captain on July 1, 1916.

He was assigned to duty as engineer officer at St. Louis, and was relieved of that assignment to come here as engineer commissioner.

St. Louis, Mo., July 7 (A.P.).—Maj. William Snow, now stationed at Wilmington, N. C., is expected shortly to be transferred here to take charge of the St. Louis office of the Army Engineers, succeeding John C. Gotwals. The latter has been appointed one of the three commissioners of the District of Columbia for a four-year term beginning July 21.

duced an eight-hour law on their behalf, and he fought for it until it was enacted. He also put through a bill to make the mines safer places in which to work.

Seventeen years later, when he had become governor of the State, he launched another crusade, but on this occasion he failed. A Republican executive, he tried to abolish the spoils system in the State government and to supplant it with a competitive system such as he now presides over, but a Democratic legislature balked him.

In the course of that fight he won the sobriquet of "Three E's" Campbell because of his advocacy of "efficiency, experience and economy" in the State government.

Acquainted in Capital.

Nor is he a stranger to Washington. He first came here on a visit with his mother when he was a small boy, making part of the trip by stage coach. His mother's maiden name was Eliza O'Flynn, and she had made this her home when she came here from Ireland. She married Daniel Campbell, a Scotchman, at Fort Dodge, Kans. He had been sent there after a vigorous campaign against the Apache Indians, and she was there as governess to the two children of Col. Tompkins, paymaster of the Army.

The couple moved to Prescott, Ariz., and there Mr. Campbell built a big ranch. Thomas Edward was born on this ranch, and still owns the house in which the event took place.

He began riding a horse at such an early age that he can't remember it. Then he took up surveying, and later became a prominent mining engineer and mine owner.

Wife's Father Democrat.

He married Eleanor Gayle Allen, daughter of the Democratic boss of the Territory of Arizona, and then, a Republican, he proceeded to whip his father-in-law's Democratic candidate for the Legislature. He has since held many political offices besides that and the office of governor. When President Hoover nominated him for the post he now holds, he was in Seville, Spain, administering the American section of the big exposition there.

With him on the Civil Service Commission, Gov. Campbell has Jessie Dell and George R. Wales. The latter has been with the commission almost since its creation.

Two important pieces of civil service legislation were enacted by the session of Congress just ended, the Dale-Lehlbach retirement act and the Brookhart-Lehlbach pay-raise act, and the task of administering these will be one of the first to confront the reorganized commission.

NEW MOTOR LINER'S INITIAL VOYAGE ENDS

Brittanic Wins High Praise From Master After New York Arrival.

COMFORT IS STRESSED

New York, July 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Although the maiden appearance in this port this morning of the new motor-liner Brittanic was notably lacking in the customary formal expressions of enthusiasm, such as Grover Whalen, the Macom with the mayor's committee and a convoy of tugs and private yachts, the good cabin ship did not want for compliments. However, despite the early hour, there were enough tugs, ferries and other harbor craft to make the river resound with welcoming sirens and whistles.

From the heart today issued words of laudation for the Britannic from the ship's master, the president and two vice presidents of the company that built the ship, and, last from the modest heart of her designer, Capt. Frederick Fletcher Summers, master of the 27,000-ton liner, who has traveled the seas 31 years, said:

"It is a notable thing to motor 3,000 miles without a stop, but to do so across the north Atlantic and at the same time enjoy all the amenities of modern civilization is to render the experience unique.

Comfort Called Absolute.

"To eat, sleep, walk, play games, dance, swim and enjoy life to the full in absolute comfort has been characteristic of the maiden voyage of the Brittanic, and there are those who have already determined to travel again and travel often by the same ship.

"There can be nothnig but praise for the sea-going qualities of the vessel. From the commander's point of view she handles well and is easy in a sea way. From the passengers' point of view she creates the illusion of fine weather all the way."

Planner Is Satisfied.

T. C. Tobin, who laid the plans for the vessel followed by Harland & Wolff of Belfast, Ireland, who built the first Brittanic in 1874, was found in a companionway. "She's perfectly satisfactory, but I'm not speaking officially. Better see the captain or the purser," he said, ducking into his cabin.

The new ship is 680 feet long, 82 feet beam, 44 feet deep and is of 27,000 tons gross. Her cabin class quarters accommodate 500 passengers.

Her blunt, oval stacks look down on generous decks and aft as a cruiser stern. She is all electric: ventilation, cooking, steering. The walls of her public rooms are finished in a recently developed stucco, modern, restful. She has a novel system of summoning service, lights, not buzzers.

Mouse to Warn Hawks Of Gas on Record Hop

Wichita, Kans., July 7 (A.P.).—In the forthcoming transcontinental sky dash of Capt. Frank Hawks, a mouse will be the danger signal against the hazards of a carbon monoxide filled cockpit.

Capt. Hawks, who will leave Wichita Friday for New York, there to await favorable weather for his three-stop cross-country record attempt, announced the latest wrinkle in air safety devices today. The mouse will ride in a cage in the inclosed cockpit of Hawks' monoplane. If the animal is overcome by fumes, the flier will realize his danger, lower hi speed and open the cockpit for ventilation.

COAL MINERS INSIST WAGES NOT BE CUT

Reductions in Time of Stress Harmful to Industry, Report Declares.

LOWER COSTS ARE GOAL

New York, July 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Miners' delegates in the anthracite wage conference today took the ground that neither directly nor indirectly must the wages of the 150,000 men in the industry be reduced.

Supporting that position, the group at the head of which John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, took his position today, presented the study of the National Industrial Conference board on wage trends in a ten-year period, in which it placed thumbs down on wage reductions in times of stress.

"Past experiences," said the board, which is made up of the leading industrialists of the country, and is placed among the world's most dependable research organizations, "has taught that when adverse business conditions make reductions in pay rolls necessary curtailments in hours and various operating economics are preferable to drastic reductions in wage rates."

Cost Reductions Sought.

The question of wages came up not in the form of a request for lower rates, but in the argument of the operators' group that reductions in cost of production are necessary if the price of anthracite is to be made more attractive to the people.

These reductions, the operators group, headed by William W. Inglis, president of the Glen Alden Coal Co., in reviewing the general situation of the industry, declares can, in part, at least, be affected by the amendment or elimination of rules and practices which it asserts serve no real purpose and do boost labor costs.

Against this, the miners argued that working rules are an essential part of the wage structure, and that changes would, to all intents and purposes, be wage reductions. The conference left this point open to take up the demand of the men for equalization of work, which, if granted, would mean that an operator with sufficient work to keep but one-half of his mines busy would be compelled to operate them half time, instead of, as many now do, operate half of them full time.

Injustice Is Claimed.

The position of the miners is that this works an injustice to the men who are idle against the time when demand may be sufficient to operate additional mines, and that it is antisocial to have whole communities in want while towns a mile distant are at least on a part-time basis.

The contention of the operators is that such division of work would add to costs and make even more difficult the regaining of lost markets.

The conference will take up this point when it resumes tomorrow morning, and, to speed the proceedings, will hold morning and afternoon sessions.

Prince Tells Student Union Britain Needs Pratotype of Rockefeller.

URGES NATIONAL HOME

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Hope that a "British prototype of Mr. Rockefeller" could be found to assist the English National Union of Students financially was expressed today by the Prince of Wales by a radio speech at the Savoy Hotel in London. The address was received here and rebroadcast on Nation-wide hookups.

Speaking at a dinner given by the Students' Union, the prince said he was personally interested in the success of the organizations' drive to raise funds for a headquarters building and a hospitality fund.

"The Natioonal Union of Students provides an introductory channel which any student from abroad may easily use. Its office is a center attracting students from all parts of the world. No student, be he British or foreign, need feel friendless in London so long as that office exists," he said.

"I am thinking of those magnificent international houses for students erected in New York and elsewhere by the munificence of one to whom we in this country, have great reason to be thankful. What a fine thing it would be if we could have in London a great house of residences for visiting students under auspices of the representative society of our own students. It is possible the British prototype of Mr. Rockefeller is among us tonight. If he is not, I hope it will not be long before the National Union finds him."

The speech was received by the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co. and was broadcast across the United States.

Atlanta Officer Escapes Censure

Council Refuses to Blame Couch for Releasing City's Prisoners.

Atlanta, July 7 (A.P.).—City council today voted down a resolution censuring acting Mayor J. Allen Couch for his action in emptying the city jail by a Fourth of July amnesty order, and ordered an impeachment trial for Dr. John G. Wilkins, city physician, recently indicted on charges of extortion.

Dr. P. L. Moon, former alderman, and H. M. Rantin, Democratic nominee for council, were named to succeed Alderman J. E. Turner and Councilman W. E. Saunders, both under conviction of bribery. Rantin defeated Saunders, who ran in the recent primary asking a "vindication vote." Turner and Saunders resigned after their conviction.

The censure motion was lost by adoption of a motion to table made by Alderman Alvin T. Richards and seconded by Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, who is under indictments charging bribery and interest in a city contract. Couch himself is under indictment following an extended investigation of municipal graft charges.

Lumber King's Son Shoots Divorcee

Attempt at Own Life Fails After Slaying Woman in Blind Pig.

Detroit, July 7, (A.P.).—Andrew Steffen, 48, scion of a wealthy Michigan family, late today shot and killed Mrs. Irene Harder, 33, a divorcee. He then held the muzzle of the pistol against his temple and pulled the trigger several times, but the gun was empty. According to police, Mrs. Harder was partner in an apartment blind pig in which the shooting occured. She was struck by five bullets and died almost instantly.

Steffen was captured just outside the apartment by a traffic policeman who was on his way to investigate the shots. He offered no resistance. Police said he confessed to killing the woman when questioned at the nearest police station, and said she had impoverished him and broken up his home through blackmail.

Steffen is one of twelve children of the late Charles Steffen, banker-founder of the Steffen Lumber Co., of Fraser, Mich.

Donn Named Architect Of Mt. Vernon Building

The name of Edward W. Donn, jr., Washington architect, was submitted yesterday to Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads, as the selection of the Fine Arts Commission for consulting architect of the Terminal Building at the Mount Vernon end of the Mount Vernon boulevard.

It is expected that Mr. MacDonald will approve the appointment of Mr. Donn, who is an expert on colonial Virginia architecture and the architect named by the Wakefield National Memorial Association to design the reproduction of the house in which George Washington was born.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Pan-American Concert to Be Brilliant Fete

Event Will Be Broadcast on International Hook-up.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WHO'S left in Washington? It will be easy to find out by attending the concert at the Pan-American Union this evening, for acceptances have been pouring in for weeks and there will be a generous representation from the Diplomatic Corps and from official society.

Interest in the programs of Latin American music put on by the Pan-American Union is keen and the organization's summertime concerts are particularly delightful, since they are given out of doors, with guests seated on the terrace and in the picturesque Aztec Garden. Moreover, an especially delightful program has been arranged for tonight featuring as guest artists Abigail Parecis, a young Brazilian soprano, and Rodolfo Hoyos, Mexican barytone, who, when he appeared previously on a Pan-American program, was given the most spontaneous and enthusiastic ovation accorded any artist presented in a series of 50 concerts.

Of Indian birth, the youthful Brazilian singer takes her stage name from her own tribe, the Parecis, among whom the late Theodore Roosevelt spent much time while on his historic journey into the Amazon country. As a climax to a well-selected program, Miss Parecis, in the role of the Indian princess, will sing arias from the famous Brazilian opera, "Il Guarani," by Carlos Gomes. For this she will don the beautiful feathered dress peculiar to the Indians of Brazil.

The Marine Band, Capt. Taylor Branson conducting, will support the guest artists, presenting a variety of compositions, some of them never before heard in this country. With the three fine service bands, Army, Navy and Marine, cooperating with the Pan-American Union in familiarizing the people of this country with music of Latin America, a competitive spirit has developed which has added measurably to interest of the concerts. At the last Pan-American music fete the Army Band appeared on the program and in September the Navy Band is to have its innings with a carefully arranged group of numbers, not one of which has previously been heard in this country.

Washingtonians thoroughly enjoy the opportunity to attend these concerts, to which people all over the country listen in via the radio. The program tonight will be relayed to South and Central America over short waves and will be picked up in various Latin American capitals.

Miss Katherine Tallaferro Conway, daughter of Mrs. Herbert Augustine Smith, of Washington, was married yesterday in New York to Mr. Madison Gartrell Nicholson, jr., at the Church of the Transfiguration. Mr. Nicholson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Madison G. Nicholson, of Athens, Ga., is a radio engineer and makes his home in East Orange, N. J. The bride is a cousin of Mr. Sidney F. Tallaferro, formerly Commissioner of the District, and of Mrs. Thomas Armat, of Washington. She is the daughter of the late John Moncure Conway, of Virginia.

Bassett-Blue Nuptials Held in New Jersey.

In the Congregational Church at Chatham, N. J., on Friday took place the wedding of Mrs. Ellen Stuart Blue, widow of Rear Admiral Victor Blue, and Rear Admiral Frederic Brewster Bassett, U. S. N., retired, of Chicago. The Rev. Pierson Harris, pastor of the church, officiated.

Announcement of the marriage was made by Mrs. Philip H. Cooper, widow of Rear Admiral Cooper, an aunt of the bride.

Mrs. Bassett is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John T. Stuart, of Fort George, Fla., formerly of Morristown, N. J. Her son carried on the tradition of her family and was graduated from the United States Naval Academy two years ago. His father, Rear Admiral Blue, gained distinction in the Spanish-American War while a lieutenant on the gunboat Suanee, when, by order of Admiral William T. Simpson, he made a reconnaissance which definitely located the Spanish fleet in Santiago Harbor and eventually led to its destruction. The Secretary of the Navy advanced his rank for "extraordinary and heroic service."

Miss Ida Chamberlain To Appear at Fete.

A feature of the colorful Spanish fete which will be given tomorrow afternoon and evening in the garden of the National Woman's Party will be the appearance in song and story of Miss Ida Hoyt Chamberlain, clever author, composer and interpreter of old Indian legends and of Spanish songs that link centuries of mystery surrounding picturesque tribes of the Southwest to the occupation of Mexico by the Spaniards.

Miss Chamberlain will sing a group of Indian songs, including some of her own composition, and will be in costume. Famed for her light opera, "Enchanted Isle," which was produced with success on Broadway, Miss Chamberlain's lyric interpretations have been accorded equal praise. Her pupil, Miss Fredda Payre, soprano, will sing Mexican and Spanish folk songs and several groups from "Enchanted Isle."

Mrs. Garrett And Diplomat Wed in Dublin

Mrs. Alice Vandergrift Garrett, of Washington, and Mr. George Anderson Gordon, Counselor of the United States Embassy in Berlin, were married yesterday at the United States Legation in Dublin, Ireland, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The wedding was attended by members of an all-American house party, guests of Mr. Frederick Sterling, United States Minister to the Irish Free State, and Mrs. Sterling. The Rev. Seville Hicks, of Dublin, officiated, Mr. Sterling giving the bride in marriage. She wore a gown of periwinkle blue chiffon, with a picture hat of the same shade, trimmed with purple pansies.

The daughter of the late Mrs. Samuel H. Vandergrift, of Washington, and the late Mr. Vandergrift, Mrs. Garrett, as Miss Alice Vandergrift, made her debut in Washington and lived here for some time after her marriage to Mr. George Angus Garrett. They separated several years ago, and since then Mrs. Garrett has spent most of her time abroad. She secured a divorce from Mr. Garrett in Reno a few weeks ago, sailing immediately afterward for Europe.

Mr. Gordon entered the diplomatic service from the Army, having served with distinction in the A. E. F. in the World War. Until recently attached to the United States Embassy in Paris, he was a member of the American delegation to the recent London naval conference.

Mr. and Mrs. William McClellan Ritter have returned from a short visit at Virginia Beach, and are spending a few days at the Willard before leaving for Cape Cod for the summer.

Mrs. Lawrence Townsend arrived in New York yesterday from Europe, where she has been since early spring. She will return to Washington for a brief stay before going to Schroon Lake, in the Adirondacks, for the rest of the summer. Mr. Townsend, who has been lingering in Washington, will accompany her to Schroon Lake.

Miss Yarrow To Be Wed to Mr. Mansfield

Cairns—Traub Betrothal Also Announced to Society.

Announcement has been made of the wedding plans of Miss Grace Winans Yarrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Yarrow, of Haddam, Conn., and Mr. Harry Claflin Mansfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Mansfield, of Washington, Saturday afternoon, September 6, having been set as the date. The ceremony will take place in the Haddam Congregational Church and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

For her maid of honor Miss Yarrow has chosen Miss Helen B. Clark, of the faculty of Bancroft School, Worcester, Mass., with which Miss Yarrow also is associated.

Miss Yarrow was graduated from Vassar in 1927, having majored in music. Mr. Mansfield was graduated from Cornell the same year and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He received a master's degree from Cornell and is studying for the degree of Ph. D. at Columbia. He is an instructor at Yale in the department of government.

The engagement of Miss Katharine Hamilton Traub and Mr. John C. Cairns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Cairns, of Waterbury, Conn., has been announced by Miss Traub's parents, Brig. Gen. Peter E. Traub, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Traub, who left Tarrytown, N. Y., yesterday for their new home in Augusta, Ga., after passing some time with Mrs. Howard Carroll at Carrollcliff. Miss Traub will accompany them South.

Miss Traub was graduated from St. Mary's School in Peekskill, N. Y. Mr. Cairns is a graduate of Yale, class of '22, and later attended the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. The wedding will probably take place in Augusta.

British Envoy Greets New Ocean Liner.

The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, is in New York, where he went to meet the White Star Line's new motorship, Britannic, which docked yesterday after completing her maiden voyage. Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, British Consul General in New York, was also on the dock to meet the liner.

As the latest addition to the North Atlantic passenger fleet, the great liner was received with welcoming blasts from whistles and sirens of the harbor craft as she made her way to her dock, decked with bunting fore and aft. A dinner for 300 guests was given aboard the Britannic, the third White Star vessel to bear the historic name, last night, with Mr. P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine Co., as host and today the ship will be open for inspection by the public. In the afternoon tea will be served aboard ship and there will be music by the ship's orchestra.

The Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro, who are at Ogonquit, Me., have as guests their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Victor Alfaro. The Minister will come to Washington shortly to spend a fortnight before returning to Maine.

Tuckermans Close Home For Seashore

Capital Family to Move to Cottage at Southampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman will leave Tuxeden, their home at Edgemoor, about July 15 for Southampton, Long Island, where they have a seaside cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman had as their guests over the week-end Miss Anne Lee and Mr. Charles O'Donnell Lee, of Santa Barbara, Calif., and gave a dinner in their honor on Saturday evening at the Woman's National Country Club, of which Mrs. Tuckerman is president. Mr. Lee and his sister, son and daughter of Mrs. Charles O'Donnell Lee, of Santa Barbara, who was Miss Annie McCauley, left yesterday for Baltimore to visit relatives before going West.

Miss Laura Wolcott Tuckerman, who has been visiting Miss Rahel Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies, at the Baltimore Forest Country Club, Asheville, N. C., has rejoined Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman at Tuxeden. Miss Elsie Tuckerman is now the guest of Miss Kate Scully, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Scully, at Rehoboth Beach, Del.

Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Wolcott, of Janesville, Wis., are guests at the Dodge Hotel during their stay in Washington. They are accompanied by their children, Robert and Priscilla.

Miss Sue-Gould Prentiss is spending the month of July at the Ocean House, Watch Hill, R. I., as the guest of her cousin, Miss Converse, of Boston.

Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Little are at the Manor in Asheville, N. C., for a short stay.

Rear Admiral Grayson Returns from Europe.

Mrs. Cary T. Grayson went to New York to meet Rear Admiral Grayson, who landed yesterday from the S. S. Olympic, after a short stay in Europe. They will return to Washington today.

Mrs. Blair Banister and Miss Margaret Banister will return to Washington today after a short motor trip through Virginia. They are accompanied by Mrs. Carter Glass. They spent Saturday at Virginia Beach and were luncheon guests at the Cavalier Hotel.

Gen. and Mrs. George Faber Downey will go to Southampton, Long Island, this week to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fairfax S. Landstreet at Mayfair House.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Caspar Miller, who are spending the summer abroad, will return to this country in mid-August.

It Took An Airplane Nearly Fourteen Hours

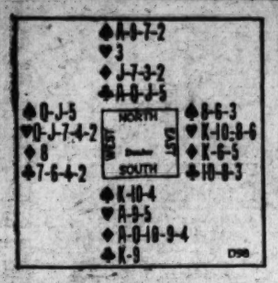
2,112 miles in 13 hours and 55 minutes—a flight from one end of the country to the other—the fastest long journey man has ever made—a journey that took our pioneer forefathers from 3 to 5 months of weary travel at a snail's pace, over vast expanses of prairie, across turbulent rivers, through perilous mountain passes.

To skim over these vast expanses in a little less than 14 hours seems incredible. Yet, even speed such as this becomes as nothing over the telephone wires. By means of the telephone this journey can now be made, not one way alone but both ways, within the space of MINUTES.

Whether you call 10 miles or 2,000 miles, you will find the same speedy long distance service always at your disposal. Most out-of-town connections can now be made while you wait on the line. And as to rates—ask Long Distance for the rate on any call you wish to make. You'll be surprised to find how low it is.

THE CHESAPEAKE AND ROTOMAC TELEPHONE COMPANY

WORK ON BRIDGE



In the above hand, which was played at Auction, South bid one No Trump, which obtained the contract. If it had been played at Contract South would have bid two No Trumps and North three.

West led the Four of Hearts; and Declarer ducked two tricks, hoping that he would exhaust the Hearts in the East hand if he held up the Ace until the third round. South then led the King and his other Club, putting dummy in the lead, and after running dummy's Clubs led the Diamond Jack for a finesse. When it won he easily made five-odd which was one trick short of a small slam. Could you have done better?

The Correct Play.

It generally is advisable for Declarer to hold up until the third round when he has Ace and two small cards of the adverse suit and no other stopper of that suit in dummy or closed hand; but there were two reasons in this hand, either of which made the hold-up foolish.

With the Heart Four led and the Trey in dummy, the leader can not have more than five cards of that suit; and as closed hand and dummy have only four between them, East must have at least four and consequently will have a Heart remaining after South's Hearts are exhausted. That was the first reason. The second reason was that the Declarer can count as sure tricks only two Spades, one Heart, one Diamond and four Clubs; to make his game he must finesse his Diamonds, and if that finesse should lose West will obtain the lead without any help from East. As there is no chance of exhausting the Hearts in the West hand, to exhaust East would be futile even if it were possible. By playing the Ace on the first or second trick, a small slam can be made if East have the King of Diamonds; holding up until the third trick makes a slam impossible.

A Dah-ray Interprets the MODE

Paris, July 7.

IF you are a mamma or even an adopted mamma as I am, I'm sure that you have experienced at times amazing proof of the style sense which children have. Very Little Sister may occasionally just kick and squirm and be generally naughty and say that she "doesn't like" this or that dress or these stockings, without being able to explain why she doesn't.

Yet it is not a little satisfaction to a mother to see this in a child, and the wise mother will cultivate it, whether she recognizes its existence or only hopes for it. She will cultivate it by choosing smart things for the little one and taking the trouble to explain to her how and why they are smart, and why they are worn with some accessories, and why not with others.

A French child is taught at a very early age, why she wears this kind of a hat with this kind of a dress, what colors are the most becoming to her, and what is more important, how to take care of her own clothes. And these are the children who grow up to be women who have a world-wide reputation for chic, in spite of the fact that they make claim to no especial beauty.

* * * *

Individual, practical and cunning are all of the children's togs we tell you how to make in this week's illustrated leaflet. A stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will bring you the directions for making those smart summer play hats for resort wear, a beach robe for Sonny, an overall play dress, a wee bathing suit. They'll do for this year and next, too, so you'd better send for the leaflet!

* * * *

Any Sunday in the Bois de Boulogne one notices cunning youngsters with a chic mamma or older sister or more often a white-capped nurse.

Little pastel coats of silk or flannel, if the day is coolish, are left open to show silken gowns trimmed with ruffles, lace or hand-embroidered. An occasional departure from the pastel shades robes a little miss in navy blue with white pin dots, or vivid plaid in green or red. Otherwise, vivid colors are seldom seen in the cities, though sometimes at summer resorts.

Sure 'nuff, I asked for suggestions and 'n awful nice lady wrote in that she missed the designs I used to sometimes draw 'n place of a fash-un drawing, which she could use in a number of ways by tracing them onto things she was painting or embroidering. So I sat right down and made a modernistic design for you today, which looks awfully well when you fill up all the squares and circles in bright colors, each color different. Or try it just in shades of blues and greens, like one of my couches is pillowed, if you can say that that way and it makes English!

Basic color suggestions for brunettes! That's an extra leaflet you'd better send for this week, if your eyes are dark and your hair either black, brown or yellow. Or if your eyes are blue, gray or green and your hair black. These are the only types whose color suggestions are ready, so if you are not of this description watch for the announcement of your color suggesting later.

* * * *

At a tea dance or bridge the smart man will be seen in a black coat, light waistcoat and plain black trousers. Or if the man be young as well as smart, a dark waistcoat is preferred. His shirt will be white linen, with rounded cuffs and a rather open evening dress collar. A butterfly tie with two loops, in fancy or dotted silk foulard, and a derby, complete the costume.

* * * *

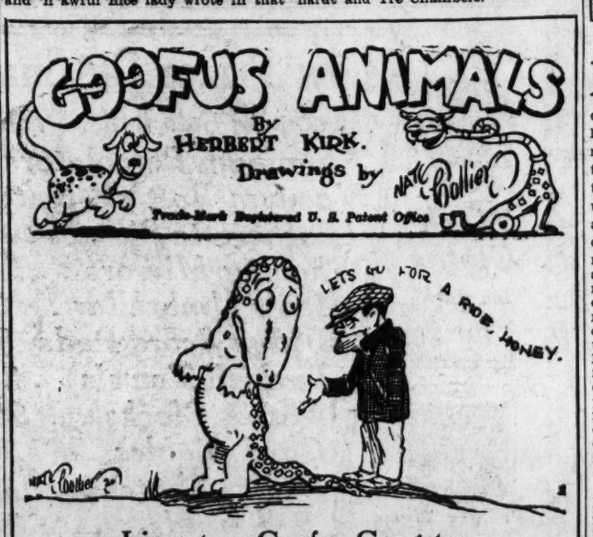
And again we advise you to read Dare's weekly fashion letter in The Post every Sunday.

Au revoir!

Jelleff Employes Plan Picnic for Saturday

Employes of the Frank R. Jelleff organization will hold their annual picnic Saturday at Chapel Point, Md. The round trip will be made on the steamer City of Washington, which leaves for the picnic grounds at 9 o'clock that morning, with its departure for Washington set at 4 o'clock that afternoon.

An attractive program has been arranged, with the noonday spread, swimming and dancing on the boat, with music rendered by a popular orchestra, as features of the occasion. The committee on arrangements is headed by Miss E. G. Eckhardt and Tre Chambers.



Lines to a Goofus Gangster

Let's sit down, friend, a while
By the Goofus Crocodile.
Do not feel a bit of fear
Pat him just behind the ear.
Let him nip off leg or arm—
It can't do him any harm,
Give him just a playful poke
Let him see you like a joke;
But of course if he gets rough
Pull your gat and treat him tough!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to treat hydrangeas in order to increase the blue coloring of the flowers.
ALICE P. H.

The most effective method of artificially producing blue flowers is to incorporate with each bushel of soil about one-half pound of alum, which should be broken up into pieces about the size of a hickory nut.

Please tell me the name of the vine of which I inclose some leaves. I think it is a foreign vine; at least I never saw it before.
MARTHA E. W.

I am sorry, but I do not know the vine.

Please tell me why the leaves of my geranium turn yellow. I water the plant every other day. I keep my begonia in the sun at all times and water it three times a week. Is this a good method to follow in caring for a begonia? MRS. RALPH E. P.

The leaves of a geranium turn yellow because the plant is suffering from too much or too little water, too much fertilizer or too little fresh air. Geraniums require to be kept on the dry side and a trifle pot-bound. Too much root room means few, if any, flowers. They never require fertilizer except that which is in the soil, and they do best in a soil composed of equal parts of good loam, sand and well-rotted manure. Keep the plant in a very sunny place. Your begonia is no doubt receiving too much sun. Better move it to some place where it will get only the morning sun and water it only when the surface soil in the pot is quite dry.

Please tell me why the leaves of my ivy are so sticky and suggest a remedy for same. ELIZABETH C. C.

Your ivy has been attacked by mealy bugs. Better spray the foliage every few days with cold, soapy water. The scale can be wiped off with a cloth dipped in soapy water, but you must go over each leaf carefully.

I have just bought two fuchsias, which are now beginning to drop their leaves. They are planted in small pots. I water them every day. Could these plants be planted in the open? I want to get a wrought-iron fern stand and a fern. Please tell me of a reliable variety of fern and the care it will require. I propose as soon as possible to follow the reader's suggestion and make a home-made lily pond. MRS. C. C. H.

Plant fuchsias in a sunny place in your garden. They will demand a rich soil and a daily drink. Scotti, Teddy, jr., polypodium and holly ferns are all reliable varieties. Any of these ferns will require a great deal of light, but not much sun. The polypodium will stand more sun than the other varieties. In the house ferns should be watered thoroughly every other day; when they are on the porch they dry out more rapidly, so that they should be watered every day. They also require a weekly spraying with cold, soapy water. I am sure that you will feel repaid for any effort you may expend on constructing a lily pond.

Please tell me in your column in our paper whether evergreens can be successfully transplanted. One of four specimens in front of our house has turned entirely brown. Would moving it save it? Are fish heads good to spread around these plants?
MRS. H. M.

Yes, evergreens can be transplanted, but from your description I imagine your plant is dead. When even a portion of an evergreen dies, the plant's beauty is marred. The most sensible thing, then, to do is to uproot and burn it. Fish heads spread around any plants, if you mean to leave them on the surface of the soil, would attract insects and be a menace to the garden. Fish bones incorporated with the soil will, however, in time, add to the nutritive properties of the loam.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

IF July 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and 8 p. m to 9:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 5:30 a. m. to 7 a. m. and 1 p. m. to 2 p. m.

Better astrological influences will make the world take on a brighter aspect for you on this date. Nearly everything that you touch will flower. The birth of a new and profitable idea, which must not be discarded—work for its development! Personal relationships harmonious.

Children born on this July 8 will be very easily influenced by others, and until they reach years of discretion they may easily be led into folly by wrong associates. They will be warm hearted and generous—affectionate and demonstrative.

You have a very expansive, broad, liberal and magnanimous nature; a very strong individuality and character. You are not bound by the senses, you live more in the mind and higher emotions, the subjective world being of more importance to you than the objective. Reflection, thoughtfulness and will power are stronger than your desire and impulse. It is often difficult for the more material minded to understand your motives and actions, as you do not live on the same plane of development. You do not worry about the sins of the flesh. It is the sins of the soul that you combat. The gold in your heart is of the finest and purest. You are more interested in the laws of God and nature than in the laws of man.

You are too generous with money matters, so 100 per cent honest, that you will probably never have large material accumulations—and you do not desire them. Although you are imaginative and allow your mind to dwell in your air castles, you can "come to earth," and do some clear concise thinking. You are methodical in your work, and it must be done well to satisfy your own tastes. You have a beautiful love nature, warm and sincere. It is more on a mental and spiritual plane than a physical one. It would make you very unhappy to be married to one of a grosser nature.

Successful people born July 8:
Robert W. Gibbs, scientist and historian.
William V. Moody, educator.
Frank B. Brandegee, senator.
Alice Gertrude Kay, illustrator.
John F. Frazier, scientist.
Joe Chamberlain, English politician.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

His Mother Speaks Out.

DEAR Miss McDonald—I am deeply in love with a boy of 21 and have gone with him exclusively for four years. His mother knows this and knows that he loves me. Lately he has been asking me to his home, and I have gone several times, but I am made to feel very uncomfortable there by his mother's attitude. She makes remarks concerning his youth, and how much money he owes (for his education) and how much a man always regrets rushing into marriage and about everything you can think of to let me know that she has no intention of allowing him to get married, although he is four months over age. It certainly makes me feel like eloping with him just to spite her. His dad never has said one word to me yet. Just comes in and out of the room when I am there, and never even speaks to me, and they make no effort to even introduce me. When I spoke of how they acted, all the comfort I got was a quarrel.

They are considered very close people, and both their sons were made to work their way through college. Do you suppose his mother had him ask me there purposely, just to tell me these things? He has been very cool ever since I complained of his mother's comment. Do you think it is possible he himself brought me there so that his mother could say what she did? He never actually asked me to marry him, when it comes down to that, but he has never gone with anyone else but me, and I naturally feel that four years ought to mean something.

My folks detest him and his whole family and I am beginning to understand why. His sister stayed in the room about five minutes after I arrived and then went upstairs and did not appear again. I would like to know how to act toward him, and yet not quarrel still more. I feel he owes me an apology, but know it would only make things worse to ask for it. What should my attitude be?
BETTY LOU.

Find another boy. Never go to his home again. A girl should never go to a boy's home unless invited by his mother. That is a matter of common sense as well as a matter of good form. His mother probably did not plan to have you brought there to be humiliated, but upon seeing you there could not resist speaking her mind. Just forget it. Call it experience and go on from there. The boy naturally is not able to marry. It would be terrible for you if he did—just misery and hopeless struggling. Young love simply can not live in the face of debts and worry and distrust. Any one who tells you otherwise is feeble-witted. After years of marriage people can weather storms together because they have really become as one, but young people have no chance at all when they start out hampered by care.

Give the boy a chance to get a start. And give yourself a chance to get a husband. You will find that most of the things that happen to you in life will be for the best in the end. This is one of those things. Some day you will be glad his mother was so crude, for you will realize then that she really saved you from spoiling your life.

Just forget it.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: With the holiday week-end behind us, and every one feeling rested and happy, it is fun to resume the work and play of life in town. Summer in Washington, in spite of the heat, presents so many attractive phases, that it is often difficult to decide to tear ourselves away for the deserved and anticipated vacation in distant parts.

Underwood & Underwood Make Copies

—of old daguerreotypes and tintypes in any size and in any quantity. These copies can be made without injuring the original in any way. The restorative work is done on the negative which they make from the old picture, so the cherished original can be returned to you intact.

If you stop by Underwood & Underwood's this week you will see a window full of enlarged photographs which have been made from old pictures. The old pictures are shown, too. Where a number of people in the same family lay claim to old pictures of this kind the only solution is to have a number of copies made. The cost is moderate.

Do not forget that the summer discount on studio pictures will be in effect only until July 15. Order your pictures right away, if you want to take advantage of the discount.

Mme. Ash Plans Closing in August

—so for the remainder of this month, reduced prices will be in order. This is true from one end of the store to the other. If you have wished for the opportunity to buy important models at small prices you will be more than pleased with what this sale has to offer. Exhibits in the shop of Mme. Ash include only the finest of everything, with most authentic and advanced stylings. Nothing of the present collection will be carried over, so you may easily imagine what drastic reductions are made in order to sell all the summer merchandise before closing. Sport things and gowns for every climate are included.

Be sure to see the hats as there are so many lovely ones, suitable for wear now for a variety of occasions. If you recall, this shop has had the smartest possible chapeaux all season. Mme. Ash, Connecticut Avenue at M Street.

Nancy Carter Shop Remains Open

—throughout the summer. Wonderful sale prices are in effect now, and all sorts of delightful little frocks may be picked up for a song. New midsummer models coming in daily will interest you, too, as they include the popular linen tuck-ins in white or colors with bandings in contrasting shades. Copies of the successes of Marcel Rochas are to be found here, named "Croquet," "Tennis," "Boating," "Archery," &c. Ask to see them. Nancy Carter, 1021 Connecticut Ave.

Pasternak Pre-Inventory Clearance Sale

—is an event which women wait for, and which they flock to, knowing that it is the great chance to buy lovely things at worthwhile savings. In every department prices are at cost and below cost.

Imported printed chiffons, silks and laces, plain crepes for afternoon and evening, as well as day wear, are found in the collection of frocks and gowns which have been originally from $49 to $98, and may be purchased now at $35—$49.50.

Coats and suits are
$35—$45—$65—$75.

Silk Ensembles (originally $75 to $125) are $35—$45.

Silk Coats (originally up to $125)
$35—$49.50.

Evening Wraps (were $95 to $115; some of these are the cunning little taffeta coats, intricately made, in gay colors) $35—$49.50.

Hats (marvelous models, which have been much higher)
$5—$8.50—$10.50.

Don't Forget the Misses' Department

—where there are the most charming frocks for every time of day and evening at such tiny prices.

Dresses are
$8.50—$10.50—$12.50—$16.50.

Coats and Suits are $25.

Schwartz Dress Shop Annual Sale

—before closing for the summer is now in progress, and offers you a splendid chance for advantageous buying. This is the once-a-year sale when everything in stock is cleared out regardless of original cost. Continuous buying has kept the stock fresh and up-to-the-minute. At present there are 500 dresses of all this season's fabrics that were selling from $19.75 to $49.50, to be closed out at $12.75 and $25. Some are as low as $8.50. Sizes are from 11 to 17, 14 to 20, 36 to 42. Schwartz, 1325 Conn. Ave. Go in the first thing today, and have first choice.

NEW GRAND JURORS SEEK LINGLE KILLER

Reporter Who Charged Link Between Writers and Gangs May Appear.

DEATH ATTEMPT BARED

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Inquisition into the month-old assassination of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Tribune reporter, and the sinister rumors of alliances between crime and police which followed it was begun today by a new grand jury.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson announced shortly after the new grand jury was sworn he would summon Harry T. Brundige, a St. Louis newspaperman, to specify charges he had made that other reporters besides Lingle had alliances with gangsters. He did not say whether he would take the Missourian before the grand jury.

Brundige, in articles printed in the St. Louis Star, said he had information a Chicago Daily News reporter was "soon to get his." Leland H. Reese, Daily News crime reporter, who is recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile wreck which he said was an attempt to kill him at De Kalb, Ill., averred in a signed story in the News today that he had supposed himself the reporter mentioned.

Car Forced Into Ditch.

Reese said that while he was driving west from Chicago early Friday another automobile, which had followed his, deliberately forced his car off the road and caused it to overturn in a ditch. He was riding with Allen Finlay and Ed Braun, the former a special guard of the reporter for several weeks.

Declaring that every reporter assigned to "get inside facts on gang murders" inevitably hears himself accused of dishonesty, Reese asserted: "I have never received money from any illegitimate source at any time in my life."

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney, said today he would ask the Chicago Tribune, Chicago Herald and Examiner and Chicago Evening Post to set aside $10,000 of the $55,000 reward offered by them for information leading to the conviction of the slayer for Lingle for a tip on the identity of the actual slayer.

Court Testimony Shunned.

Roche said there are men in the underworld who would furnish a tip for $10,000, but who would not dare to go into a courtroom and accuse a man even for as much as $100,000. Once the identity of the slayer is known, Roche pointed out, the actual witnesses to the slaying could make the proper identification before a jury.

One gangster, Frankie Foster, is already under indictment for the slaying and is held in Los Angeles. A writ of habeas corpus for his release was obtained today, automatically delaying extradition to Illinois.

Another, Patsy Tardi, a West Side hoodlum who is left handed and blond, was arrested today. Witnesses have said the slayer of Lingle was a blond and a silk glove supposedly discarded by the slayer at the scene was for the left hand. Still another, "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, West Side gambler and racketeer, was apprehended today for questioning.

Man Forfeits $30 Bail In Policeman Assault

Forfeiting $30 rather than face a judge on charges of assault and disorderly conduct, James LeMaster, 42 years old, of Adams street near Third street northeast, yesterday failed to appear in court. LeMaster is charged with having hit Pvt. W. J. Middleton, of the Twelfth Precinct, when the policeman interfered in what the man considered a family fight.

Son of Senator Fess Is Divorced in Dayton

Dayton, Ohio, July 7 (A.P.).—A divorce decree was granted in domestic relations court here today to Mildred Fess, from Charles Fess, of Yellow Springs, son of U. S. Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio.

The ground on which the decree was given was cruelty.

With NELSON B. BELL

MR. RICHARD WATTS, jr., cinema commentator of the New York Herald-Tribune, has advanced the opinion—since his return from abroad—that the American movie is steadily deteriorating in quality, while the standard of acting is as unfailing pursuing an ascending course. I take it that he has a partisan in Mr. Jerome Johnson, of this city.

I quote a letter, dated July 5, just received from Mr. Johnson:

"Dear sir:—Suppose you give us a little 'naked' truth now and then about some of the penitentiary rot and speakeasy carousals the Washington theaters dish up to patrons who have acquired the habit of going and cahn't seem to get over it.

"I have noticed of late, though, that some mothers of families cahn't seem to stand for it. When the drinking becomes fierce they leave the theater.

"The N. Y. Times recently reviewed at length 'Holiday' at the Rivoli in New York as a talkie of sparkling wit and lively, innocent fun. Why can not Washington have a specimen of some such talkie movie? Liberty Weekly three stars 'Swing High.' It being a drama of the circus, may be the 'kids' could get some fun out of it. If you have any yourself I doubt very much you would care to see them in the theaters this week.

(Signed) "JEROME JOHNSON."

It may interest Mr. Johnson to know that Washington's bookings are on a par with those of any city in the country, New York this week playing several productions that have already appeared for their first runs on F street. Although I am not informed as to their exact playing dates, I am sure that both "Holiday" and "Swing High" will be seen in the Capital in due course.

I shall ask Mr. Johnson, however—by this medium, since I know neither him nor his address—to be a little more definite and specify an instance in which this department has not told either the "naked" or the "unvarnished" truth about pictures with which it has concerned itself, as it has seen them.

Apparently there is something a little more substantial than mere whimsy in the old saw that "the other fellow's grass always looks greenest."

As a partial result, I take it, of the recent visit to Washington of Charles Kurtzman, personal representative of Harry Arthur, managing director of all Fox theaters, the schedule of de luxe performances at the local cathedral is to be permanently changed—that is to say, all of the performances at which the Fanchon and Marco units appear.

Hereafter the first combined stage and screen show will begin at 1 p. m. instead of approximately 1:45 and the second at 3 instead of about 3:45. In other words, the starting hours of the complete picture and stage performances will be in the neighborhood of three-quarters of an hour earlier than has previously been the case. This will bring the de luxe night performances on within a few minutes, one way or the other, of 7 and 9.

Mr. Kurtzman, by the way, having completed his tour of duty here, leaves the Capital this afternoon, returning briefly to the New York home office of Fox prior to proceeding either to Atlanta or Detroit for a similar sojourn—probably Atlanta.

Another journeyman executive who should have been mentioned Saturday among those itinerant big shots pausing briefly in our midst last week was Earle Simmons, Fanchon and Marco's expert on staging, lighting, &c., who travels about the country helping the house managers to learn how to help his bosses' stage units when they come to town. He was here from Wednesday to Sunday and dropped some hints that were plenty pretty—for future use.

While we are at it, all of this Fox business might as well be wound up at once.

Tomorrow, Carol F. Winchester, for many months assistant manager of the Fox Theater, having attained that position in a remarkably short time from the post of carriage man, departs for the Fox house in Detroit, Mich., to which he has been transferred to serve in the same capacity he has occupied here. Mr. Winchester will be assistant to William Raynor managing director of the Detroit Fox, which was opened by Jack Stebbins, formerly of this city. He will drive through.

For the time being, Mrs. Winchester and the baby will remain in Washington.

"Winnie" leaves the Capital with the warm regard and best wishes of a large number of friends, both in and out of the industry.

Since Sunday's announcement of incoming attractions, both bookings at the Warner Brothers' downtown, first-run theaters have been changed. Beginning Friday at the Earle, in conjunction with Will Osborne and his band, the screen feature will be "The Road to Paradise," in which Jack Mulhall and Loretta Young have the cofeatured roles. This supplants Alice White in "Sweet Mama." At the Metropolitan, "Recaptured Love" has been set back one week, to make way for "The Sin Flood," a former successful M-G-M production, unless my memory is as bad as usual, remade by First National into a picture that is reported to be no less than sensational.

For the week of July 25, at the Metropolitan, promise is given of first Washington presentations of "The Dawn Patrol," said to be one of Richard Barthelmess' most effective vehicles, taking him into the air to match the tensity and punch of "The Patent Leather Kid," a thriller of the Tank Corps. Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Neil Hamilton are prominent in the supporting cast.

There is a rumor that may turn out to be slightly more than fairly well defined, floating in and out of these downtown windows to the effect that a realignment of managerial personnel is imminent in one of the Capital's foremost motion-picture circuits. As it comes to me, the readjustment primarily concerns one of the company's leading downtown, first-run theaters and its principal residential house, with others apt to be affected, since one manager is reported to have accepted an appointment outside of Washington.

If you'll pardon me now, I'll go out and catch the squeakeasy for the ride home!

One Killed, Six Injured When Train Is Derailed

Waycross, Ga., July 7 (A.P.).—A special train arrived here late today with one dead and two seriously injured persons from the passenger train wreck on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad near Hortense. Their names were not immediately available. Both the injured men were trainmen.

Passengers said the diner and four Pullmans of southbound train No. 83 were derailed and that at least four more were hurt.

THE GIRL IN THE AIR

BY JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Janet Decker—Eighteen, with closely cropped head of burnt gold and a pair of very large and quizzical eyes. The flying secretary for

Robert C. Tolbert, president of the Great Eastern Air Transportation Co., and the father of Dick Tolbert, a young official of Great Eastern, who has told Janet he loves her and whom Janet loves. Unfortunately Dick is engaged to

Hugh Temple, pilot for Great Eastern and secretly in love with Janet. He had been captured, along with a huge shipment of money he was transporting by plane to a New York bank, and has only recently escaped.

Henry Frenda, a clerk in the office of Great Eastern, and a friend of Janet's. Henry is now in jail as a material witness in the murder of Belter, office manager for Great Eastern, and Henry's boss.

Fred Turner, an automobile mechanic, who has been in love with Janet, but after her refusal to marry him, he has turned his affections to Janet's younger sister, Margaret.

Miss Sears, Dick Tolbert's secretary.

Dick Tolbert has told Janet he is going to break his engagement with Helen Morgan, and goes to meet Helen upon her return from Europe. Janet sits up until after midnight waiting word from him, and finally goes to sleep in the flying room waiting. No word comes. She goes to the airport the following morning, where she sees a trim little plane darting into the air. Tolbert, Sr., says Dick is taking Helen up for her first flight. Janet begins to realize then that Dick is not going to break his engagement with Helen.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Janet was never quite sure how she got through that next half hour. Hugh and Miss Sears had gone when she went back to her desk, and, mechanically, she resumed her typing.

She refused to believe what she knew in her heart was true. She insisted to herself that Dick's attentions to Helen were simply decencies to the woman he had refused to marry. Perhaps Helen was playing a last trump in a vain effort to hold him, to win him back. But she never would. Dick was no longer hers. "He's mine!" she cried silently again and again. "He may go to ride with her; he may have neglected to get to me last night; but he's mine, Miss Morgan, and all your trickery can't get him back. Never! Never! Never!"

And then, buoyed by this artificial stimulant, she struck the keys of her typewriter as if all things were quite all right now. Oh, yes; she had explained it now. In a few minutes he would come to her and tell her he loved her and . . . and . . .

"Busy, Janet?"

She turned slowly and nodded at Hugh Temple. "Yes," she said coldly.

"I'll only take a minute," Hugh said apologetically. "Do you mind?"

Janet did not answer, but stared at him sullenly.

"I want half an hour alone with you some time before tomorrow, Janet. Not here. I can't talk to you in this place. But it's important and it can't wait. Can I—can I see you somewhere tonight, Janet?"

Only her lips moved. "No," she said. "I never want to see you again as long as I live."

"You don't really mean that, Janet. . . . If I thought you meant that——"

"You'd fire me, I suppose. . . . It won't be necessary, Mr. Temple; I'm leaving tonight of my own accord." Until this moment such a thing had not occurred to her; but once she had said it the door opening out of this maze of difficulty had swung back. Leaving this job meant leaving everything that had made life trying these last few weeks. Yes, it was an excellent idea, and she was glad she had beat him to it.

But then the distorted blur into which her thoughts had thrown Hugh's face dissolved, and as her vision cleared she saw in the depths of his brown eyes something that caused her to catch her breath sharply. "Don't think I'm not grateful for what you've done for me," she said quickly, her voice less harsh. "It was very nice of you to get me this place, and I'm sorry to disappoint you, but —I can't go on any longer."

Hugh said suddenly: "Do you remember the hour we spent in the darkness of the old park, Janet?"

Janet nodded stiffly.

"You said something out there Janet, that made me think you trusted me. . . . Did you?"

Janet bit her lip. "Yes," she said presently. "But that was before"——

"That," said Hugh, "was before I tried to save you the blow that's hurting now, wasn't it? And you're going to hate me for it, even though I told you the truth?"

"I don't know what you're talking about," Janet declared stubbornly.

"Don't you, Janet . . . I hope you do. There's nothing gained by putting off the pain, you know. I might call him a cad and all that to ease your feelings, but it wouldn't be true. He's not a cad, Janet; he's an infant in the hands of a woman who could order him to hell and know he'd do as she said. . . . I'm not excusing him. He fell in love with you because it was the natural thing to do. But he didn't have a chance. . . . He's never been in love with Helen; never will be; but he'll marry her. And, unless I'm very much mistaken, he'll live with her until she's tired of him. Then, Janet, he might come back to you . . . but not before."

Janet's eyes were no longer meeting his. They were staring blindly at the wall beyond. She felt suddenly ill, weak, nauseated. A great wheel was going round and round behind her eyes. She wondered if she were going to faint.

She heard Hugh's quiet voice saying: "Can't you understand that I'd rather cut my heart out than hurt you, Janet? You thought I was striking at Dick behind his back; I was being a poor sport in the hope that I could soften the blow I knew was coming. . . . You'll have more than one heartache over this, Janet. You'll lie awake nights crying over the loss of what was never yours. You'll hate every one everything. You'll hate Dick most of all. . . . Wouldn't it help just a little to know you had some one to turn to, some one who understood while you're going through it?"

What was he talking about? Couldn't he see that she was ill, that she wanted to get away, away from every one But still he was talking, quietly, earnestly, pleadingly.

"I stayed the night with him, Janet. I was in his room when he came from Helen's. He was the most miserably happy man I've ever seen. He didn't tell me anything. It wasn't necessary. . . . I asked him if he had been to see you. He said he hadn't. I asked him if he hadn't better go at once. Never mind what he said. He was angry with me for telling him to do what he knew in his heart he ought to do. . . . So I told him if he wouldn't go, I would. . . ."

"But—but you didn't. No one came, and all night I waited . . . waited. . . ." Janet was only vaguely conscious that it was her own voice she heard. The great wheel was still going round . . . round. . . .

"It was almost 4 o'clock when I gave up. I tried every argument I knew; but the man was bewitched. Helen hadn't come back from Europe for nothing. She cabled Dick that her mother was ill. Did he tell you? . . . Her mother was no more ill than I am. Helen hurried home because she knew it was either that or lose something she wanted; and Helen's used to having what she wants. I don't know how she knew; perhaps he forgot to cable every day, or order the usual amount of flowers, or some other neglect. But she knew, and when she walked off that liner yesterday she was Joan of Arc going into battle. Her campaign was well planned."

The telephone was ringing, but Janet did not hear it. Hugh stepped to the door and called to the operator. A moment later he came back to Janet. "The head mechanic's reporting the Postman back on the starting line. Don't you want to go before they come in?"

Feverishly Janet finished the last of Tolbert's letters and took them to him. He looked up as she put them on his desk and smiled pleasantly.

"You might stay at home this afternoon and pack," he told her. "We're flying up to Boston for a day or two in the morning. Mind?"

Should she tell him she would no longer be in his employ in the morning? But it wasn't as simple as that. Tolbert would not only be surprised; he would want an explanation; and there was no time for explanations now. She had to get out of that building . . . quickly. "Of course not," she answered, moving toward the door. "I'll be ready."

"Is some one taking you to the city?" Tolbert called after her.

She opened the door and saw Hugh taking her coat and hat from the rack. "Yes," she told him; "Mr. Temple. . . . Thanks."

• • • •

"We'll go by Plymouth," Hugh said as they turned into the highway. "They'll take the other road."

Janet said nothing and for a time they rode in silence. Then suddenly Hugh was saying: "You were asleep on the couch, Janet. I could see you through the window from the porch."

"What?"

"Last night, I mean. The light was on in the living room and I knew you were waiting . . . I knocked easily at first; then, when you didn't come to the door, I looked in the window. . . . I shouldn't have done that, Janet. You were curled up on the couch, fast asleep; and you were smiling. . . . If Dick had been there at the moment, I think I'd have—— But that's aside from the point. He wasn't there and by the time I'd gotten back to his room, I'd walked off some of my heat. . . . He took it quietly enough. Too quietly, I suppose, because after I'd expressed my feelings as lucidly as I knew how, I began to feel sorry for him. . . . He is an infant, Janet."

They rode into Plymouth, turned left on the main street and shortly rode out into the open country again.

"I hadn't meant to tell you all this, Janet," Hugh said after a time. "But I can't stand by and see you suffer as you must after—after this, without trying to help. Can't we go on as we were before you became angry with me yesterday?"

Silence. Then: "Have you forgotten what you asked Miss Sears in my presence this morning?"

Hugh said evenly: "I'm not going to explain that now, Janet. But let me ask you a question: Do you think I'm so low that I'd insult you for lack of something better to do?"

"I don't know why you did it, but you did."

"No; even in your present state of mind, you don't believe that, Janet. You know deep down in your little heart that I had a reason for asking Miss Sears that question. Before long you'll know what it is; but not now. For the present it's a question of faith. If we're to be friends, you'll have to trust me. . . . And I do want us to be friends, you'll have to trust me. . . . And I do want us to be friends, Janet. No slush, understand. You'll never have to be on your guard for fear I'll fall in love with you and grow suddenly sentimental. I'm proposing something more substantial . . . friendship . . . nothing more."

The town of Thomaston, alive with midday traffic, fell away behind them. Six miles more. By the Greystone road they would have been home long ago.

As they passed the Watertown road fork, Janet asked: "Do you still want to talk to me tonight, Hugh?"

"Oh, I'd almost forgotten I'd asked you," Hugh replied, laughing a little. "I'm afraid you wont want to talk to any one tonight, Janet. We might as well get it over with now, I suppose."

"Have we time?"

"I think so. I only want to ask you one or two questions . . . Do you remember the revolver you carried the night you tried to shoot me in the old Brassco park?"

"Yes . . . It was Dick's."

"Do you know where it is now?"

"Hugh! . . . I left it there in the park! How will I——"

"No, you didn't," Hugh smiled. "I took it out of your hand and put it in my pocket while you were unconscious. . . . Did Dick load it for you?"

"No . . . He told me distinctly that it was not loaded. He said it had never been loaded since he bought it."

"And yet you came very near killing me with it. It must have been loaded, what?"

"Of course . . . Did you know it was Dick's revolver?"

"Not until this morning. He volunteered the information that he'd lent you a revolver. He also told me it wasn't loaded and that he'd given you no cartridges."

"Then," said Janet, "I wonder who loaded it?"

"There's a far more interesting question in my mind," Hugh replied. "Dick says he gave you the gun within an hour after you two had found Belter shot, and that he took it from a drawer in his desk where he'd been keeping it. . . . Now, do you know how many times you fired at me that night?"

"Once too many," Janet declared.

"Once is right," Hugh agreed; "and yet there were two empty shells in it when I examined it after leaving you. And—"they were coming into the outskirts of the city now—"it just happens that the bullet that killed Belter was the same caliber used in Dick's revolver."

A little shiver ran down Janet's spine, but she failed to grasp the full significance of Hugh's announcement. "And——" she said uncertainly.

"And," Hugh supplied, "it's just possible that that revolver will lead us to Belter's murderer."

(Department of Agriculture.)

Spots and stains can be removed from rugs and carpets as from other textiles of similar material and color except that the process is more tedious because the fabric is heavy and sometimes clumsy to handle. All stains are, of course, easier to remove while fresh. Grease stains into which dust has settled are perhaps the commonest. Sometimes part of the grease and dirt can be scraped off with a dull knife and the rest scrubbed off with a soft brush and warm soapsuds, or absorbed by one or more applications of fuller's earth, French chalk, or talcum powder, or by blotting paper and a warm iron. Or a solvent such as carbon tetrachloride, gasoline, or benzol may be used; the latter two are very inflammable and must not be used in the same room with an open fire or flame of any kind.

A freshly spilled liquid should not be rubbed from a carpet or rug, because this tends to drive it into the fabric. If possible, it should be covered at once with corn meal, talcum powder, blotting paper torn into bits, or any other absorbent material which will take it up and prevent its spreading.

WHO'ZIT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He is an American.
2. During recent administrations he held two different positions in the President's Cabinet.
3. Later he was chairman of an important political party during a presidential campaign.
4. He is a physician.

Answer to yesterday: John J. Raskob.

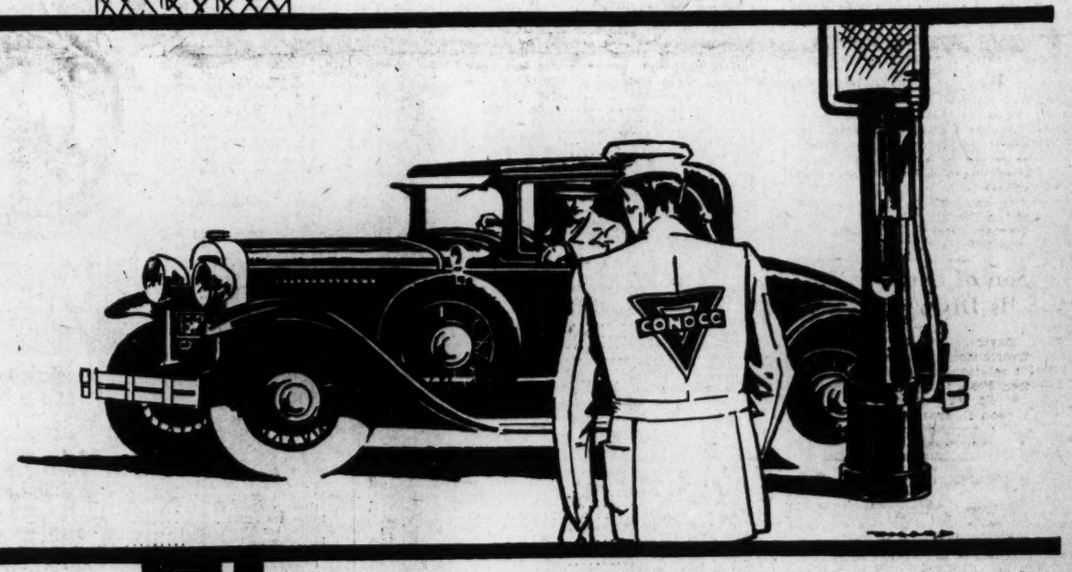
THIS ADVERTISEMENT

is addressed to the motorist who has never said "Ethyl" to the Conoco salesman



WE realize that nothing we can say in this advertisement will cause you to prefer CONOCO Ethyl Gasoline if you haven't already tried it. For how can mere words describe so many things that you will notice with your first tank full of CONOCO Ethyl? The swift pick-up on formidable hills . . . the uncomplaining and instant unleashing of power when you accelerate . . . the utter absence of vexatious knocking . . . the infrequency of having to shift gears . . . ?

We want you to make up your own mind in this matter . . . make your own decision on these facts and one tank full of CONOCO Ethyl.

CONOCO Gasoline is as good as the choice crude from two billion gallons and modern refineries can make it. But we, its makers, tell you that Ethyl adds the final touch, the essential resistance to "knocking," so that you may enjoy the instant starting, the flashing acceleration, and the rushing power which each gallon of CONOCO Gasoline has for you.

Try your first tank full of CONOCO Ethyl at any Red Triangle Station. And then make up your mind. If CONOCO Ethyl doesn't sell itself to you, we will never urge you to try it again.

LATE FLURRY HALTS DECLINE IN STOCKS

MONEY RATES ADVANCE

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Stocks joined commodities in another downward movement today, submitting rather meekly to selling supplied by the bear faction and by holders of the long positions who saw little hope of a real upward turn during the dull summer months. A dozen active issues made new 1930 lows, while the average decline for 90 representative shares was slightly more than 3 points.

Prices worked steadily lower until toward the close, when the familiar flurry of covering lifted prices a shade above the day's lows. Investment buying in this market is almost entirely on the scale down, so that the short interest has comparatively little difficulty in getting its way and appears to be in no hurry to cover extensively.

The grains and cotton were weak. Chairman Legge's statement on wheat last week, in which he emphasized the importance of an adjustment in acreage, was followed by breaks of considerably more than 2 cents a bushel, with closing prices not far above the day's lows. Heavy interior receipts and a large increase in the visible supply were factors in the decline. Corn averaged about a cent and a half lower. Cotton closed off 17 to 31 points, reflecting bearish interpretations of private acreage and crop reports. Coffee dropped rather sharply and sugar again eased.

Chain Store Business Off.

Disappointing returns on June business, reported by several large chain store systems, combined with the weakness of the basic staples to affect speculative sentiment in the share market. A substantial volume of selling orders had accumulated over the holiday, and their execution at the opening not only forced the leading stocks lower, but proved to be the cue for the session.

When the initial selling had been exhausted, however, the trading turned dull, with the result that sales for the day totaled less than 1,500,000 shares. Turnover in the first half hour was larger than the sales in the last 50 minutes. The latter period is normally the most active.

While such stocks as U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone & General Electric were meeting pressure, a varied group was being put down to new lows for the year. Included in this list were Simmons, Safeway Stores, Du Pont, Gillette Safety Razor, Atlantic Coast Line, National Cash Register, North American, Air Reduction, American Locomotive, Columbia Graphophone and St. Louis-San Francisco, with losses ranging between 2 and 7 points.

Bellas Hess Hits Low.

National Bellas Hess also made a new minimum on a smaller loss. Selling of North American was vigorous and the stock was off more than 6 points at its lowest. A statement by the company's president said that electric output of the subsidiaries in the twelve months ended June 30 had gained 6¾ per cent over the year ended June 30, 1929.

U. S. Steel got down to 153¾, or within 2 points of the year's low, and closed at 154½, or 3¾ below last Thursday's final quotation. International Harvester, American Telephone, General Electric, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, American Can, Eastman Kodak, New York Central, Westinghouse Electric and Vanadium Steel lost 1 to 4 points net. Ingersoll Rand suffered a maximum drop of more than 12, recovering 2 points of the extreme loss. Allied Chemical and Air Reduction were off 6 and J. I. Case 7.

Call money firmed. Renewing at 2 per cent, the rate was advanced successively to 2½ and 3 as the banks called nearly $50,000,000 in loans. A livelier demand for funds was also reported. The loan calling was attributed mostly to the 2 per cent figure which ruled over the week-end, a rate that apparently did not appeal to the large lenders.

Foreign exchanges were firm to strong. Sterling cables rose 5-32.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Thousands of carloads of wheat arriving from the harvest fields and piling up the visible supply sent wheat values downward today. Receipts of wheat at ten points in the Southwest today totaled in excess of 5,000 cars, and the domestic stock of wheat in sight piled up a 3,478,000-bushel increase for the week, with virtually no wheat taken by exporters during the last three days. Wheat prices reached fresh low-price records, and also oats.

The wheat market closed nervous at but little over the day's bottom figures, 2¼ to 2⅞ cents a bushel lower than Thursday's finish. Corn closed ⅞ to 1⅝ cents down, oats ⅞ to 1¼ cents off, and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to a rise of 15 cents.

Adding to the backbreaking load under the wheat market collapsed were reports that harvest operations were making fast progress northward, especially in Illinois and Nebraska. In this connection, Illinois advices were at hand telling of 3 to 5 bushels an acre more than expected a few weeks ago, many farmers returning 30 bushels or better. Word arms near Jacksonville showing 40 bushels and near Roodhouse 45 bushels. In addition, word of increasing receipts of wheat poured in from all domestic winter markets, with Chicago and Omaha leading, as well as the cities Southwest that heretofore have born the brunt of the harvest.

Certain reports from Canada and generally favorable conditions described as prevailing in spring wheat territory this side of the international line acted as further incentives to sellers here, and tended likewise to deprive the market of any aggressive support from buyers. Numerous discouraged holders of Chicago wheat future delivery contracts let go freely on the downward swing of the market, including not a few owners who heretofore have shown themselves tenacious in looking for price rallies. Today, however, from start to finish, new buying power was at a minimum seldom equaled, and for at least the time being came mostly from previous sellers who were in a position to collect a profit.

Corn and oats were chiefly dragged down by the effect of wheat weakness. Corn, however, was relatively firmer than wheat owing to reports that the corn crop prospect in Chicago territory is unsatisfactory, much of the crop being late with growth less than normal and the stand also inferior.

BOND PRICES CLIMB IRREGULARLY HIGHER

U. S. GOVERNMENTS FIRM

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Listed bonds displayed a firm tone for a time today, but trends soon became irregular, as call money unexpectedly rose from 2 to 2½, then to 3 per cent. The market was a little more active than it has been during recent sessions with sales aggregating $9,750,000 par value. The price average for ten utilities rose 1-10 of a point, to 100 flat, a new high, and the ten industrials moved a shade higher, but the rails failed to make progress.

The upturn in call money appeared to be temporary, reflecting withdrawals of funds placed in the market for employment over the triple holiday, and delayed return of midyear interest and dividend checks to the banks. Firm foreign exchange rates also indicated further reparation of foreign balances no longer attracted by the reduced interest rates at this center.

Many New Flotations.

Despite the fact that continued plenitude of credit seems assured, various factors still operate against sustained rise in listed bonds. New issues are steadily making their appearance. The Treasury will offer $50,000,000 in bills July 14. The City of Philadelphia awarded $15,000,000 in 4 and 4½s today to Lehman Bros. and Chase Securities Corporation at par. It was announced that $12,000,000 Commonwealth Edison first mortgage 4½s will be offered shortly. Several other municipal and utility issues are planned.

The higher call loans caused considerable selling of the Liberty 3½s, but other United States Governments were steady to firm, several of the foreign issues were in good demand. The German 5½s sagged for a time, but were quickly supported. Department of Seine 7s rose more than a point in active buying, and several of the Argentine issues were well bought. The Bolivian issues were active, the 8s selling off a little in profit taking on their recent rally, then turning upward to close steady. The 7s of '58 gained more than a point. City of Frankfort 6½s were a soft spot, sagging 2¾ to 91½, a new low.

Convertibles Are Irregular.

The convertibles were irregular and featureless. American Telephone 4½s lost about a point, while International Telephone 4½s gained fractionally. The Baltimore & Ohio 4½s were steady, while the Atchison 4½s lost ½. Loew's 6s with warrants gained 2 points, despite heaviness of the stock.

Among the legal bonds, Atchison General 4s, a favorite with savings banks, sold off ½, then regained their loss. Frisco 4½s, recently placed on the legal list, followed a similar course. A new rail issue, the Michigan Central 4½s of '79, rose a fraction to 99¼.

A rather soft group was the tractions, despite favorable promising court decisions in traction cases announced after the close of the market last week, including sustaining of the 10-cent fare of the Chicago Elevated. Brooklyn Manhattan 6s and Interboro refunding 5s each sagged ¾.

LATE FLURRY HALTS DECLINE IN STOCKS

MONEY RATES ADVANCE

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Stocks joined commodities in another downward movement today, submitting rather meekly to selling supplied by the bear faction and by holders of the long positions who saw little hope of a real upward turn during the dull summer months. A dozen active issues made new 1930 lows, while the average decline for 90 representative shares was slightly more than 3 points.

Prices worked steadily lower until toward the close, when the familiar flurry of covering lifted prices a shade above the day's lows. Investment buying in this market is almost entirely on the scale down, so that the short interest has comparatively little difficulty in getting its way and appears to be in no hurry to cover extensively.

The grains and cotton were weak. Chairman Legge's statement on wheat last week, in which he emphasized the importance of an adjustment in acreage, was followed by breaks of considerably more than 2 cents a bushel, with closing prices not far above the day's lows. Heavy interior receipts and a large increase in the visible supply were factors in the decline. Corn averaged about a cent and a half lower. Cotton closed off 17 to 31 points, reflecting bearish interpretations of private acreage and crop reports. Coffee dropped rather sharply and sugar again eased.

Chain Store Business Off.

Disappointing returns on June business, reported by several large chain store systems, combined with the weakness of the basic staples to affect speculative sentiment in the share market. A substantial volume of selling orders had accumulated over the holiday, and their execution at the opening not only forced the leading stocks lower, but proved to be the cue for the session.

When the initial selling had been exhausted, however, the trading turned dull, with the result that sales for the day totaled less than 1,500,000 shares. Turnover in the first half hour was larger than the sales in the last 50 minutes. The latter period is normally the most active.

While such stocks as U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone & General Electric were meeting pressure, a varied group was being put down to new lows for the year. Included in this list were Simmons, Safeway Stores, Du Pont, Gillette Safety Razor, Atlantic Coast Line, National Cash Register, North American, Air Reduction, American Locomotive, Columbia Graphophone and St. Louis-San Francisco, with losses ranging between 2 and 7 points.

Bellas Hess Hits Low.

National Bellas Hess also made a new minimum on a smaller loss. Selling of North American was vigorous and the stock was off more than 6 points at its lowest. A statement by the company's president said that electric output of the subsidiaries in the twelve months ended June 30 had gained 6¾ per cent over the year ended June 30, 1929.

U. S. Steel got down to 153¾, or within 2 points of the year's low, and closed at 154½, or 3⅜ below last Thursday's final quotation. International Harvester, American Telephone, General Electric, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, American Can, Eastman Kodak, New York Central, Westinghouse Electric and Vanadium Steel lost 1 to 4 points net. Ingersoll Rand suffered a maximum drop of more than 12, recovering 2 points of the extreme loss. Allied Chemical and Air Reduction were off 6 and U. I. Case 7.

Call money firmed. Renewing at 2 per cent, the rate was advanced successively to 2½ and 3 as the banks called nearly $50,000,000 in loans. A livelier demand for funds was also reported. The loan calling was attributed mostly to the 2 per cent figure which ruled over the weekend, a rate that apparently did not appeal to the large lenders.

Foreign exchanges were firm to strong. Sterling cables rose 5-32.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Thousands of carloads of wheat arriving from the harvest fields and piling up the visible supply sent wheat values downward today. Receipts of wheat at ten points in the Southwest today totaled in excess of 5,000 cars, and the domestic stock of wheat in sight piled up a 3,478,000-bushel increase for the week, with virtually no wheat taken by exporters during the last three days. Wheat prices reached fresh low-price records, and also oats.

The wheat market closed nervous at but little over the day's bottom figures, 2¼ to 2¾ cents a bushel lower than Thursday's finish. Corn closed ⅞ to 1⅜ cents down, oats ⅞ to 1⅛ cents off, and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to a rise of 15 cents.

Adding to the backbreaking load under which the wheat market collapsed were reports that harvest operations were making great progress northward, especially in Illinois and Nebraska. In this connection, Illinois advices were at hand telling of yields 3 to 5 bushels an acre more than was expected a few weeks ago, many localities returning 30 bushels or better, with farms near Jacksonville showing 40 bushels and near Roodhouse 45 bushels. Meanwhile, word of increasing receipts of new wheat poured in from all domestic wheat markets, with Chicago and Omaha participating, as well as the cities Southwest that heretofore have borne the brunt of the harvest.

Rain reports from Canada and generally favorable conditions described as prevailing in spring wheat territory this side of the international line acted as further incentives to sellers here, and tended likewise to deprive the market of any aggressive support from buyers. Numerous discouraged holders of Chicago wheat future delivery contracts let go freely on the downward swing of the market, including not a few owners who heretofore have shown themselves tenacious in looking for price rallies. Today, however, from start to finish, new buying power was at a minimum seldom equaled, and for at least the time being came mostly from previous sellers who were in a position to collect a profit.

Corn and oats were chiefly dragged down by the effect of wheat weakness. Corn, however, was relatively firmer than wheat owing to reports that the corn crop prospect in Chicago territory is unsatisfactory, much of the crop being late with growth less than normal and the stand also inferior.

BOND PRICES CLIMB IRREGULARLY HIGHER

U. S. GOVERNMENTS FIRM

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Listed bonds displayed a firm tone for a time today, but trends soon became irregular, as call money unexpectedly rose from 2 to 2½, then to 3 per cent. The market was a little more active than it has been during recent sessions with sales aggregating $9,750,000 par value. The price average for ten utilities rose 1-10 of a point, to 100 flat, a new high, and the ten industrials moved a shade higher, but the rails failed to make progress.

The upturn in call money appeared to be temporary, reflecting withdrawals of funds placed in the market for employment over the triple holiday, and delayed return of midyear interest and dividend checks to the banks. Firm foreign exchange rates also indicated further repatriation of foreign balances no longer attracted by the reduced interest rates at this center.

Many New Flotations.

Despite the fact that continued plenitude of credit seems assured, various factors still operate against sustained rise in listed bonds. New issues are steadily making their appearance. The Treasury will offer $50,000,000 in bills July 14. The City of Philadelphia awarded $15,000,000 in 4 and 4¼s today to Lehman Bros. and Chase Securities Corporation at par. It was announced that $12,000,000 Commonwealth Edison first mortgage 4½s will be offered shortly. Several other municipal and utility issues are planned.

The higher call loans caused considerable selling of the Liberty 3½s, but other United States Governments were steady to firm, several of the foreign issues were in good demand. The German 5½s sagged for a time, but were quickly supported. Department of Seine 7s rose more than a point in active buying, and several of the Argentine issues were well bought. The Bolivian issues were active, the 8s selling off a little in profit taking on their recent rally, then turning upward to close steady. The 7s of '58 gained more than a point. City of Frankfort 6½s were a soft spot, sagging 2¾ to 91½, a new low.

Convertibles Are Irregular.

The convertibles were irregular and featureless. American Telephone 4½s lost about a point, while International Telephone 4½s gained fractionally. The Baltimore & Ohio 4½s were steady, while the Atchison 4½s lost ½. Loew's 6s with warrants gained 2 points, despite heaviness of the stock.

Among the legal bonds, Atchison General 4s, a favorite with savings banks, sold off ½, then regained their loss. Frisco 4½s, recently placed on the legal list, followed a similar course. A new rail issue, the Michigan Central 4½s of '79, rose a fraction to 99¼.

A rather soft group was the tractions, despite favorable promising court decisions in traction cases announced after the close of the market last week, including sustaining of the 10-cent fare of the Chicago Elevated. Brooklyn Manhattan 6s and Interboro refunding 5s each sagged ¾.

DEMARCO ELECTED CASHIER FOR BANK

MISS PEARCE TO RESIGN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Election of John M. DeMarco, assistant cashier of Seventh Street Savings Bank for the past two and a half years, to the position of cashier of that institution was announced yesterday. Mr. De Marco, one of the most popular of the city's younger bankers, will succeed John D. Howard, former vice president and cashier, recently elected president of the bank, vice A. H. Plugge, who became chairman of the board of directors.

Mr. DeMarco was born in this city, received his education in a private school and was graduated from Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking. He is at present a member of the institute's board of governors. All of his business career has been associated with the Seventh Street Savings Bank. He entered its employ in 1919, as a clerk and was elected assistant cashier in 1927.

Miss Pearce to Quit Post.

It was learned yesterday that Miss Frances M. Pearce, who has been employed in the new business department of the Federal-American National Bank and who wrote the first prize-winning paper in this year's essay contest of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, will shortly enter the local newspaper advertising field.

Miss Pearce's paper in the association's essay contest was entitled, "My Job, My Duties. What Are the Requisite Qualifications and How May I Be of the Greatest Service to My Bank in Helping to Increase Earnings and Reduce Expenses?" She read her essay before the annual convention of the body at Asheville, N. C., in June, and it was printed by her bank for distribution to bankers.

She joined the staff of the Federal-American National Bank in August, 1928, when the American Granite Association, by which she had been employed, moved its offices to Boston. She helped inaugurate a new business extension department in the bank and last September read a paper at the convention of the Financial Advertisers Association at Atlanta.

Won Another Contest.

The bankers' association essay contest was not the first in which Miss Pearce was a winner, she having won the Federal-American National Bank employes' contest on "Direct Mail Folders" some months ago. She has been editor of the Teller, her bank's official publication.

WASHINGTON: TUESDAY, JULY 8, 1930. 15

NATS, NOW LEADING, SEEK NINTH STRAIGHT TODAY

Pegler

AMMY MANDELL, the lightweight champion of the world, is making arrangements to fight Al Singer in a fifteen-round bout at the weight for the class in the Yankee Stadium on July 17, and up to now both parties seem so honest about the thing that it is just as well to assume a suspicious attitude and wonder what is wrong. I am particularly suspicious of the Mandell party because Samuel and his manager, Mr. Eddie Kane, have such a high reputation for honesty that I feel quite sure there must be something phony about them. They never have engaged in any fake prize fights, they do not own any beer routes or stills, neither of them has any local political connections and, on the whole, they appear to be characters who will bear watching.

It is Mr. Dumb Daniel Morgan, one of the survivors of the old school of prize-fight management, who says one should always avoid dealings with honest men in the prize-fight business because honesty is unorthodox and an orthodox man puts himself at a disadvantage.

The customers, too, by this time have become strictly orthodox in their attitude toward the business, and if the boys show them an honest contest, unmarked by any fouls or claims of foul, they will be likely to go away disappointed and denouncing the exhibition as a fraud. It seems only fair to the patrons to warn them, although this may hurt the Fight Commission Steps In.

As to the Singer party, there is less cause for apprehension. It has been only a few weeks since Singer engaged in a ten-round fight with Agnacio Fernandez, a Filipino, in the new Garden which was preceded by maneuvers and rumors of the strictest orthodoxy. Fernandez had knocked Singer out in a previous bout about one year ago, and on this recent evening as the patrons entered the Garden they were greeted by reports that Fernandez was to go into the water in Round 1 so that Al would look more formidable as an opponent for Mandell. James Farley, the chairman of the prize-fight commission, took cognizance of this and called upon Fernandez in his dressing room to say that he positively must not go into the water unless pushed. Consequently, when Fernandez went to the floor in the first round he hopped up like a popping corn off a hot stove lid and the contest went the full route of ten rounds.

I heard many customers complaining that if the day had come when they had to watch honest prize fights they would never darken the door of the Garden again, and there was no little resentment against Mr. Farley for injecting the foreign element of honesty into a bout which originally promised exceedingly orthodox sport.

Mandell Now a Veteran.

In this bout Singer did not seem man enough to beat Mandell, as I remember Samuel, but then I have not seen Samuel perform since the night of his bout with Jimmy McLarnin a couple of years ago. He is an old prize fighter now, after eleven years in the ring, and he has had to endure considerable rough punching in some of his nonchampionship fights with welterweights, especially in the return bout with McLarnin in Chicago. Yet Samuel probably could spare much of his earlier agility and knack and still beat Singer, because Al was unable to push Fernandez into the water in ten rounds, although Fernandez had no defense and all of Singer's punches were free throws. Afterward Singer said he had been overcautious, remembering that the bruised and dizzy Filipino had tapped him on his chin and stopped him in their first bout. But I should say that any one who was afraid of being tapped on the chin by any one as clumsy as Fernandez would be likely to call the militia in a bout with Mandell.

Both young men have signed waivers of the old foul rule, which has been suspended in New York State, agreeing to equip themselves with the best available body armor and take their chances with any punches that may land out of bounds. This will be the first important prize fight to be waged under the new rule, and it is possible, of course, that in the exercise of this new freedom both chaps will concentrate on low punches; perhaps the time will come when some boy, being tapped on the chin in the midst of a flurry of low punches, will drop to the floor with his face in his hand, yelling, "Foul! He hit me on the jaw!"

Sammy's Age Very Much in Doubt.

Samuel claims to be only 26 years old, and if this be true it goes to prove that one can never trust an honest prize fighter, because he was

Tilden Is Out, U.S. Captain Is Quoted

Contract as Reporter to Keep Ace Out of Davis Cup Play.

Can Not Wield His Racket and Pen Simultaneously.

LONDON, July 7 A.P.).—The player-writer rule he helped to frame probably will prevent Bill Tilden from aiding the United States in its 1930 bid for the Davis Cup, held by France's tennis aces for the last three years.

Tilden is under contract to the North American Newspaper Alliance to report the international matches, and thus, under the rules, will be ineligible to represent the United States. Under the provisions of the United States Lawn Tennis Association's player-writer rule, no player may write, currently concerning a tournament in which he is competing.

Fitz Eugene Dixon, of Philadelphia, nonplaying captain of the American Davis Cup Team, told the Associated Press tonight that Tilden is determined not to play any cup tennis this year. He said Tilden himself had pointed out that he was under contract to write on the international series and thus would not be available for play.

Tilden Would Boost U. S. Chances.

Dixon had broached the subject of Tilden joining the team after the veteran's brilliant victory in the British championships, concluded today. Critics felt that with Tilden on the team the Americans would have an excellent chance to regain the trophy they lost to the French musketeers in 1927.

Tilden himself was in Holland and could not be reached for a statement.

Tilden apparently is resolved to adhere to his newspaper contracts, declaring it would not be fair to ask for a release from them to enable him to comply with the U. S. L. T. A.'s view that he can not write and play concurrently. He was quoted as having said the U. S. L. T. A. had the power to allow him to fulfill his contract and still play, but Louis B. Dailey, president of the association, who is here has denied this request. Tilden therefore has taken the position that there is no more to be said.

Davis Cup Chairman Still Holds Hope.

Philadelphia, July 7 (A.P.).—Hope has not been abandoned here that William T. Tilden will be a member of the United States Tennis Team which will meet the French racquet wielders in the Davis Cup final.

"Big Bill" is said to be under contract to write articles on the Davis Cup matches which is contrary to the rules of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

This was said to be known to Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the U. S. Davis Cup committee, who expressed the hope after the Philadelphian had won the British Tennis title, that Tilden would play in the Davis Cup matches.

Can Not Wield Both Racket and Pen.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—A possibility that William T. Tilden's activities as a newspaper reporter may prevent participation by Big Bill Tilden, rejuvenated tennis player, in the Davis Cup matches appeared today when it was learned he is under contract to report the international matches for the North American Newspaper Alliance.

John N. Wheeler, president of the syndicate, said that the champion was under contract to report the play in France.

He was asked if the assignment included covering the Davis Cup matches.

"So far as I know it does," was the reply. "I have heard nothing to the contrary."

Under the rules of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, the racket and pen can not be wielded simultaneously. A tennis player can write only in the past tense. He can not report current events, so Big Bill will not be permitted to throw his huge form about a French tennis court with his accustomed abandon and then take pen or typewriter in hand to write under the byline: "By William T. Tilden 2d."

The next engagement for the United States Davis Cup team will be on July 18, 19 and 20, when the Americans will oppose the European zone winner for the right to challenge the French holders of the cup. The challenge round will be played in Paris July 25, 26 and 27. The scene of the interzone final depends upon whether Japan or Italy wins the zone final this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

By FRANK H. KING.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 7 (A.P.).—The thriving young tennis partnership of Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., reaped additional laurels today, defeating George Lott, of Chicago, and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., in straight sets, 6—3, 6—3, 6—2, to retain the Wimbledon doubles championship.

By their unexpectedly one-sided victory, Allison and Van Ryn once more proclaimed themselves the foremost doubles combination in the world, added the final touches to an unprecedented American sweep of British titles and brought to a close a tournament which is jocularly referred to here as Wimbledon's 1930 "American championships."

Despite the strongest sort of competition, assembled from all over the world, the well-balanced delegation from the United States made tennis history as four of the five events wound up in all-American finals.

Fail in Mixed Doubles.

Bill Tilden beat Wilmer Allison and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody defeated Miss Elizabeth Ryan for the singles crowns.

In women's doubles, Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan overcame their young compatriots, Miss Sarah Palfrey and Miss Edith Cross, in the title match; and today Van Ryn and Allison easily mastered their fellow Americans, who had scored handily over the French Davis Cup combination of Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon last week.

Only in mixed doubles did the Americans fail of complete victory, this championship having gone to Jack Crawford, of Australia, and Miss Ryan, the remarkable veteran, who lived for many years in London, but still is claimed by the United States.

Allison and Van Ryn looked like winners from the start. In the second game of the first set they captured Doeg's service and took the next game to lead, 3—0. This initial advantage was enough to enable them to carry the set.

All Four Youths Smash Wildly.

There was much promiscuous smashing by all four youths and also much hitting out at all the lines. Doeg scored a few swift service aces, but was not to be depended on with any other shot and even Lott was not up to his usual standard.

Lott and Doeg led for a moment at 2—1, in the second set, but a few flashes of brilliance from Allison, with Van Ryn steady at his side, quickly carried the champions ahead at 4—3 and they took two more games for the set.

Games went to 2-all in the third set, but Allison and Van Ryn were well on their way to victory. In the last game Doeg dropped his service for the second time in the set and the third in the match as Van Ryn and Allison increased their pace with success in sight.

the Nats out at no further cost to his team.

While the Nats were making merry, their opponents were having plenty of trouble. Except in their scoring frame, only two Red Sox players were able to get as far as third, while Crowder did not let any see base life until the fourth, when Scarritt singled with two dead.

Two Doubles By Miller Wasted.

It was at this stage of the game that the Washington flinger decided that there was no use in taking his work too seriously and from then on he only bore down when he had to. Miller opened the fifth with a double and was left, while another two-bagger was wasted by Miller in the next frame, with Regan's opening single going for naught in the seventh.

One was out in the eighth when the Sox finally scored. Then Oliver doubled and, after advancing on Todt's out, registered when Manush just failed to get to Scarritt's Texas league double just back of third. With one out in the final session, Miller and Reeves singled successively, but Crowder then became serious and the next two went down on pops to Myer.

Herman's 20th Homer Wins Duel With Braves

Brooklyn, July 7 (A.P.).—Babe Herman's big bat led the Brooklyn Robins to a 2-to-1 victory over the Boston Braves today as Ray Moss and Bob Smith hooked up in an old-fashioned pitching duel.

Herman's twentieth home run in the sixth inning scored what proved to be the winning run, while his double in the fourth was converted into a run, when Wright singled.

Moss let the Braves down with six hits and held them scoreless for seven innings.

Chuck Klein went into a tie with Hack Wilson for the league home-run leadership, cracking out his twenty-fourth of the season. Frank O'Doul also hit for four bases.

Errors Enable Chisox To Split With Detroit

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—The White Sox took advantage of poor Detroit fielding to win the second half of a double-header, 9 to 5, today, after losing the first game, 3 to 2, to Earl Whitehill's fine pitching.

The Tigers outhit the Sox, 12 to 11, in the second game, but Pat Caraway managed to outlast Art Herring and Sullivan, who worked for Detroit. Whitehill gave the Sox only four hits in the first game, while Dutch Henry was rapped for twelve.

Cubs Lose 3d Straight To Reds; Drop in Race

Cincinnati, July 7 (A.P.).—The champion Cubs today dropped their third consecutvie game to the floundering Reds by the score of 4 to 2 and now occupy second place one full game behind Brooklyn, the pace setterss, who defeated Boston. The Chicago defeat broke an actual but not mathematical tie for first place with the Robins, as the latter previous to today's game occupied first place by a few percentage points, but held no advantage in games won and lost.

Pat Malone limited the Reds to a single hit in the first five innings, but weakened in the sixth and seventh when he was touched for three triples and a single. He also let loose a wild pitch and the result was four runs.

In the Wake of the Game

Special to The Washington Post.

BOSTON, Mass., July 7.—Heine Manush had to climb up the incline at the foot of the fence in left field to drag down Oliver's drive opening the Sox first. He did the same thing starting the second inning, robbing Earl Webb, former mate, of a safety. Webb, by the way, is playing regularly for the Beaneaters and is quite a favorite here because of his hard and timely stickwork. He is slow afield, but seems to have quite a strong throwing arm.

Regan raced back to short center to make a nice catch of Manush's looper in the second.

Cronin's single, which opened the third, sailed over Regan's head in short center by a matter of inches.

Bluege came up with a fine stop of Rhyne's hard hit grasser in the third.

Manush ended the fourth by making a better than ordinary catch of Regan's high looper, racing well toward center for the ball. Men were on third and first at the time.

Oliver made a great effort to snare Cronin's Texas leaguer in the fifth with Manush on first. Coming in at full speed he just managed to get the tips of his fingers on the ball.

Miller made a nice play in taking Bluege's sacrifice bunt and making the out at first, with Judge and West moving up in the fifth.

Crowder fanned his rival, Durham, ending the fifth with a man on third on three successive fast ones. The Sox hurler missed the first two and then watched the next one pass him.

Todt robbed Myer of a hit opening the sixth, taking a hard bounder almost directly behind first. This robbed the Nationals of a run, for Rice's triple followed.

Miller went back to the fence and bounced off of it after his catch of Manush's drive to deepest center in round six. The blow went as a sacrifice fly for it was so deep that the fly chaser made no effort to try to stop Rice from going in from third after the catch.

Cronin raced over almost to second to make a fine play on Webb's hard roller, which ended the sixth.

Judge, who walked his first three times up, opened the "lucky" frame with a double over Webb's head in right. Then came three more two basers in rapid succession, all real drives, off the bats of West, Bluege and Spencer, the latter's knocking Durham off the pitching peak.

A hard foul bounder off Rice's bat knocked off Umpire Tommy Connolly's hat in the seventh, but the veteran arbiter picked it up in a most dignified manner just as though nothing had happened. He had to stand lots of razzing from the fans, however.

Charley Small, who pinch-hit for Heving in the Sox seventh, just joined the Boston Club today, being obtained from Pittsfield, of the Eastern League. He is an outfielder who was tried out by the Boston Braves last spring.

"Games Lost" Column Gives Edge to Nats

The "games lost" column in the standings represents the advantage that the Nats hold over the Athletics whom they displaced at the top of the league yesterday.

Actually, reckoning in games won and lost, the Nats are trailing the Mackmen by a half game, with three less victories and two less defeats, but mathematically the Nats assumed first place yesterday. With both teams traveling at an approximately .660 pace, games lost figure more heavily in the percentages than games won—thus the Nats' advantage.

Goslin Slams Homer In 6-1 Defeat of Tribe

Cleveland, July 7 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns took the Indians over the coals without much effort in the second game of the series here today, 6 to 1.

They lambasted the offerings of Pete Jablonowski and Belvidere Bean, both right-handers, to a frazzle from start to finish. It was a "breeze" for George Blaeholder, and the issue was never in doubt.

The Browns' output included eleven hits. Two were circuit smashes by Ralph Kress off Jablonowski in the second and by Goose Goslin off Bean in the eighth.

U. S. OPEN LINKS TROUBLES HOPEFULS IN PRACTICE

GreensLively, Fairways Narrow

Former Champions on Scene Shoot and Reshoot Strokes.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 7 (A.P.).—Interlachen resisted efforts to break par today as a majority of the golfers who Thursday will begin play in the national open swept over its green slopes under a burning sun.

Most of the entries, however, were making no serious bid for low scores, concentrating instead on a study of its contours. Its narrow fairways proved a serious bugaboo for many of the long drivers who found the rough frequently. The greens which have baked unusually lively and hard from the intense heat of the past week, furnished even a more noticeable difficulty during the practice rounds.

Bobby Jones, defending champion, who made his debut at Interlachen Sunday with two rounds at par 72, turned up for play this afternoon with his neck bandaged—a victim of the Sabbath Day sun.

Although he has played out of doors steadily for months, his heavy tan proved an insufficient defense for the scorching rays. Several other players also suffered less serious results. Jones treated his neck and played a round easily this afternoon and said he expected that he would be over the effects before Thursday.

Tolley's Long Drives Net 74 Card.

Cyril Tolley, the powerful British amateur who has found many of Interlachen's holes suited to his long driving game, was credited with a 74 today, the best full score reported for the morning and early afternoon. George Sargent, Columbus, Ohio, open champion in 1909, returned today to Interlachen, where he was once pro, and started preparations at once to get in shape for the meet.

Other former champions on the course, none of whom paid any attention to scores for the round, picking up and reshooting frequently, were: Walter Hagen, Jim Barnes, Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, with Chick Evans, who won the 1916 open in Minneapolis, expected to make a practice round Tuesday.

Jones Scores Third Birdie on Eleventh.

Leo Diegel and Horton Smith, leading professional entries: Jones and Dudley, Wilmington, Del., pro., composed a foursome for a round late today in which only a haphazard score was kept, but which produced many sensational shots, the eleventh hole, which old club members have agreed to be the hardest on the course, 484 yards, par 5, gave Jones a birdie for the third time. He scored fours there in both his rounds Sunday and likewise on both Sunday and today he followed with birdies on the twelfth, the longest hole on the course, 530 yards, par 5.

Jones Voted New Title By Interlachen Caddy

Minneapolis, Minn., July 7 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones has another title—the world's most silent golfer. Donovan Dale, Jones' caddie for the national open play at Interlachen, proclaimed the new title today.

"He's a swell guy," Donovan said. "He only spoke to me twice."

In five hours of play, so Donovan reported, Jones' only conversation was:

"Where's the water?" and "What's your name?"

—Arlington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

ARLINGTON PARK seems to have successfully introduced steeplechasing in the West and has attracted some of the best Eastern jumpers. The card today is featured by the Bridle Spur Steeplechase on the short course of 2 miles. Mrs. Ambrose Clark has her string of jumpers there, and her entry of BROWN STOUT—the better one—and ASTRONOMY gives promise of taking most of the purse. BROWN STOUT is a reliable jumper and should win easily, while WOODY may split the pair and get second money from ASTRONOMY. BROWN STOUT justly concedes weight to the others.

FIRST RACE—This is for maiden 2-year-olds, with a large field to choose from. FOREIGN EXCHANGE has narrowly missed annexing brackets, as has PORT CODINE, but it seems that the first-named has the edge on the Washington horse. MICHIGAN GIRL or DEWET should take the show end.

THIRD RACE—CORAL BEACH is well placed in the third race, having as the most dangerous rival for the purse the Green Tree Stable's ROMANY BAW, which prefers mud. CORAL BEACH has had a let-up in racing for some days and should be fit. ROMANY BAW has won few races, but usually keeps the crowd guessing, as he always makes some kind of showing. NIFTY may take what is left of the purse.

FOURTH RACE—The Derefield Purse, an allowance affair for 2-year-olds, has a select field. H. P. Whitney's RIDEAWAY was believed at Belmont Park to be a top-notcher, and he is expected to grab this $1,500 purse. The Rancocas Stable should be second with CHARMER, and ZIDA will help this entry. INSCO is best of the others, and has a real chance at any part of the purse.

FIFTH RACE—This is the feature on the flat called the Smart Set Purse for fillies, $1,700 added. LADY BROADCAST has the best record. She has run against handicap horses and held her own, and is selected to beat Mr. Whitney's DUSTEMALL, a filly of stake quality, and a 3-year-old. TADDYWAWA had a sensational winter run of successes, but it is believed she is outclassed in this race, which is at a mile, but she should gather the show money.

SIXTH RACE—CRYSTAL DOMINO is about ready to wake up and should annex the sixth race, with MOROCCO, the probable favorite, as chief opponent. The Archibald horse has speed for a mile, but his chances would improve with a heavy track. MOROCCO usually turns in a good race. PORTMANTEAU will be the surprise winner if either of these fail.

SEVENTH RACE—BROTHER RANK is choice of the platers in the seventh race. JACK HASKELL may be the contender. BOROUGH MONGER should be in the money in this field.

EIGHTH RACE—LOUISE WILSON appears to be the best of an ordinary lot in the eighth race. PETER and DUELIST should offer the contention and both land in the money.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUN DOL, $23.60, $9.58, $6.08; KAMALII, $4.72, $5.08; STONE MARTIN, $2.98.

SUN DOL, away well and saving ground throughout, challenged resolutely through final furlong, wore down KAMALII, ran a good race until final sixteenth. STONE MARTIN, outrun to stretch, was taken through an opening on inside, got into contention and made a game effort in final drive. SISTER MARY had no mishaps and tired. YOICK went suddenly improved, raced close up to the stretch, then faltered under pressure. REVERBERATE suddenly broke down in close quarters. KAMALII, STONE MARTIN and YOICK unseated their riders before start.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:51. Off at 2:54. Winner, W. F. Hitt's blk. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUBLEVADO, $11.12, $6.36, $4.58; ROY GIBSON, $3.96, $12.; SCOTLAND, $4.94.

SUBLEVADO, in best form, had speed from the start, forced the pace to the stretch turn, then took the lead from LEE COOPER and drew away strongly. ROY GIBSON broke from outside starting gate, raced close up on outside throughout, tired in final drive. SCOTLAND, under restrained nature, outpaced early, had to work his way up on outside, closed a gap and finished strong.

THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs (out the chute.) Purse, $1,500; allowances. The Prospect. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:21½. Off at 3:23. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SIR ARGO, $9.42, $4.70, $2.86; BIG STAR, $4.30, $2.84; LAWYER, $2.44.

SIR ARGO worked under clever rating to the stretch, wore down the tiring LAWYER into the lead, but weakened at the end and barely outlasted BIG STAR in final stride. BIG STAR, never far off the pace, worked his way up gradually and, coming with a rush on the inside in final eighth, just missed wearing down the winner in the final stages. LAWYER set a good early pace and went well to the final sixteenth before tiring. THE ALDERMAN closed wide gap from slow beginning. NURSIE also made up much ground, coming from far back. LADY COVENTRY tired badly.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,800; allowances. The Consolation. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:50½. Off at 3:51. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LATAVICH, $6.34, $3.76, $2.86; WIRT G. BOWMAN, $4.52, $3.08; JUSTINIAN, $4.02.

LATAVICH raced on inside, saving ground, went under restraint to the final turn when, with his own pace made to order, drew out stoutly, easily keeping WIRT G. BOWMAN safe at the end. The latter gained steadily, came with strong move on inside at stretch turn, getting through into contention and held on well. JUSTINIAN was sent up on the outside, indulging in the pace strongly for the first half mile, but tired in the final quarter. SUSIE JANE tired badly. CALF ROPER broke in close quarters on back stretch, could never get through. BUDDY BAUER had good speed to stretch turn, began dropping back there and was shut off badly by WIRT G. BOWMAN.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:21. Off at 4:29½. Winner, Mrs. Ambrose Clark's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VOLTMETER, $11.80, $5.04, $3.74; SUPRYSE, $3.60, $3.30; BRAMSTER, $18.32.

VOLTMETER, racing restrained in early stages, worked his way up rapidly after the first half mile, reached contention entering the stretch, then wore down BRAMSTAR and SUPRYSE and won going away. SUPRYSE was off poorly, quickly closed a gap, came fast on inside in stretch, but got into close quarters and tired. BRAMSTAR displayed much the most early speed, opened up a long lead entering the stretch, but weakened in final eighth when winner challenged and tired badly. MARY'S TOY was always prominent and showed a good effort. SHADY REST closed good gap.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:56½. Winner, Mrs. R. Pollard's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—J. A. WEIL, $42.12, $19.56, $11.62; PORT GAR, $7.18, $6.46; MISS MARYLAND, $30.68.

J. A. WEIL began slowly and, after going wide, closed an immense gap in the final furlong and wore down PORT GAR to win going away. PORT GAR had the best early speed, set a good pace to midway of the home stretch, but tired. MISS MARYLAND went vastly improved, was close up from start and held on well. MARGATE worked her way into contention, but had no excuses and tired in final drive. COMET and NANCY SETH closed a wide gap from a slow beginning.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:21½. Off at 5:23. Winner, Mrs. Ambrose Clark's b. g. (4), by Johren—Stickling. Trained by James Healy. Value to winner, $1,050; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:49 1-5, 1:15 2-5, 1:40 4-5, 1:54 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STICK AROUND, $10.46, $6.22, $3.24; PADDY, $18.52, $8.90; SWEET MANDY, $2.72.

STICK AROUND began fast and, taking command at first turn, made all his own pace and, holding on gamely in long, hard final drive, lasted to outfinish PADDY. PADDY gained rapidly entering the stretch coming out of restraint, moved up to the leaders stoutly at the last eighth and made a strong bid, but was not quite good enough. SWEET MANDY gained gradually, closed a wide gap from a slow beginning, but could not get to leaders. ELLEN N., a forward factor throughout, began tiring in final eighth and faltered under pressure. FERN F. began slowly.

CHAREST BOWS TO MITCHELL IN CITY TENNIS ROUT

Title Holder Eliminated, 6-0, 6-2

One-Armed Veteran Proves No Match for G. U. Ace.

By JACK ESPEY.

CLARENCE CHAREST'S battle with Old Man Condition came to a disastrous close yesterday. After courageously climbing through the first four rounds despite poor condition due to lack of practice, the defending champion fell before the blistering drives of Dooly Mitchell, Georgetown University star, in the singles quarter-finals of the District championship tennis tournament at Edgemoor Club.

Charest fell hard. The scores were 8—0, 6—2. Seldom since he transferred his game from Baltimore to Washington years ago has the one-armed veteran absorbed such a defeat. Neither the most pessimistic of his supporters nor the most optimistic of Mitchell's admirers had anticipated the complete rout that it was.

Semifinals Slated Tomorrow.

The youthful Mitchell, who was seeded No. 2, thus advanced to the semifinals which will be held tomorrow. Accompanying the Georgetown ace in the advance were Bob Considine, of George Washington University, seeded No. 1; Tom Mangan, former champion, seeded third, and Billy Jacobs, of Baltimore, the Middle Atlantic junior champion, who was seeded fourth.

Considine, after a shaky start, defeated Colin Stam, 6—2, 6—2, speeding up his game to a point at which his rival was hopelessly outclassed. Mangan overcame Eddie Yeomans, clever racqueter of the University of North Carolina, 6—4, 6—4, while Jacobs downed Maurice O'Neill, local public parks luminary, 6—4, 6—2.

In the semifinals Considine will oppose Mangan and Mitchell will engage Jacobs. On past performances, especially of late date, Considine and Mitchell are the favorites.

The gallery sat almost breathless as Mitchell raced through the first set against Charest. He broke the veteran's service in the first game as a starter. So speedy and accurate were his drives to the corners that Charest netted many and hit outside on most of the others. Interspersed were several aces that caused the defending champion to shake his head sadly. Mitchell served a love game in the sixth.

Charest Takes First Of Second Set.

Charest temporarily stemmed the tide when he captured the first game of the second set on his own service and again when he won the fifth game at love. Mitchell, meanwhile, had not slackened his pace and following this short counter attack, ran out with four games in a row.

The Mangan-Yeomans match provided the best competition of the day, the young Tarheel representative giving Mangan a hard battle until the very end. Five times in the second set Mangan reached match point only to see Yeomans make remarkable returns of burning drives to prolong the contest.

Considine, the winner of the City of Washington singles championship, failed to display his best tennis at any time, but he spurred himself just enough to keep Stam easily in hand. He came up from 15-40 in the eighth game of the second set to take the match.

Jacobs was always ahead of O'Neill and experienced only one uneasy moment, this when he lost his own service in the eighth game of the first set.

Mangan-Considine Team Wins.

In the doubles the defending champions, Considine and Mangan, reached the quarter-finals by defeating Dawson and Freeman, 6—0, 6—1. Their opponents in the quarter-finals, scheduled today, are Markey and Elliott, who were victorious on Sunday.

The colorful Navy players, Ensigns Howard and Farrin, also advanced with a hard-earned victory over Charest and Phillips, 6—3, 10—8. Majs. Van Vliet and Finley, champions of the Army, moved forward, too, eliminating Lieuts. Robinson and Lewis, 4—6, 6—4, 7—5. Deck and Seidell defeated O'Neill and Yeomans in an upset, 6—3, 6—3; Mitchell and Jacobs conquered Burwell and Taylor, 6—4, 6—3; Gill and Smith downed Coe and Goubeau, 6—2, 6—2, and Seely and Halstead disposed of Shore and Welsh, 6—3, 6—3.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.
DOUBLES.

QUARTER-FINALS—4:15 p. m., Deck and Seidell vs. Van Vliet and Finley; Smith and Gill vs. Halstead and Seely; 5 p. m., Mangan and Considine vs. Markey and Elliott; 5:15 p. m., Mitchell and Jacobs vs. Howard and Farrin.

Yacht Sailed by Adams Wins Test at Newport

Newport, R. I., July 7 (A.P.).—The yacht Yankee, sailed by Charles F. Adams, Secretary of the Navy, and the Weetamoe, Morgan-Nichols contestant for the right to defend the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, won the two observation races sailed today. The Yankee beat the Enterprise by 1 minute and 56 seconds. The Weetamoe led the Whirlwind in the race by 3 minutes and 27 seconds.

J. N. Buck Is Winner In State Chess Event

Lynchburg, Va., July 7.—John N. Buck, of this city, won the State chess championship in matches played July 3 and 4 at the Fairfax Hotel, Norfolk, securing the title without loss of a game. He made 4½ points out of a possible 5 in the final round, finishing a full point ahead of W. F. O'Hara, of Norfolk, the defending champion.

Two Fights Scheduled For Billy Strickler

Having joined the light-heavyweight ranks by adding 10 pounds in the last few months, Billy Strickler, young Washington boxer, has scheduled two bouts for the near future. The first is to be fought with "Reds" Barry, also of this city, tomorrow night in Hagerstown. The second, with "Socko" Trenaman, is scheduled on July 15 at Cumberland. Strickler, who will weigh about 168 pounds tomorrow night, holds a decision victory over Trenaman, the result of a bout last June 12.

THIRD FIGHT FOR LAMAR, GALLAGHER

Capital Heavies Are Rematched in Baltimore July 21.

A THIRD battle between the two Washington heavyweights, Marty Gallagher and Henry Lamar, has been scheduled for the night of July 21 in Carlin's Arena in Baltimore, it was announced last night by Jimmy Gallagher, brother of Marty, upon notification from Benny Franklin, the matchmaker.

In two previous bouts, Lamar has gained a draw and a decision, the last coming on May 12 in Baltimore, when he rallied in the tenth round of a fast fight. Four years ago they fought to a draw in eight rounds at Silver Spring.

Both fighters are now in training in Boston, their present headquarters. Marty, his brother says, recently scaled 197 pounds.

Since their last meeting each has won a fight, Gallagher scoring a technical knockout over Salvatore Ruggerillo, of Italy, and Lamar outpointing Mateo Osa, of Spain. Ruggerillo recently floored Vittorio Campolo, the giant Argentinian, for a count of four, but lost the bout on a knockout.

Heights, St. Joseph's Nines Prepare to Meet

The Columbia Heights Business Men's Association and St. Joseph's Athletic Club Nines will work overtime this week to prepare for their battle next Sunday at Griffith Stadium at 3 o'clock. The Saints are leading the race at present with the Heightsmen only a half-game behind. The winner will gain the top perch. The advance sale of tickets indicates that a large crowd will witness the contest.

Philadelphians Score In Tri-State Events

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., July 7.—John Benson, of the Quaker City Gun Club, of Philadelphia, made a straight run of 91 in the first annual shoot over the traps of the Tri-State Yacht Club at its rendezvous here today and was high gun with 98 breaks out of 100. Victor Emerson, chairman of the gun committee of the Essington, Pa., organization, ran second with 97 sure hits, and C. W. Kinsilla was third with 95 breaks.

William Strawbridge, of Philadelphia, won the five-mile sailing barge race. In the 50-yard dash for male swimmers Walter Nicholai outdistanced Edgar John, jr., of Buffalo, N. Y. In the 200-yard swim J. E. Morrison, of Philadelphia, was first. Rear Commodore George Ness won the rowing race.

Rest for Schmeling Ordered by Doctor

Berlin, July 7 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, who won the world's championship from Jack Sharkey on a foul last month, today was ordered by physicians to rest two or three months before resuming training.

The report of the physician, submitted to the German Boxing Commission, stated that Schmeling was suffering from varicocele of the right side as a result of the foul.

The report will be taken up by the commission tomorrow. According to the physician, Schmeling's injury is of such a nature that sporting authorities who read the report interpreted it to mean there would be no participation by the German fighter in a championship contest possibly until 1931, if then.

M. A. CHAMPS OUT OF NET TOURNEY

Jacobs Brothers Out; Mangan, Considine Are Favored.

WORD was received here yesterday that Eddie and Billy Jacobs, of Baltimore, will not defend their Middle Atlantic doubles championship in the 1930 tournament to be held starting Saturday on the courts of the Congressional Country Club.

Eddie, it was said, will at that time be performing in a Middle Western tournament, having gone through with the arrangements to play there several weeks ago.

With the 1929 title holders thus removed, Bob Considine and Tom Mangan, of Washington, face a fine opportunity to regain the crown they held during 1928. Most tennis observers concede that the Jacobs brothers are the strongest duo in Middle Atlantic doubles ranks and that the Capital pair could defeat them only through a complete form reversal or by something similarly out of the ordinary.

Considine and Mangan, however, are as supreme in the No. 2 position of M. A. rankings as the Baltimoreans are in No. 1. While they did not retain the M. A. title last year, they scored other notable triumphs. They captured the District of Columbia championship and the City of Washington championship.

Local Pair Seek Three Titles.

Last month Considine and Mangan again swept through the field of the City of Washington tournament. Now they are striving to keep the District of Columbia title in the tournament current at Edgemoor Club.

If they succeed in their present quest and then on to a Middle Atlantic victory they will have established a mark for other local netmen to shoot at for years to come.

Entries for the Middle Atlantic will close Friday at 6 p. m. with Robert E. Newby, 3216 Klingle road northwest. Among the entries expected besides that of Considine and Mangan are those of Majs. Van Vliet and Finley, Army champions; Ensigns Howard and Farrin, members of the Navy Leech Cup Team, and Clarence Charest and Larry Phillips.

Jacobs, Mitchell Entry Likely.

There is a possibility that Billy Jacobs will team up with Dooly Mitchell, Georgetown University ace. These two are playing together for the first time in the District tournament. If both are satisfied with the results, they may maintain the combination for Middle Atlantic competition.

The winners of the Middle Atlantic will be sent to the national doubles tournament at Boston, starting August 25.

Mandell Works Out 4 Rounds With Mates

Orangeburg, N. Y., July 7 (A.P.).—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, boxed for the second time today in preparation for his title defense against Al Singer in the Yankee Stadium July 17. The champion sparred four rounds with Ralph Lenny and Boby Risdon.

Mandell will increase his boxing daily and plans six rounds for tomorrow. He now weighs 138 pounds. He is expected to have trouble making the class limit of 135 pounds.

Young Sprinter Begins 1,300 Mile Canoe Trip

His route is by way of Kingston, Montreal and up the St. Lawrence to Lake Champlain, thence by the Erie Canal into the Susquehanna River.

good chance of repeating against Wagner's men. The use of this southpaw would better prepare the Nats for the Western trip, which opens with a twin bill in Detroit Saturday and which calls for two more double-headers in Cleveland and one in Chicago.

Johnson Frowns On Exhibitions.

Manager Connie Mack, of the Athletics, is so hot on the trail of the almighty dollar, that in the opinion of Skipper Johnson, of the Washington crew, he is taking big chances on sacrificing his team's pennant chances. This morning, the Mackmen left here for Springfield, Mass., for an exhibition game. It will net possibly $2,000 but could, very easily, cost the Philadelphia team thousands of dollars provided Al Simmons, Mickey Cochrane or Jimmy Foxx happened to get injured during the so-called contest.

Then, again, Johnson believes that with summer here and many doubleheaders listed the regular league games give the Athletics sufficient work and that it is much better for a team to let its players enjoy these few and far between short periods of respite.

"As long as I am manager of the Washington team," Johnson remarked, "I'm going to urge President Griffith to book none of these exhibition things for any off dates which we might happen to draw. They don't pay any money and it may cost a lot in the way of injuries, while they also prove doubly hard on the men, who have plenty to do to go through the regular schedule at top speed."

Manager Walter Johnson had in mind using Adolph Liska on the hill against the Red Sox tomorrow, but the young subway-ball hurler advised his boss tonight that, for some unaccountable reason, his salary arm is sore. Trainer Mike Martin is working on the wing, but it is not expected that Liska will be ready to pitch for several days.

Drowning Blasts Ambition Of Lassman, College Hero

N. Y. U. Captain Was Destined for Great Career in Ring.

AL LASSMAN.

HARRISON, Me., July 7 (A.P.).—The death of Alfred E. Lassman, 24, former New York University football captain and intercollegiate boxing champion, whose body was recovered early today from Long Lake, was due to accidental drowning, according to Medical Examiner Dr. Irving Mabry, of Bridgeton.

Lassman, whose home was at Brighton, Mass., was spending two weeks with "Izzy" Zarakov, former Harvard baseball captain, at latter's cottage. He went out on the lake alone in a canoe Sunday afternoon. An hour and a half later the frail craft was found floating, upside down, in the rough water. Dragging operations were started and twelve hours later the body was recovered.

The noted athlete's teammates, Leonard Grant, former New York University captain, and John Nemick, who will captain the team next fall, said Lassman was an expert swimmer and boatman.

Dr. Mabry said it was possible Lassman suffered a shock brought on by an old football injury.

Prize Ring Fame Was Lassman's Goal.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Death finally has ruled that the great ambition of the finest and gamest young athlete college sports ever developed can never be fulfilled.

Al Lassman, drowned yesterday in Long Lake, in Maine, was a blazing, raging tackle on a football field, a mighty stroke in his prep school crew at Rindge Tech High, in Cambridge, Mass., an exceptional baseball player and all-around athlete, but greatest of all was his ability in a prize ring.

Six feet four inches tall, 225 pounds of brawn and speed, Lassman was tabbed for the battle pits long before he came to New York University in the fall of 1925 to develop into the greatest tackle, but the most unfortunate as well, in the history of powerful Violet machines. He was not a natural football player for all his great strength, courage and stamina, but he was a born fighter.

Earned Soubriquet Of "T.N.T."

They dubbed him "T. N. T." for the way he blasted a line apart, but the nickname fitted him better in the ring. While still in prep school and only 17 years old, he sneaked away one night from Cushing Academy on the excuse that his mother was ill and fought in the national amateur championships in Boston. He was the sensation of the tournament, though he lost out in a late round to a far more experienced opponent. He had a terrible time explaining to the principal of his school how he acquired a black eye visiting his sick mother.

In intercollegiate competition he was a still greater sensation. He won the intercollegiate title in his sophomore year and rarely did a rival last through to hear the bell for the end of the first round. He had a natural short left hook of tremendous power. Something like the famous punch of Jim Jeffries, was amazingly fast for such a big man, an instinctive boxer and fighter. Every big league fight manager in the business camped on his trail and he was offered as high as $10,000 to sign a contract and quit school.

First Accident Was Fractured Ankle.

Then the first of a series of accidents that finally left him a semi-cripple overtook Lassman in 1927, his junior year at New York University. He fractured an ankle and the break healed slowly. He was told to choose between boxing and football for fear of another injury. He was elected captain of his team and chose football.

Late in the second half of the next to the last gridiron battle of his college career against Carnegie Tech, Lassman suffered a second injury that all but caused his death then. Undoubtedly it contributed to his end in Long Lake, where he had gone for a paddle in a canoe while visiting friends at Camp Zakelio, where he had been a counselor.

A drastic operation was performed in 1929 to relieve the pressure and clots on his brain but it was not entirely successful. He waited in the darkness of his hospital room for the full use of his left side to return and the buzzing to go out of his head.

One day he struggled into the corridor from his room and tested the left hook on a phantom opponent. The doctors shook their heads. He laughed at them.

"Maybe I'm not rugged any more," he said with a twisted grin, "but I'm still no creampuff. I'll fool you all. You'll be buying ringside seats yet to see me fight."

But he never did.

The night before his last football game he sat across the table and talked of his ambitions.

"My folks haven't much money," he said, "and it's been hard to give me an education. There's a red-checkered tablecloth in the kitchen and some day, after my first big fight, I'm going to pack a bag with dollar bills, walk in on them, and dump it on that cloth. They never saw that much money before. That's why I want to fight."

He never did that either.

Youngblood, Successful D. C. Coach, Goes to Coast

Fine Record Left Behind by Schoolboy Instructor.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

GEORGE YOUNGBLOOD, boys' director of athletics at the Stuart Junior High School and a leader among local sport promoters, has severed his connections with the local school system and departed for the West Coast, where he has several offers to affiliate with athletic departments in universities there.

Youngblood is better known here as a coach of coaster teams, although he has made an enviable record in several other branches of sport as a coach, principally track and baseball. His latest achievement was to carry his Stuart team to within one point of winning the annual inter-junior high field and track meet.

Youngblood is an Englishman by birth. He was born at 6 Finborough road, London, England, in 1885, and played his first organized game of soccer on the Malpas Road School team of the London County Council, in 1896. He later attended St. Marks college in England.

He first attracted attention here in 1924 when he coached the Blow School team to the oResedale division championship and the eastern title also, despite the fact that the Blow youngsters were of the sixth grade age while they were competing against seventh and eighth grade boys.

Coached Blow Nine To Championship.

Youngblood proved that he had natural ability as a coach when he took the Blow School youngsters in hand in the spring of 1925 and coached them to the city championship in the elementary school baseball series. This feat caused quite a stir, as many had claimed that Youngblood had an advantage in coaching soccer since he had learned the game in England, but by winning the baseball title he discounted this.

In the spring of 1926 Youngblood was employed by the Municipal Playground Department and that summer he organized and coached the Plaza Track Team which was barely nosed out by the Georgetown Team by a point and a half for The Washington Post Cup offered to the winning team.

Before leaving the Playground Department Youngblood won six elementary school city championships and coached many other teams to challenging positions in soccer, track, baseball and basket ball.

In 1925 when soccer was first organized here for unlimited teams, Youngblood was one of the pioneer promoters and his Walford Soccer Team won the city championship for three straight years.

Met With Success In Junior High.

He entered Junior High work three years ago and in that time has developed outstanding teams in several branches of sports. Many high school stars of today received their first important instruction from Youngblood on the playgrounds and in junior high competition.

When Youngblood left he was undecided just which offer he would accept in the West or whether he would stay more than a year. He is particularly interested in learning the physical education methods used in the West and stated that he may

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

FANNING TO AVOID HEAT.

IT is known that fans promote comfort in hot weather by forcing hot air away from the body and replacing it with some that is cooler. It is also known that when the atmosphere is hotter than body temperature, fanning causes discomfort. On the theory that the skin temperature hangs around 95, the advice is given to cease fanning when the atmospheric temperature goes a little above 90.

Studies made by Dr. J. J. Bloomfield and others of the public health service show that the skin can be heated to a level considerably above 95. Under such circumstances fanning will promote comfort even though the atmospheric temperature is around 100. Bloomfield used very delicate instruments to record the temperature of different parts of the skin under different circumstances. He and his associates found that when a man stands in front of a furnace; and the radiant light and heat strikes squarely against the skin of the forehead, that integument may register a temperature above 110. The radiant heat that strikes the skin with full power is variously disposed of. Much of it is reflected. Some of it is absorbed. Some is carried away by the blood in the underlying blood vessels. Some is conducted to adjacent skin; and some piles up as heat in the local skin.

Bloomfield and his associates made many experiments to discover what parts of the skin heat most readily; how hot the skin can get; what are the effects of covering the skin with different kinds of cloth; what effect has hard work on the part of the exposed person; what is the influence of hot and cold atmospheres, dry and wet airs, good and bad ventilation.

The report now in hand shows that standing in front of a hot fire causes the exposed skin to become very hot, presumably, exposure to hot sunlight has the same effect. The exposed skin may be very hot even though nearby skin is fairly cool. The blood in the exposed skin is not equal to the job of cooling it to the general level of the skin temperature. Even though the atmosphere is cool or cold the exposed skin may become very hot.

The studies are being continued. It is hoped to learn something about the relation of uneven skin heat to pneumonia and some other infections. Incidentally, they may learn something about the good effects of radiant heat in rheumatism, neuralgia and neuritis.

WHOOPING COUGH.

Mrs. J. writes:

1. Is whooping cough catching?
2. Is it catching only when the person who has it coughs?
3. If a person has had it about five weeks is it wise to continue keeping my child away from the person who has it?

REPLY.

1. It is highly contagious for about two weeks and mildly contagious for about three more weeks.
2. That is probably true during the last three weeks but not so during the earlier two weeks.
3. The time limit of isolation is about up.

BUCK ROGERS, 2430 A. D. — Escape Foiled — By Phil Nowlan and Dick Calkins

I HAD SUBDUED THE TWO MUTINEERS, BURK AND TALLAN, BUT BEFORE I COULD DRAG THEM BACK TO THE ROCKET SHIP, ILLANA AND GLURVA RETURNED WITH THE ROYAL GUARD AND—THEY PINNED ME DOWN WITH FORCE RAYS.
SO THIS IS A SAMPLE OF MARTIAN GRATITUDE! ILLANA, I SAVED YOU FROM THE TIGER MEN AND—— TO THE TOWER WITH HIM!
BUT THE BARS OF MY CELL WERE MADE TO RESIST MARTIAN MUSCLES, NOT THOSE OF EARTH MEN.
THEY CAN'T KEEP ME IN HERE. ONE MORE WRENCH AND I'LL BE FREE!
HEY! LOOK OUT! HE'LL GET AWAY!
THE KING WANTS TO SEE HIM!
LET GO OF ME!
AS I WAS IN THE VERY ACT OF LEADING FOR FREEDOM——

AUNTIE BLOSSOM, GAZE ON THE SUCCESSFUL HEIR TO THE GREAT CODA FORTUNE! HE IS DUE TO RECEIVE YOUR CONGRATULATIONS.
THAT'S JUST WONDERFUL FOR ALL OF US, SKEEZIX! I'M SO GLAD.
THE ATTORNEYS ARE ARRANGING WITH MME. OCTAVE SO THAT SKEEZIX GETS THE VALUABLE BRAZILIAN FORESTS AND $300,000 IN CASH. SHE GETS THE SHIPPING INTERESTS AND EVERYBODY WILL BE HAPPY.
IT IS REALLY SETTLED THEN.
SO YOU WANT TO KNOW WHAT I MEANT? MERELY THIS—THAT YOU MAY NOT HAVE BEEN BORN WITH A GOLD SPOON IN YOUR MOUTH BUT SOMEONE IS ABOUT TO PUSH ONE IN.
I KNOW! YOU MEAN CASTOR OIL!

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

HEDRICK CASE OPENS TODAY IN ARLINGTON

Judge Browning Expected to Hear Charges Faced by Supervisor.

GLOTH WILL PROSECUTE

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy announced last night that he would not sit at Arlington County today when Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, from Arlington District, is scheduled to appear in court to answer the malfeasance in office charge recently brought against Hedrick by the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County. It is believed that Circuit Judge W. S. Browning, from Orange, Va., will hear the case.

The case having spread over the county like none other in recent years, court officials, in anticipation of a record crowd when court opens at 10 o'clock today, have made provisions for a record crowd.

The case grew out of a petition which was filed with Judge McCarthy, in which the court was asked to cite Hedrick into court to show cause why he should not be removed from office for malfeasance in connection with the installation of water and sewer connections in the Waycroft subdivision owned and developed by the Arlington Investment Corporation, of which Mr. Hedrick is a director.

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth will be assisted in the prosecution by Attorney Burnett Miller, of Culpeper, Va., who has been employed by the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County.

Hedrick will be represented by Attorney Wilson Farr, Commonwealth's Attorney for Fairfax County. There was no indication last night that either side will ask for a continuance.

The action taken by the Organized Women Voters has caused a split in their ranks with the organization of a group headed by Mrs. Mary Morris Lockwood, which has rallied to the support of Hedrick.

Considering the question of a change of local government which the Arlington County Bar Association might study, President Amos C. Crounce at the meeting of the association held yesterday announced the appointment of the following committee to study the question and make a report at the August meeting: Walter U. Varney, chairman; Harry R. Thomas, W. Thomas French, Hugh Reid, and Lawrence Douglas.

President Crounse was appointed to represent the local Bar Association at the annual convention of the Virginia State Bar Association which meets at Old Point Comfort, Va., August 7, 8 and 9.

J. Claude Ives will be installed as noble grand of Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., at the meeting to be held in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon tonight. Other officers to be installed are: Roy Leary, vice grand; Thomas S. O'Halloran, secretary; C. P. Heins, financial secretary, and Walter Huffman, treasurer. The ceremonies will be conducted by C. E. Butler, deputy grand master, of Sarepta Lodge, of Alexandria.

The changing of the method of reading the gas meters by the Rosslyn Gas Co. and which has caused much comment in Arlington County has been explained by an official of the company.

As explained by one of the company's officials, the meters in the county are now being read from the Washington office direct by a force of men which comes into the county at the end of the month instead of the middle of the month as heretofore. The only change in the bill as presented to the consumer is that it does not give the gross amount. It provides the rate of $1.50 per 1,000 cubic feet if paid within fifteen days. Where bills are not paid within that time the rate is $1.60 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Clarence Brown, pleading guilty to a charge of violation of the prohibition laws, was held for the action of the grand jury by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas. Bond was fixed at $500.

The monthly meeting of the ladies' auxiliary to the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department will be held tonight in the Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock. There being many matters of local interest, all members are asked to attend.

Mrs. W. L. Turner has been elected president of the Piedmont Chapter, American War Mothers. Other officers are Mrs. George Lester, vice president; Mrs. George B. Fadely, treasurer; Mrs. Samuel Styles, recording secretary; Mrs. T. T. Taylor, corresponding secretary; Mrs. M. F. Bean, custodian of records, and Mrs. C. N. McGroaty, historian.

The monthly meeting of the Community Club, of the Ballston Presbyterian Church will be held tomorrow night at the church at 8 o'clock.

The Ashton Heights Woman's Club will hold a combined business and social meeting tonight at the clubhouse at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to attend.

Confessions Magazine Tale Wins Wife Divorce

Cumberland, Md., July 7 (A.P.).—Too much publicity for his affairs of the heart brought Mrs. Esther Fleagle a divorce from her husband, Vonder Smith Fleagle, in a decree based on a story written by the man for a confessions magazine, in which he outlined his love affair with a neighbor's wife.

The manuscript of the "confession" was admitted as evidence. It also was testified that Fleagle paid numerous visits to the home of his neighbor while the latter was absent. Another time he brought the neighbor's wife to his own home, and ordered his wife from the room. She said she watched the couple's love-making through a radiator opening. Mrs. Fleagle was given the custody of their five children.

Ill Health Leads Woman To Take Her Own Life

Shenandoah Junction, W. Va., July 7.—Mrs. O. T. Cross, wife of the Norfolk & Western telegraph operator here, took her own life at her home here Sunday afternoon by tying a window shade cord around her neck and strangling herself. The body was found by her husband returning from work. She left a note asking his forgiveness and explaining that she could no longer stand ill-health.

She was operated on four months ago at a Charlottesville Hospital, at first showing improvement but recently became ill again. She was a native of Charlottesville, and had been a resident here fifteen years, previously living in Basic, Va. The husband, one brother, one sister survive. The body was taken to Buchanan, Va., for burial Tuesday.

SCHOOL UNIT ELECTS IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

MANY TRAFFIC ARRESTS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County School Board met yesterday at Fairfax and reorganized for the coming fiscal year. Dr. F. M. Brooks, of Lee District, was unanimously reelected chairman of the board. John T. DeBell, of Centerville District, was elected vice chairman and divisional superintendent of schools. Wilbert T. Woodson was selected as clerk of the board.

The board authorized the employment of A. R. Sherwood, of Fairfax, to supervise the construction of the two-room addition to the present Fairfax School. This addition is to be constructed by day labor. The subcommittee of the board, which is in charge of this work composed of Dr. Brooks, Trustee F. Sheild, of Fairfax, and Superintendent Woodson, was authorized to draw upon the county school fund each week for the pay roll of the workmen and for the material used in construction.

The committee, composed of Trustees Joseph Murphy, of Dranesville District; Frederick Robinson, of the Town of Herndon, and Superintendent Woodson, has charge of the construction of the agricultural shop at Herndon and the Herndon and Cub Run Colored School and is authorized to advertise for bids for the erection of the buildings. They are given the power to award contracts and proceed with the construction of the buildings as soon as the titles to the land are cleared and vested in the school board.

Supt. Woodson stated to the board that the school census of Fairfax County his year shows a loss of $1.52' pupils since the 1925 census, and that this would mean that the appropriation for Fairfax County from the State department of education would be decreased approximately $12.0 a year, and that the county would not receive the allowance from the State on children 6 years old that were counted in the census. He suggested to the members of the board that they try to get the State Legislature to amend the State constitution so that the State school fund will be distributed on the basis of the number of pupils attending school the pervious year instead of on the basis of the five-year census. ttttt ttttt tdc eao shrd shrdl shrhh

Miss Edith Rogers, of Floris, secretary of the Fairfax County Pomona Grange, appeared before the school board in behalf of the Floris Grange, asking for the use of two rooms on the third floor of the Floris School as a meeting hall for the members of the grange, and also for a storeroom for its equipment. The board granted the grange the rooms so long as it did not interfere with school activities. A communication was read from the Floris School and Community League in which they requested a fire escape to be built on the schoolhouse there. The clerk was ordered to communicate with the State architect's office for his recommendation in regard to the mater.

The board authorized the employment of Mrs. Elsie Davis, supervisor of teachers at the State Teachers College in Fredericksburg, Va., as rural supervisor of white schools in Fairfax County for the next school term at a salary and travel allowance of $2,100. Mrs. J. H. Trice, secretary to Superintendent Woodson, was reemployed by the board at a salry of $95 a month. The board authorized the renewal of the contract of County School Mechanic H. H. Huffman on the same basis as last year.

The report of Miss Edith Thompson, rural supervisor of white schools last term, was read and filed. In this report she gave a survey of her work and made certain recommendations for the improvement of the school system in the county.

The board authorized the payment of the Forestville literary bond and interest, amounting to $1,360. The Dranesville account, from which this loan should be paid, is overdrawn at the present time, according to the report of the Fairfax County treasurer. A literary bond and interest amounting to $1,480 for the Lee-Jackson School was ordered paid out of the Falls Church District special fund. Bills for last month totaling $790.02 were ordered paid.

Charles Crump, of Mount Vernon District, reported to the Fairfax County police that his place of business, located at the junction of the Washington-Richmond highway and the Fort Hunt road, was broken into early Sunday morning and about $10 worth of merchandise had been taken. Police investigation showed that entrance had been gained to the store by tearing the boards from the side of the building and breaking the inside wall. The thieves left no clue as to their identity.

An automobile driven by Charles Limbrick, of the 600 block of Keyser place, Washington, sideswiped the car of B. L. Wilson, of Hampton Roads, Va., on the Washington-Richmond highway at Woodlawn. Both cars were badly damaged. Capt. Haywood Durrer, of the county road plocie arrested Limbrick on a charge of reckless driving. He was taken before justice of peace at Accotink where he was fined $10 and costs on the charge.

Other persons arrested by Capt. Durrer and tried before Justice Shepherd for reckless driving were: Fred Young, of Peckway, Pa., and Steve Saules, of Diltonville, Ohio, each were fined $10 and costs. Traffic Policeman Carl R. McIntosh arrested C. E. Johnson, of the 700 block of E street northeast, and J. Launce, of Georgia, for reckless driving on the Richmond-Washington highway. They were both fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace Shepherd at Accotink.

George E. Pfiater, of Bluemont, Va., was arrested by County Traffic Policeman A. W. Mills on the complaint of Frances Lowell, of New Hope, Pa., and Randolf Duffery, of Middleburg, Va., who claimed that Pfiater had been driving recklessly on the Lee Jackson highway between Aldie and Fairfax. The case was heard before Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman, at Fairfax, who fined him $15 and costs on the charge. An appeal was taken from this decision.

J. M. Sinegaski, of the 600 block of Princeton street northwest, Washington, was arrested by Traffic Policeman Louis L. Finks in the town of Fairfax for reckless driving. A fine of $15 and costs was imposed by Justice Chapman. Finks also arrested John S. Kendrzejeski, of Baltimore, in the town of Falls Church for reckless driving. Justice of the Peace John T. Molling, of Falls Church, imposed a fine of $10 and costs on the charge.

Fairfax County authorities are holding Mattie Dindlebeck, of Fairfax, and H. T. Jackson, of Clarendon, for investigation. The couple were arrested Sunday night by Policeman A. W. Mills in a car parked on the roadside between Fairfax and Fairfax Station. The police action was taken after a complaint had been made by the woman's husband.

Everett Mock, of Herndon, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Paul Herman for driving while drunk on the road between Harndon and the Leesburg pike He was taken before Justice of the Peace George Williams, at Herndon, and charged with the second offense of violation of State prohibition law. He is being held for the action of the grand jury at the September term of the circuit court.

The members of the Girls 4-H Club at Herndon will hold a party this evening in the Station Park at Herndon. The proceeds of this lawn party will be used to help meet the expenses of the girls in the club who will take the short training course this month at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, Va.

WATCHMAN'S DEATH PUZZLE TO OFFICERS

Several Indications Fail to Support Theory of Suicide.

AUTOPSY BARES LITTLE

Howard County, Md., officials yesterday declared that the death of Orion S. Gover, 65-year-old railroad crossing watchman of Jessup, Md., is as much a puzzle now as when he first was found lying in 3 inches of water in Deep Run Branch near his home Sunday.

An autopsy was performed yesterday in an effort to determine cause of death, but revealed no marks of violence and that little water had been taken into the lungs.

According to State's Attorney James Clark, of Ellicott City, there are several items of evidence which would tend to show suicide, but there are a number of angles which the State's attorney would like to have cleared up. The extreme shallowness of the water where the body was found is one of the chief disconcerting notes in the suicide theory.

Another angle the State's attorney wishes to clear up is the whereabouts of a shotgun the man is said to have taken with him when he disappeared last Tuesday. He left a note in his home, which told the family not to "waste much money on my burial," and his hat and coat were found hanging on a stick nearby the place where the body was found.

An inquest will be held within a few days, according to Justice of the Peace Howard U. Gosnell, of Savage, Md., who is acting coroner.

Merchant With Poker Beats Off Bandit Trio

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., July 7.—Joseph S Bloom, Tilmenton, Md., merchant, surprised three robbers ransacking his home last night and beat off their attacks with a poker. The trio, however, escaped by leaping from an upstairs window, but not until one had been wounded by Bloom.

A posse of 50 men scoured the countryside throughout the night, but failed to find any trace of them. The robbers got nothing of value.

Williamsport, Md., Man Killed in Pennsylvania

Hagerstown, Md., July 7.—G. Hauer Ditto, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Ditto, Williamsport, Md., was killed in an accident at Little Washington, Pa., according to word received here today.

Ditto was killed when hit by a truck yesterday. He was employed by the Tri-State Construction Co. and was engaged in driving trucks for the company.

ALEXANDRIA TO AID IN STATE CAMPAIGN

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Carroll Pierce, chairman of the Alexandria committee for the membership campaign of the Virginia State Chamber of Comerce, has named fifteen local men on this work, and the movement will be launched at 8:30 o'clock this morning with a breakfast at the George Mason Hotel, when the speaker will be Lawson H. Cooke, general secretary of the State body.

The local appointments are Carroll Pierce, general chairman; Harry Hammond, secretary and treasurer and general manager of the Mutual Ice Co.; D. C. Book, manager of the J. C. Penney Co.; James Armstrong, president of the Armstrong Lumber Co.; Clyde C. Lamond, sr., retired manufacturer; Joseph H. Newell, of the Newell-Cole Printing Co.; Joseph L. Everly, assistant manager of the B. Wheatley Co.; Clarence M. Wells, assistant cashier of the Alexandria National Bank; Chester G. Pierce, assistant cashier of the Citizens National Bank; W. L. Norford, proprietor of the Hotel Humphrey; Aubra N. Shuman, head of the Shuman Bakery Co.; Benedict Weil, of Weil Bros.; John Talley, of the Virginia Public Service Co.; Roger C. Sullivan, city treasurer, and Robert G. Whitton, assistant cashier of the First National Bank. C. Page Waller, who represents the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce on the board of directors of the Virginia State Chamber, has also been invited to be present.

The July supper and meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held at 7 o'clock this evening at the George Mason Hotel, when Dan S. Hollenga, the new business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, will be the speaker. All members have been urged to be present and greet the new chamber of commerce representative, as the two organizations have always worked in close affiliation, and the invitation was extended to Mr. Hollenga to address the club at this meeting prior to his arriving in the city from his former home in Petersburg, Va.

Plans will be made for a picnic meeting in August, and also the report of the State executive board meeting in Petersburg June 21 will be given by the president of the club, Mrs. Mary W. Troth.

The announcement has been made that all persons owing city taxes for the year 1929 must settle with the city collector on or before July 19, as on that date the lists will be closed for publication on July 25, and although payment may be made after that date, the list of first publication will remain unchanged.

There are approximately 120 names on the list, according to the city collector, and the amount due the city is approximately $31,000. The sale of delinquent property will not be held until August 4 next, and property may be withdrawn upon payment of taxes at any time up to date of sale.

The July term of the circuit court for this city, Judge Walter McCarthy presiding, convened yesterday, and the docket was called and cases set for trial.

Raymond Clapper, Washington division manager of the United Press, will be the speaker at the luncheon meeting today of the Rotary Club, with the recently elected president, Judge William S. Snow, presiding.

Vernon Slaughter will present the report of the International Rotary convention in Chicago. Entertainment will be by Fred Petitt, Alexandria's Al Jolson.

Leroy E. Peabody left on Sunday for Rochester, N. Y., where he will pass a week as consultant to the Monroe Regional Planning Board. Mr. Peabody is an economist of the Bureau of Public Roads and was appointed by Dr. Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the bureau, to advise and assist the planning board in setting up a project to extend through a series of years.

Beetles Found in Maryland.

Hagerstown, Md., July 7 (Special). That western Maryland may be included in the heavily infested quarantine area was indicated when Department of Agriculture scouts found seventeen Japanese beetles in gardens in Brunswick, Md. It was the largest number of beetles found thus far in western Maryland. This area is in the lightly infested area now.

HUSBAND ENJOINED FROM WIFE'S HOME

Court Orders Maryland Man Not to Molest Mate Who Seeks Divorce.

CRUELTY CHARGES MADE

An injunction restraining Grover Cleveland Hastings, an employe of the District government, from molesting his wife and children or entering their home at Washington Grove, Md., was issued yesterday in circuit court at Rockville by Judge Robert B. Peter.

The temporary injunction was issued upon the plea of the wife, Mrs. Jean Johnston Hastings, who is an employe of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and who is suing for a limited divorce, alleging cruelty. It restrains the defendant from "in any wise interfering with the possession of the plaintiff, her agents and servants of her house and property in Washington Grove, Montgomery County, pending the further order of this court."

Must Not Molest Children.

The injunction further restrains the defendant from "in any wise interfering with or molesting the plaintiff and interfering with the plaintiff's custody of the minor children and interfering with or molesting the said minor children, pending the further order of this court."

The wife is represented by Attorneys Thomas L. Dawson, Albert M. Bouic and Edward Peter, of Rockville.

In her petition for divorce Mrs. Hastings states that the marriage took place June 23, 1913, at Philipsburg, N. J., and that there are five minor children, one girl of 13 years being permanently blind. She charges that for some years the defendant had treated her with great cruelty, harshness and brutality until his conduct became so unbearable that she was forced to leave him February 11, 1930.

Cruel to Children, Charge.

She further alleges that he repeatedly accused her of infidelity before their children and that he had used "vile and filthy language in reference to her" in the presence of their children. The wife charges that the defendant treated the children with great cruelty and at times struck them without just cause or provocation.

She alleges that she has purchased the home in Washington Grove and asks that she be given clear title to the property. The wife declares that her husband receives $1,860 a year from the District government, and that she draws a salary of $1,440 a year, which she claims is not sufficient to care for the children and herself. She asks alimony and permanent custody of the children. Temporary alimony of $90 a month was fixed by the judge pending hearings on the divorce suit.

Petersburg Man Dies Under Auto

Two Women Seriously Hurt When Machine Turns Over on Road.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 7.—An automobile accident yesterday on the highway near Blackstone, Nottoway County, 40 miles from Petersburg, fatally injured a man and seriously hurt his wife and another woman. The dead man is Clarence Edward Magee, 55. His wife was taken to her home, while the other woman, Miss Jennie Bridgeman, of this city, an aunt of Mrs. Magee, is now in the Petersburg Hospital.

There were eight occupants of the car, but the others escaped with minor injuries. The car turned turtle and Magee was caught under it, receiving injuries to his spine. Miss Bridgeman is suffering from serious injuries to the head and neck, while Mrs. Magee has serious scalp wounds.

Besides his wife, Mr. Magee is survived by four daughters, Misses Virginia, Ernestine, Doris and Audrey Magee; four brothers, L. S., W. S. and C. B. Magee, of this city, and J. B. Magee, of Hopewell, and three sisters, Mrs. R. M. Perkins and Miss Beulah Magee, of Petersburg, and Mrs. F. E. Coggins, of Roanoke.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DAILY

LUELLA, agog with joy, her face all smiles, rushed in from the garden.

"Whassamattah now?" I asked, thinking, perhaps, she had discovered gold in the back yard.

"Did you see him?" she asked.

"See him? See who?"

If she hadn't been so happy, I'd have thought the sheriff was coming over the back wall. Come to think of it, that's probably the way he'll make his entrance. There ought-a be broken glass a-top a brick wall.

"Come here," commanded Luella, beckoning me to the door. "See him?"

• • • •

MY eyesight must be failing. Even squinting, I couldn't see anybody.

"You must be suffering from an hallucination, Luella. An hallucination, I said—one of those six-cylinder words."

"Well, you must be blind if you can't see that beautiful bird," she gasped.

A bird. There I was looking for an aviator, or somebody like that, out of an airship.

"What kind of a bird is it?" I asked, hoping and praying there'd be no more of those mourning doves we rated last Sunday.

"Guess," said Luella.

"No use of my guessing. I don't know one bird from another, except the sparrows. You tell me!"

SHE remained silent, keeping me in suspense; so she thought. What I wanted to do was, get back to the third cup of coffee.

"Well?" I suggested, "what is it, an albatross?"

"It's the mate of our mourning dove," she thrilled, as if a great romance had come into her life.

"The mate of our mourning dove? How long have we owned it? Thought these were birds of passage?"

"You don't understand," went on Luella, giving me the low-down on bird lore. "When a bird takes up nesting quarters on anybody's place, the bird then becomes part of the household——"

So we own a mourning dove? A couple of mourning doves, since the mate has joined us.

"Well, well, well," I remarked, went over and sat down."

"I think you're awful," said Luella, sadly. "You don't take any more interest in the birds than, than ——"

• • • •

IN the midst of her stammering I caught her. "I take just as much interest in the birds as the birds do in me. Now, whattuhyuh got to say for yourself?"

She started to cry "These are turtle doves, and represent love in its highest form——"

"You just told me they were mourning doves."

"That's what they call 'em in America—mourning doves."

At night when I was coming home, late; I noticed the male of the species getting into his nest. What I believe we garnered is a night owl.

STATE RUM CONTROL URGED BY CANDIDATE

Mackey, Seeking House Seat From Virginia, Would Repeal Amendment.

HOOVER REGIME SCORED

Special to The Washington Post.

King George, Va., July 7.—Crandall Mackey, of Arlington County, candidate for Congress to fill the seat left empty by R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, Va., said here today that he was for temperance against prohibition. In his speech, Mr. Mackey said that the drys were the real friends of the bootlegger, the roadhouse, the speakeasy and the all-night cabaret. He stood, he said, for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the return to the States of the exclusive control of all prohibition laws.

Alluding to the Hoover reign in the White House, Mr. Mackey said that if the "Hoover and Prosperity" banners displayed durnig the last campaign were to be shown now, they would cause riots all over the country, and the bearers of them would be mobbed and killed. He struck at the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, declaring that the protective tariff would have destroyed England at home, and her trade with the world, if it had not been rooted out in time.

In his speech, Mr. Mackey attatcked Thomas R. Keith, one of his opponents for the Democratic nomination. Up to the day of his announcement he openly and publicly supported a bone dry candidate for Congress, Mr. Mackey said. He also said that Mr. Keith had invoked the memory of his colonial ancestry to help him get into Congress.

Services Are Set For Mrs. M. T. Robb

U. S. Official's Wife Will Be Buried in Cemetery at Herndon.

Funeral services for Mrs. Marjorie Thomas Robb, who died Sunday after an illness of several months, will be held tomorrow at her late residence in Herndon, Va., and burial will be in the Chestnut Grove Cemetery at Herndon.

Mrs. Robb is survived by her husband, Arthur Robb, of the Department of Justice; two daughters, Margaret and Emily Robb, of Herndon; three sons, Seymour and David Robb, of Washington, and Clarke Robb, of Herndon; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Thomas, of Peebles, Ohio, a sister, Mrs. Edgar Mann, of Portsmouth, Ohio, and two brothers, David Thomas, of Detroit, and Dr. A. P. Thomas, of Columbus, Ga.

Mrs. Robb was vice president at large of Herndon Chapter, Women's Christian Temperance Union, and president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Ingram Memorial Congregational Church in Washington. She was an active worker in civic and church affairs both in Herndon and in Washington.

Roosevelt to Take Part in Institute

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 7.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of New York, has accepted an invitation of Harry Flood Byrd, former Governor of Virginia, to take part in the fourth Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia.

Gov. Roosevelt will direct the open forum discussion on the morning of Saturday, August 9. He will also participate in the round table on "reorganization of State government" which will be conducted by former Gov. Byrd.

August 9 will be one of the big days of the institute, for Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd will attend that day and will be guest of honor at a reception at Monticello. Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia also will be present.

Gas Firm Head Denies Alexandria Acquisition

Reports that the Washington Gas Light Co. was negotiating for purchase of the municipal gas works in Alexandria are unfounded, George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., declared yesterday.

Mr. Wood said: "The Washington Gas Light Co. has made no overtures for the municipal plant in Alexandria and I am in a position to state that it will not make any overtures for that plant."

Man Uses Ice Pick To Slay Prisoner

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., July 7.—Stabbed to death with an ice pick in the hands of a fellow-convict, the body of E. L. Mason, 25 years old, prisoner at the State lime grinding plant near Staunton, was shipped late today to Richmond for burial.

Mason's alleged assailant, Hubert Fitzgerald, 25 years old, of Buena Vista, is held in the prison here in solitary confinement, pending the preferment of charges. Fitzgerald alleges that Mason stole a sum of money from him, the alleged theft throwing him into a rage and he stabbed Mason while the latter was lying on his cot. Mason died half an hour later.

Fitzgerald is serving a 16-year term for murder. Mason was serving ten years for assault. The stabbing occurred this morning. Mason was originally from near Chicago.

Red Forces Raid Blue Defenses

Special to The Washington Post.

Fort George C. Meade, Md., July 8. Though the red fleet failed yesterday in their war-time attack against the defenses of Baltimore Harbor, they continued to make small raids against blue forces at the Back and York Rivers. Attempts on the defenses at the rear of Fort Monroe were unsuccessful.

The Third Corps, detached from the Second Blue Army, was ordered to prevent the severance of the main rail lines between Baltimore and Washington. It will also operate offensively against any red force landing between the mouth of the Potomac River and Baltimore in the mimic war.

The Sixty-second Cavalry Division, which has been used for the protection of Washington since June 1, was assigned on July 6 to the additional task of preventing enemy landings between Annapolis and the mouth of the Patuxent River. The division will be concentrated on the Eastern Branch of the Anacostia River, near Suitland, Silver Hill and Benning.

Map Photographer With Byrd Resting

Capt. McKinley Will Soon Start Compilation of Antarctic Data.

Baltimore, July 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—"Recuperating" from the welcome accorded the Byrd Antarctic expedition, Ashley G. McKinley, map photographer with the party and former captain in the Army, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. William J. Boyd, at their home, the Pines on Severn.

Capt. McKinley has been with Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd almost constantly since the expedition which he headed reached New York and the reception they have received was described by Capt. McKinley as "more strenuous than mapping mountains."

By the middle of this month, Capt. McKinley said, he hopes to "stop playing and get down to real work," coordinating and compiling results of his work in Antarctica. Whether this will be done in New York or in Washington has not yet been decided. It is expected that representatives of the National Geographic Society and other groups will cooperate in the tremendous task of compilation, not only of results of his work, which was primarily aerial photography, but of work of the other scientists.

Liquor Charge Brings Padlock Order on House

Justice Jennings Bailey, of the District Supreme Court, yesterday granted a temporary "padlock" injunction against Apartment No. 10 in a building at 1919 Nineteenth street northwest, where, authorities charge, intoxicants had been sold by the tenants, Grady C. Mc'asson and Beatrice McGlasson.

The injunction was issued on the complaint of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Assistant United States Attorney Harold W. Orcutt.

Man Exonerated in Shooting.

A coroner's jury at an inquest held at the District Morgue yesterday morning exonerated Norman J. Milliner, colored, 44 years of age, of 1431 Thirty-fourth street northwest, in the self-defense shooting of Clifton Fleet, colored, 35 years of age, of 3248 Prospect avenue northwest, Saturday night.

COUNTY CHIEFS HIT IN INJUNCTION SUIT

Derwood Taxpayer Seeks to Prevent Advertising in Maryland News.

LAW VIOLATED, CHARGE

Suit to enjoin the county commissioners of Montgomery County from placing county advertising in the Maryland News, a county newspaper controlled by organization Democrats, was filed yesterday in circuit court at Rockville by Walter W. Mobley, Derwood taxpayer. The suit also seeks to enjoin the county treasurer, J. Forrest Walker, from making any payments to the newspaper for outstanding accounts from county advertising.

The bill of complaint filed by Attorneys Vivian Simpson, John E. Oxley, E. Barrett Prettyman and Harold C. Smith, of Rockville, alleges that three members of the board of county commissioners also are members of the board of directors of the Maryland News and that Maryland law forbids county commissioners from being officers of companies having contracts with the county.

The bill sets out that Mr. Mobley is a taxpayer, paying taxes on real and personal property and that he brings this suit for himself as well as for all other taxpayers similarly situated. It avers that Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, Lacy Shaw and Clagett C. Hilton, members of the board of county commissioners, are members of the board of directors of the Maryland News and that the plaintiff believes that Robert I. Hickerson, another commissioner, is a stockholder in the newspaper.

Plaintiff Cites General Laws.

The petition cites article 25, sections 17, 18 and 19 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, edition of 1924, volume 1, page 878, in support of the contention of the plaintiff:

"It shall not be lawful for any county commissioner during his term of office to hold, possess, purchase or acquire any share or interest in any agreement or contract made, entered into or concluded with any party or parties whomsoever, by the county commissioners of his county in their character and capacity as such commissioners, or to have, receive, enjoy or participate either directly or indirectly, in any of the benefits, profits or emoluments of any such agreement or contract.

"It shall not be lawful for any county commissioner, during the term of his office
